ROYAL MAIL STEAMERS.

SYDNEY, VIA NEW ZEALAND, TO LONDON.

The following splendid steamers are appointed to leave NEW ZEALAND for LONDON, calling at RIO JANEIRO, as follows (final port as arranged), sailing every four weeks:—

Steamer.	Tons Register.	Horse-power.	Date of Departure.
ARAWA	5026	5000	November 15
IONIC	4753	3500	December 13
COPTIC	4448	3000	January 10
TAINUI	5031	5000	February 7
DORIC	4744	3500	March 7

The above steamers are all built of steel, and have unequalled accommodation for all classes of passengers. The White Star steamers Ionic, Doric, and Coptic are the same that have established so high a reputation on the Atlantic and Japan and San Francisco services. Passengers will have an opportunity of seeing the many beauties of New Zealand scenery, and will escape the heat of the Red Sea passage. Every luxury and comfort supplied, and FARES booked through from Sydney to New York at the MOST REASONABLE RATES.

Special Return Tickets to London—First-class, £105; Second-class, £65.

For further particulars apply to DALGETY and COMPANY, Limited, Agents.

THE NEW ZEALAND SHIPPING COMPANY'S ROYAL MAIL LINE, between NEW ZEALAND and LONDON, calling at RIO DE JANEIRO, MADEIRA, and PLYMOUTH.

Steamer.	Tons Register.	Horse-power.	Sailing from N. Z.
Aorangi	4163	4000	Nov. 29
Rimutaka	4474	4000	Dec. 27
Ruapehu	4163	4000	Jan. 24, 1889
Kaikoura	4163	4000	Feb. 21, 1889
Tongariro	4163	4000	March 21

The above are all new steamers, built of steel, expressly for the [illegible] trade, and owned in the colony.

The passenger accommodation is replete with every modern convenience, and the dietary arrangement unsurpassed, all fresh provisions being carried in a frozen state. The homeward passages have hitherto been the quickest on record, and are not expected to exceed 36 to 40 days. By this route the intense heat of the Red Sea is avoided, and the magnificent scenery enjoyed of New Zealand, Straits of Magellan, Rio, and Madeira.

THE ADELAIDE STEAMSHIP CO.

MELBOURNE, ADELAIDE, PORT PIRIE, AND ALL SOUTH AND WEST AUSTRALIAN PORTS.

THIS COMPANY offers to intending passengers and shippers the quickest and most comfortable means of reaching Melbourne and Adelaide.

THE EXPRESS STEAMERS of this Company leave Sydney every SATURDAY, as under:—

From the Company's Wharf, Lime-street, off Erskine-street.

S.S. ADELAIDE	SATURDAY, Nov. 10	1 p.m.
S.S. SOUTH AUSTRALIAN	SATURDAY, Nov. 17	1 p.m.

These steamers have splendid saloon accommodation, make the PASSAGE to MELBOURNE in 12 HOURS less than any OTHER STEAMERS on the coast, and deliver cargo at Port Adelaide in 48 hours' less than any other steamer running to South Australia.

Passengers can be booked at the wharf.

STEAM TO WESTERN AND NORTHERN AUSTRALIA, Albany, Vasse, Bunbury, Fremantle (Perth), Derby, and all Western ports per S.S. ADELAIDE, on SATURDAY, connecting with S.S. ALBANY, leaving Melbourne for W. A. ports on November 17.

GOODS FOR SILVERTON AND BROKEN HILL, QUICKEST AND CHEAPEST ROUTE.

GOODS can be booked by these steamers through to Port Pirie, and forwarded thence by rail by the Company's Agents, if so instructed, or by shipper's own agents.

Goods shipped by Saturday's steamer reach Port Pirie the following Tuesday week, and are then within one day's rail journey of Silverton and Broken Hill. This route saves 80 miles of rail journey, and avoids break of gauge.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION HALL,

Corner of Pitt and Bathurst streets.

TO-NIGHT,
FIRST APPEARANCE of the beautiful, highly-gifted, and accomplished
MISS ADELAIDE DETCHON.

NOTICE.
In consequence of the non-arrival of personal luggage, musical instruments, and other effects, the first appearance of Miss ADELAIDE DETCHON was unavoidably postponed to THIS EVENING, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10.

TO-NIGHT, at 8.15, FIRST APPEARANCE OF
MISS ADELAIDE DETCHON.

Under the patronage and in the presence of LADY CARRINGTON and Suite.

"She is like nobody else, and she need not be like anybody else: she is beautiful, winsome of manner, full of soul, abundant in humour, vivid, sensitive, and sweet voiced. And, beyond all these, she has that indefinable quality which, for lack of a better term, is called magnetism."—Australasian.

TO-NIGHT, 8.15, FIRST APPEARANCE.

"MISS ADELAIDE DETCHON imitates the notes of the 'Bob o' Link' and other birds with charming effect."

"It was as the warble of a bird,
So soft, so sweet, so delicately clear
That finer, simpler music ne'er was heard;
The sort of sound we echo with a tear,
Without knowing why, an overpowering tone,
Whence melody descends as from a throne."
Lord Byron.

TO-NIGHT, 8.15,
FIRST APPEARANCE of
MISS ADELAIDE DETCHON.

In person, she is a material realisation of her wonderful art, delicately modelled, but possessed of physical health and the intellectual joyousness of the creative artist who has seen the dreams of her solitude welcomed with delight by the world. Her face is peculiarly beautiful, with dark, arched eyebrows, strangely emotional eyes, and a small sensitive mouth, which seems specially formed for uttering the sweetest music.

TO-NIGHT, 8.15, FIRST APPEARANCE OF
MISS ADELAIDE DETCHON.

"She may also claim to be a ventriloquist, for the ease with which she gives the man's gruff street cry, its faint echo, the derisive imitation by a street boy, and the lisping repetition by an infant in the cradle."
"From grave to gay she turns at will."
"The shaky, querulous tones of the old blind grandmother, knitting in the chimney corner, the pleading accents of the lover at the window, the arch responses of the girl at the wheel, were all most beautifully and truthfully given."

TO-NIGHT, 8.15,
FIRST APPEARANCE of
MISS ADELAIDE DETCHON.

Her exquisitely humorous sketch,
"AN OLD MAID'S OPINION OF LOVE," keeps her audience in "convulsions of laughter."
"she fairly electrifies her audience."

TO-NIGHT, 8.15, FIRST APPEARANCE of
Mr. EDWIN BENDING,
the Popular English ORGANIST, from the Royal Albert Hall, London.
His performances upon the BEAUTIFUL MUSTEL ORGAN, which he is the first to introduce to Australia, are pronounced by the Argus and Melbourne press as "Masterly," "Brilliant," and "Wonderful," and have met with a MOST ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION at the hands of the Melbourne public.

TO-NIGHT, 8.15,
FIRST APPEARANCE of
Mr. EDWARD OWEN,
A PRIZE SINGER of the Welsh National Eisteddfod, the Musical College of Wales, and the Royal Academy of Music, London. He is a concert vocalist of repute, with a most sympathetic baritone voice of great range, excellent quality, and unusual cultivation.
Box plan open at W. H. Paling and Co.'s.

STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS FOR CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH.

CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.

The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. Its well-earned extensive sale has induced SPURIOUS IMITATIONS, some of which in OUTWARD APPEARANCE so closely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. The proprietor therefore feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.

Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—

1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist Walworth, Surrey, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words "John Steedman, chemist, Walworth, Surrey," printed thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with two EE'S.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.

Sold in packets by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, at 1s, 1½d, and 2s 9d each. Sold in Sydney by ELLIOTT BROTHERS.

TONGA,

a never-failing specific for Neuralgia, commented on in a leading article in the LANCET in reference to cases tried by such eminent medical men as Sydney Ringer, M.D., William Murrell, M.D., M.R.C.P., C. Bader, Esq., Ophthalmic Surgeon to Guy's Hospital, &c., &c., testifying to the marvellous relief and unfailing success invariably afforded by TONGA in the treatment of the most severe cases of NEURALGIA.

This marvellous remedy, unlike opium and other anodynes, produces its specific action on the NERVES without giving rise to any derangement of the digestive or other organs.

The only genuine one is prepared for the proprietor by Messrs. ELLIOTT BROTHERS, Limited, Sydney; and is obtainable from all chemists, in Australia and New Zealand, at 2s 6d per bottle.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January 12, 1866.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure for cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution: None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. FOR GENERAL USE IN PLACE OF SUGAR.

SACCHARIN.

One Pound equals about 280lb. of Cane Sugar.

One of the chief uses of SACCHARIN will be in the enrichment of the diet of those persons who are forbidden the use of sugar, and who will now be able to enjoy a sweet flavouring in the various articles of diet formerly denied them. It is particularly applicable to those suffering from diabetes, gout, rheumatism, dyspepsia, obesity, and liver complaints, or any form of disease where the use of sugar is objectionable. It cannot "create acidity," as sugar often does, since it is non-fermenting and antiseptic—characteristics of very great importance.

PROSPECTUS
COMPANY TO PURCHASE A FREEHOLD ESTATE IN CITY OF PERTH, W.A., containing
About Twenty-two Acres,

ESTATE OF ABOUT TWO HUNDRED ACRES IN SOUTH PERTH,
Subdivided into about 800 Blocks, almost adjoining the City.

Directors will be elected at first meeting, which will be held in about a month.

These two valuable properties are placed under offer for the extremely low sum of £6750, on easy terms. The extra capital is being raised to prepare for contingencies, improvements to estates, or other expenses which may arise.

It is estimated that not more than 8s or 10s will need to be called up.

The 22 acres of City Land will subdivide into over 5000 selling feet, with valuable water frontages, and should readily realise £6000.

The Suburban Land is already subdivided into about 800 quarter-acre blocks, and should realise, at a low figure, £8000.

This estimate of £14,000 is based on present selling price of the land, and if the property be held for a couple of years it is estimated double that price could be realised in subdivision.

These properties have been inspected and selected as the most eligible in and around Perth, and investors may rely on it that no more genuine venture has ever been placed before the public of New South Wales or adjoining colonies.

No promoters' shares are to be issued, every share ranking alike as to calls, &c.

The properties are placed under offer to Mr. G. Dyson, who has inspected them on behalf of the proposed Company, for the sum of £6750, and are being sold under circumstances highly favourable to the proposed Company.

The expenses of the company need be very small, as Mr. G. Dyson, who has had considerable experience in disposing of land in subdivision, and economically managing estates, will, if the company feel disposed to accept his offer, place his services and offices at their disposal for a nominal sum, and a commission on profits. To show his faith in the concern, he is prepared to take from 500 to 1000 shares, should that number be available.

The company will be a terminating one, and no other properties can be purchased without express sanction of the shareholders.

The 22 acres are in a good position right in the city, and have about 15 chains frontage to the Swan River; they are adjoining Government reserve, and close to another reserve for public gardens. It is about 10 minutes' walk from the Town Hall, and can be approached either by macadamised road or water. Every block of land between this and the centre of the city, with the exception of Government reserves, which almost surround this estate, is laid out in town lots, and not an acre can be purchased at the price this is being offered at. As will be seen by the official plans, very few blocks of land available for subdivision can be purchased in the city of Perth, and already such blocks are being readily bought up by Melbourne and other speculators, and it may safely be said that in a few months blocks of land situated as this is, and of such an area, will be eagerly sought after, but unobtainable except at a very much higher figure.

What will 20 acres of city land be worth in a few years? This Company will do well to secure it, and obtain a gift while there is a chance.

The 800 quarter-acre blocks of land are almost in the city, being but a few chains from the boundary. It has been carefully inspected, and is without doubt a valuable estate, being nearly all elevated and overlooking the city, and the beautiful waters which separate it from the city. It has frontages to two main roads, and therefore is very accessible. It is very advantageously subdivided into quarter-acre blocks, pegged out, and cleared. The Company will not therefore lose an acre of land for streets, or be put to expense in regard to subdivision. Estimating each block, which is 66ft. frontage by 165ft. deep, at £10 (which is a low estimate), this estate alone would realise £8000, being more than the cost of the two properties now under offer.

That the progress of Western Australia has been slow up to the present period is not to be wondered at when the circumstances are looked into. That such a fine colony has remained so long, as it were, a blank, is a lasting disgrace to the British nation, or those who have had the controlling power of its destiny. Languishing for want of population and capital to develop it, the wonder is that the population has not decreased. Hampered and restrained from borrowing the necessary capital to carry on any public works, it is somewhat a miracle that its handful of people have not before now openly rebelled, and claimed the right to manage their own affairs. Almost worn out by waiting for the turn of the tide, the people of that colony have not yet fully realised what is within their grasp—Responsible Government, or a constitution similar to our own. Will anyone who has watched the progress of our own colony since we were granted a right to manage our own affairs deny what will be the result of that boon to Western Australia? What will be the result of the first loan after Responsible Government is granted? Will it not have the effect of rapidly increasing the population, and stimulate numbers of slumbering industries? It will cause such a rise in the value of property that no such field as Western Australia will present itself for the capitalist. The day Responsible Government is granted to Western Australia will be the most joyful one ever witnessed there. That Responsible Government is within its grasp is a certainty. It is confidently expected there that within the next few weeks, or months at most, everything will be settled.

The railway from Perth to Albany is almost completed. The Midland Railway is again commenced, and German immigrants are to settle on land eminently suitable for vineyards, orchards, and agriculture. The Goldfields are no myth, but an encouraging and promising reality. The latest goldfields are only a few days by good road from Perth, and machinery is now being erected on the field. Numbers of people are wending their way daily to them, and it is anticipated that in a few months a great rush will take place.

All these developments will assuredly cause a marvellous rise to take place in the value of land, and those who secure the picked blocks now will have chances which no others can have.

Early application for Shares is necessary, as a number are already applied for.

Shares will be allotted in order of application, and all money returned within one month from date of prospectus if required number of Shares are not applied for.

The only expenses the Company, if formed, will be put to are those attending the formation, which will be very light.

Plans showing positions of both blocks will accompany Prospectus, and any other information will readily be given at the office of the Brokers,

This property having an area of five acres, has been well known for many years as the source of several rich finds of gold, but its proper development has been prevented by litigation and other causes. Arrangements having now been completed for its purchase and amalgamation with the adjoining block, the property is offered to the public on terms which must be considered as very liberal when its great prospective value is borne in mind.

Attention is requested to the following reports, which contain full details of the work that has been done, and fully justify the expectation that the property will become very remunerative in a short time. The promoters ask a very small amount in cash, relying upon dividends to recoup them for the expenses and trouble incurred in obtaining possession of the property.

REPORTS.

Sydney, March 17th, 1886.

The Proprietors of the Shipton Mine.

Gentlemen,—In accordance with your instructions I visited the Shipton Mine, situated on the western flank of Amelia Hill, Upper Temora, having an area of 360 x 255 ft. I find that a large amount of gold has been obtained from the pipeclay, which will most likely be found to traverse the diorite existing under most of the property. Had this formation been systematically followed I believe rich deposits of gold would have been discovered, and it is highly desirable that such work should be carried on in a vigorous manner. The yield of gold has not been fully recorded, but sales have been made to the local banks of 1474oz. 4 dwt. In addition to this valuable specimens were purchased by the Government, one of which was presented to the Queen, the others being shown in the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London; so that we have a total of at least 1800oz. of gold obtained from this mine within a comparatively short distance from the surface.

The reef at the 130ft. level is 20in. in width for the 30ft. which has been worked; but if the shaft were sunk on the underlie I am satisfied the stone would improve at a greater depth, and I strongly recommend sinking 300ft. or 400ft. There is no water in the mine, and the deepest shaft contains the best stone. For these reasons, I can highly recommend the property as a fair and proper mining investment, and in every way a legitimate channel for the outlay of capital.

PHILIP DAVIES,
Mining Engineer.

Sydney, October 24, 1888.

Messrs. Bell and Henderson,

Gentlemen,—Having been thoroughly acquainted with the Shipton and Cross Reefs for some years, I beg to submit the following report:—

These properties are held under gold-mining leases, having an unexpired term of about thirteen years. They comprise an area of over five acres, having a length along the line of reef of about 700ft. A length of about 300ft. through the three leases has been worked to a depth of nearly 40ft., giving highly payable results exclusive of rich bonanzas, one yielding about 700oz. of gold from about 2cwt. of stone. At the 80ft. level another rich bonanza was found, giving several thousand pounds worth of gold. Two of the specimens (referred to in Mr. Davies's report), now on view at the Melbourne Exhibition, shown by the Mines Department, contain 258 and 48 oz. respectively. Only a very small portion of the reef from which these specimens were taken has been worked, the stone from which is now at grass ready for crushing. I am of opinion that the rich gold found at this level continues through the Cross Reef. The diorite formations generally have a strong resemblance to the celebrated Gympie Reefs in Queensland; the gold is of the same coarse character, is found in seams in the heart of the stone, and occasionally in rich patches and clusters. The walls of the lower level consist of green stone (diorite), and from the presence of detached green slate (altogether absent from surrounding formations) in the pipeclay formations, where very rich auriferous quartz was found, I am of opinion that a slate country will be met with at no great depth below the present workings, when the reef will considerably enlarge, and probably produce results similar to those at Gympie. I would recommend that the property be tested by a diamond drill to a depth of 600 or 700 feet, in order to gain accurate indications as to the best methods of carrying on future operations.

I may add that I have receipts for above 800oz. from the Shipton Claim, which were assayed and sold to the Mint and Bank of New South Wales, Sydney, in addition to the amounts referred to by Mr. Davies, the assay value being £4 1s per oz.

W. B. LUCAS.

REPORTS OF LOCAL PRESS.

Temora Herald, Oct. 2, 1881.—"Nothing found on Hawkins's Hill can compare with the gold discovered on Wednesday by Lucas, Moore, Penman, and others in the Upper Town. One specimen, which is not more than a foot in length, and a few inches thick, is estimated to contain 20lb. weight of good."

Temora Star, Dec. 17, 1881.—"Forty-two tons of stone from Lucas, Penman, and Co.'s stone from Upper Temora was crushed for 82oz."

Sydney Daily Telegraph, Oct. 19, 1885.—"A splendid find of gold has been made in the Shipton Claim, and was taken to the A. J. S. Bank to-day. It consisted of three parcels—one stone 20lb. weight, containing 5lb. weight of gold; another weighing 37lb., containing 25lb. weight of gold; also a bag containing 8lb. weight of gold. The same parties sold on Wednesday last £800 worth of gold."

Temora Independent, Jan. 18th, 1888.—"A number of rich specimens were shown us on Saturday last by Messrs. Penman and Bushell, of the Shipton Reef. One piece of quartz, which weighed about 3lb., had gold protruding from the stone as large as beans, and the gold evidently permeated the quartz. It is a matter of general regret that capital has not been brought to bear on this hill, in which some rich lodes are assuredly to be found."

Early application for shares is requested. Further information may be obtained, and specimens seen, at the office of the Brokers.

CHAPTER VII.

SAN REMO—THE TRACHEOTOMY.

Further Developments.—On arriving at San Remo on the afternoon of January 29 I found the Crown Prince looking fairly well, but much thinner. Dr. Schrader represented to me that Dr. Bramann was anxious to examine the illustrious patient for himself, and asked me to invite him to take part in our consultation the next day. Later in the day, having obtained the consent of the august patient, I called on Dr Bramann, and invited him to be present at the consultation on the following morning. He accordingly came, and I watched him make his examination. It was obvious that he had little or no experience in the use of the laryngoscope; but he tried to supplement his imperfect observations with the mirror by percussion of the larynx—a mode of examination which has been abandoned by modern physicians as utterly useless.

Inexperienced Laryngoscopists.—I may here take the opportunity of saying that as nothing is more irritating, even to a healthy throat, than attempts at laryngoscopic examination made by a 'prentice hand, I consider that I should have been amply justified in declining to allow the Crown Prince to be made the subject of such rudimentary efforts. Dr. Landgraf's examinations, as has been said, were sufficiently trying to the illustrious patient, but the throat at that time was comparatively well. When Dr. Bramann flashed his laryngoscope, so to speak, on the Crown Prince, matters were very different, and it was essential that every cause of irritation to the swollen and ulcerated parts should be as far as possible avoided. It can easily be imagined that the coughing and retching produced by awkward handling of the mirror would be in the highest degree mischievous to the diseased larnyx. This is so true that I myself have been, although quite unjustly, blamed for making too frequent examinations. Yet it is now actually made a ground of serious complaint against me, that I tried to prevent the future Emperor of Germany from being made a subject for the experiments of beginners! It was one of the most distressing features in this case that the patient's very importance, from a political point of view, tended to make regard for his personal feelings an altogether secondary consideration with many people. Had he been a private gentleman I should never have allowed him to be subjected to examinations which could be of no earthly use, and which there is too much reason to fear did positive harm. I may add, that no private patient I have met with would have submitted to them.

Urgent Symptoms.—On the morning of the 8th we found that his Imperial Highness had not had a very good night. The breathing was about the same. At the evening visit the illustrious patient said he felt very well. I sent word to Dr. Bramann that I should be glad if he would take part in the consultation the next morning.

Tracheotomy Decided On.—After seeing the Crown Prince we proceeded to discuss the situation. The disease had burst into renewed activity so suddenly, and the swelling had encroached on the breath-way to so great an extent in the course of a single night, that I thought there would be the gravest risk in postponing the establishment of an artificial passage even for 24 hours. Soon after 12 o'clock, having noticed that the difficulty of breathing was increasing, I informed Dr. Bramann that I thought it would not be safe to put off the operation much longer, and advised him to visit the illustrious patient again. After he had done so he proceeded to make arrangements for the operation, which was fixed for 3 p.m.

Shortly before that hour we all assembled at the Villa Zirio, and there was some debate as to whether chloroform should be administered. I am myself opposed to the use of this anæsthetic in such cases, as I think it increases the danger of the operation, and the pain of the incision can be almost entirely deadened by freezing the skin. Occasionally, in the case of a very nervous patient, I have found it necessary to administer laughing gas, followed by ether, but I never use chloroform. Dr. Schrader, however, explained to me that as Bramann had never performed tracheotomy without chloroform, it would try his nerve very severely to dispense with it in such a case as the present. I therefore urged the Crown Prince to consent to be anæsthised, and, after discussing the matter at some length, his Imperial said, "If you approve of it, Sir Morell, I will take chloroform."

The Operation.—When everything was ready, the Crown Prince passed through an adjoining room into his ordinary sitting-room, where it was arranged that the operation should be performed. The bed was placed opposite one of the windows, so that there was an excellent light. Bramann proceeded to give chloroform, but as soon as the Crown Prince had become unconscious, the administration was continued by Dr. Krause, whilst I kept my finger on the pulse at the left wrist. Shortly after Dr. Bramann had made his first incision I noticed that the pulse had become very weak, and that the face was blanched; in fact, there were evident signs of cardiac weakness. On raising the eyelid the pupil was seen to be widely dilated. The chloroform was suspended for a minute or two, when the pulse became fairly good again, and the operation was proceeded with. After this incident Dr. Bramann seemed to become a little flurried, though not to such an extent as to prevent him from operating with skill. In opening the windpipe, however, I noticed that he made his incision a little to the right instead of in the middle line. The deviation appeared to me so slight at the time that I attached no importance to it. After opening the trachea, instead of at once plunging in the canula, as is usually done by English surgeons, Bramann held aside the two sides of the wound for a minute or two until the bleeding had ceased, and then inserted a very large, long tube. I will frankly own that the delay in introducing the canula seemed to me an improvement on the ordinary plan of plunging the tube into the windpipe as soon as it is opened—a proceeding which usually sets up severe spasm and cough.

When the operation was completed I congratulated Dr. Bramann on his success. I have already said that in a case like that of the Crown Prince tracheotomy is not, as a rule, a matter of any difficulty; but, considering that the young surgeon was operating on his future Sovereign, and that he was not unnaturally somewhat unnerved by the catastrophe so nearly caused by the chloroform, I think he did his work very well. On leaving the room I said to Mr. Hovell, "Did you notice that the trachea was opened a little to the right of the middle line?" and that gentleman replied, "I did; but I should say considerably rather than a little." On coming to himself the illustrious patient shook hands warmly with Dr. Bramann, myself, and, I believe, the other doctors.

As the case here enters on a phase of the highest importance, and as the various episodes must be related in detail in order to make the general situation intelligible, I propose to continue the narrative in the form of a daily record. The facts were all duly recorded in my note-book at the time, and the following pages are little more than a reproduction of my notes, with a running commentary to make their purport clear to ordinary readers. From the day of operation I was never away from him for more than a few hours.

Dr. Bramann's Canula.—February 9.—I was very anxious when I saw the kind of canula that Dr. Bramann had inserted into the trachea; it was very large, and also the longest tube I had ever seen inserted immediately after the performance of tracheotomy. It is true that in certain cases where disease creeps down the trachea longer tubes have to be inserted from time to time, but I have never seen a case in which so long a tube was used from the first. Besides its unusual size and length, its upper orifice was considerably larger than the lower, so that it had somewhat the shape of a funnel. Any practical surgeon looking at the annexed drawing (Fig. 1) which was actually traced from the tube used, will see that the instrument was exceptional in every respect, and, widely differing from the ordinary full-sized canula (Fig. 2), was eminently calculated to cause irritation of the trachea; and it will be seen how the lower and back part of the instrument caused a wound in the posterior wall of the trachea by pressing on that point.

Fig. 3.—Diagram showing Bramann's canula (half size) in situ. a, the gullet; b, the larynx with the trachea below. The canula is seen cutting into the back wall of the trachea as occurred in life.

There were now six medical attendants to look after the Crown Prince, and for some time after the operation each of us took his turn at the Prince's bedside. I came on duty at 6 o'clock every evening, and remained until 10; and, though I was not now in charge of the case, I paid frequent visits to his Imperial Highness during the day.

The Canula Gives Trouble.—February 11.—The Crown Prince, who had at first been pleased with the results of the operation, now began to show signs of disappointment that he had not derived more benefit from it. He had several violent fits of coughing, especially whilst trying to drink. I explained to him that this was a common symptom immediately after tracheotomy, which I hoped would disappear in a day or two. There was now a large amount of slimy expectoration streaked with blood. Professor von Bergmann arrived this morning, and immediately presented himself to the Crown Prince. The Professor joined us in a general consultation in the evening. At this time the illustrious patient's temperature was 100· Fahrenheit and the pulse 94; that is to say, there was slight fever, due, no doubt, to the tracheal inflammation set up by the canula. My German colleagues, however, would not allow that a temperature of 100deg. Fahrenheit indicated fever. His Imperial Highness sat up for three hours.

February 12.—The Crown Prince complained very much of irritation in the windpipe, and asked if a different tube could not be inserted. The fits of coughing were much more frequent and severe, and prolonged paroxysms occurred even when no food or drink had been taken.

I Explain my Views to Bramann.—During the morning Dr. Bramann paid me a visit at my hotel, and showed me two other tubes, both curved, and more or less resembling the one already in use. I told him that I thought neither of these tubes would answer, and I pointed out to him that the large orifice of his canulas would be likely to crush the rings of the trachea, with which it would come in contact, and in this way in course of time cause destructive action of a serious nature. Dr. Bramann said that the orifice of the tube was made large in order to facilitate the expulsion of the mucus. To this I replied that, as regards coughing, the power of expulsion would be diminished by having the tube much larger at one end than the other, as the draught would thereby be diminished. Finally, I said that I considered his instruments antiquated (uralt), whereupon Dr. Bramann left the room, apparently much offended. When I subsequently went to Berlin and visited the instrument-makers' shops, I found that the tubes which I had supposed to be antiquated had been specially made for the august patient; that the large curve, the big instrument, and the large orifice were all specially designed for the benefit of his Imperial Highness. Whilst I regretted very much having regarded Dr. Bramann's instruments as antiquated, I could not help feeling that this was scarcely a case in which it was desirable to try an experiment with a new kind of canula, and it would have been better for Dr. Bramann, though he had, no doubt, acted with the best intentions, to have used a tube which experience had proved to be useful.

I may here say that even strong-minded persons, who know that they are suffering from hopeless diseases, often surprise their physicians by seeking help from the most stupid quackery, as a drowning man grasps at a straw. The absolute freedom of the Crown Prince from weakness or superstition of this kind was not the least remarkable of his many admirable qualities.

I am Prevented from Giving Relief.—February 14.—Though my colleagues thought the discharge from the trachea "moderate," it was more abundant than I liked to see, and it was much streaked with blood. I was now convinced that the lower end of the canula was pressing on the back wall of the windpipe, and giving rise to tracheitis, and I asked to be allowed to introduce a short rectangular tube. I pointed out that when the tracheotomy wound healed it would be difficult to use my tube, as owing to the very long curve of the German tube mine would probably not adapt itself to the track made by that instrument, and in this way if the insertion of the rectangular tube were delayed too long it would itself cause similar irritation in a different part of the windpipe. Professor von Bergmann would not, however, agree to my proposition.

February 15.—The Crown Prince had a bad night, coughing almost incessantly. The discharge was more copious, and contained blood, matter, and mucus, with here and there small black shreds of tissue undergoing decomposition. It appeared as if the violent coughing was beginning to break down the diseased mass within the larynx. I was now getting very anxious, not so much about the progress of the disease as about the way in which the after treatment of the operation was being mismanaged, and again begged to be allowed to insert a rectangular tube.

My Experience in Similar Cases.—It certainly appeared to me that neither Professor von Bergmann nor Dr. Bramann, well-informed surgeons though they doubtless were in many matters, had had much experience in the sort of work they had now taken upon themselves to do. Dr. Schraeder informed me that Bramann had performed tracheotomy 400 times, but all these operations were cases so utterly unlike the present one that it would be simply misleading to class them together. Bramann's previous tracheotomies had nearly all been performed on infants and young children for acute obstruction of the larynx, as in diphtheria. The large majority of these cases die soon after the operation, many indeed under the knife; whilst in those who survive, the tube is dispensed with after a short time. The case is altogether different in an adult whose larynx is blocked up by new growth which has a tendency to spread in the direction of greatest irritation. Here the parts require the most careful handling, and it is of the utmost importance to avoid anything that may lead to the larynx being shaken by coughing. Though my own experience of tracheotomy had not been so extensive as that of Dr. Bramann, yet my experience of the particular kind of case with which we were now dealing was far larger than his. Up to the year 1880 I had performed tracheotomy 73 times, 64 of these operations having been done on adults, and nine on children. In addition to this personal experience I had also been present at many operations performed on my patients by eminent surgeons, and I had often assisted my colleagues at the Throat Hospital in their operations. Since 1880 Mr. Hovell has performed most of my operations in private practice, and has also attended the patients for a week or two after the operation under my general superintendence. At the very lowest computation I have certainly been present at 120 operations. In the bulk of these cases the patients were adults, suffering from diseases of a chronic nature. Many of them were cured, and the rest nearly all survived for some months. Thus, with a much smaller total of operations than Dr. Bramann, I had had a far greater number in which careful after-treatment was required. Professor von Bergmann does not, I believe, profess to have any large experience as regards the operation of tracheotomy in adults.

Bergmann Suspects Cancer of the Lungs.—Although the illustrious patient's temperature was never much above the normal standard, we frequently examined the lungs, and on this day (19th) Professor von Bergmann, after carefully percussing the right side of the back over the lower ribs, said he feared there was a secondary development of cancer in the base of the right lung, and that this was the cause of the hemorrhage. The professor did not seem to be aware that the dulness on which this diagnosis was founded was caused by the liver, which occupied its ordinary situation over which he had been percussing. I pointed out to him, moreover, that such a consideration as he believed to exist was most unlikely to occur under the circumstances without some accompanying pneumonia, of which there was no trace.

My Tube is Tried Too Late.—February 20.—On this day Professor von Bergmann permitted me to insert a right-angle tube. Unfortunately, however, owing to the shape of the wound which the other instrument had made, it could not rest in a horizontal position, but was considerably lower at the inner end, where it passed into the trachea, than at the outer orifice. Although there was no longer any pressure from the posterior wall, I was sure that my tube would irritate the front part of the windpipe. This is what actually occurred, as indeed I had predicted on the 14th February would be the case if I was prevented from inserting the tube for some days.

February 21.—The Crown Prince was exceedingly comfortable in the morning. He had slept well during the night; but towards the afternoon the tube was already beginning to chafe the anterior wall, and in the evening I found it causing almost as much irritation as the one it had replaced.

Professor Kussmaul Summoned.—February 22.—The Crown Princess informed me that Professor von Bergmann had told her that he was quite sure the Crown Prince had cancer of the lungs, and that he should like to have the opinion of Professor Kussmaul, of Strasburg. I said I thought this was quite unnecessary, as I had examined the lungs carefully myself, and I was quite sure that there was no deposit in either of them. Two days later her Imperial Highness again mentioned the subject to me, and said she thought it would do no harm for Kussmaul to see the Prince. Of course I replied that if her Imperial Highness wished it I had nothing further to say. Subsequently, Professor von Bergmann brought the matter forward at a consultation. I then said that I should have no objection to Professor Kussmaul examining the illustrious patient's lungs; but as that gentleman was neither a laryngoscopist nor a microscopist, I could not consent to receive his opinion as to the nature of the laryngeal affection.

Out for the First Time.—February 23.—It has been arranged between Professor von Bergmann and myself that I should now resume charge of the case, but Bramann having requested me to leave the case in his hands a short time, as he felt confident he could stop the hemorrhage if he were allowed to manage things in his own way for a few days longer, I yielded to his request. The right-angled tube which was irritating the anterior wall was taken out, and one of Von Bergmann's was substituted for it. It was subsequently proved by measurements made by Mr. Hovell, that one of the reasons, and, perhaps the principal one, why the right-angled tube could not be worn was that the windpipe, as already said, had been opened to the right of the middle line.

Schrader's Misadventure with the Tube.—During the previous night Dr. Schrader, who was unfamiliar with the construction of Durham's tracheotomy canula, which was then being tried, loosened the screw by which the tube is fixed to its shield, thereby causing great irritation in the trachea. After he had been vainly trying for some time to put things right again the Crown Prince wrote on a slip of paper, "Send for Hovell." That gentleman soon made the illustrious patient comfortable.

The Crown Prince's Dislike of Stimulants.—I now used to have a good deal of conversation with the illustrious patient. I always sat with him at his dinner, or, as it was called, supper, and I generally spent half an hour with him whilst he was taking his midday meal. I may here mention that the illustrious patient's appetite was by no means good, and that he had a great dislike of stimulants. He always mixed his wine with water, and so little did he care for the flavour of wine that he always took a sip of plain water after drinking it.

February 23.—The august patient passed a bad night: his digestion was also much disturbed. The large long tube had again set up considerable inflammation in the windpipe.

Kussmaul's Adventures as a Laryngoscopist.—February 26.—Professor Kussmaul arrived and took part in the consultation this morning.

I Propose a New Tube.—February 26.—The Crown Prince passed a bad night, and Bramann's efforts to stop the bleeding proving quite ineffectual, I asked to be allowed to insert a new tube made in San Remo of the same shape as the one then in use, as far as regards the portion of the canula lying external to the trachea, but so constructed that, instead of passing a long way down the trachea it would only just enter that tube. My colleagues, however, would not consent to this; first, because they considered the lumen of my new instrument too small (though it was nine millimetres in diameter); and secondly, because it had not an inner tube. This tube would have relieved the august patient's sufferings at once, as it was too short to chafe the back wall of the windpipe, which was the source of all the trouble with the other. Even if a somewhat smaller quantity of air had been supplied to the lungs, would not the cessation of the coughing and bleeding, which prevented the Prince from sleeping, have been an ample compensation for such a drawback, which, after all, was more or less theoretical? With regard to the absence of an inner tube, such an objection could have been inspired only by the narrowest surgical pedantry or some less worthy feeling. My improvised tube was, of course, only intended as a temporary contrivance till a more perfect one could be obtained. If it had been found to answer, a double tube could then have been made to pattern. I may add, moreover, that as a matter of fact double tubes are a comparatively modern invention, and there are at the present moment hundreds of persons wearing single tubes.

Professor Bergmann, however, went so far as to tell the Crown Princess that with a single tube there would be the greatest danger of the Prince being suffocated when the tube was taken out for a few seconds to be cleaned. With the most docile and intelligent of patients, who had six medical men about him, one or other of whom was always in attendance, it is ridiculous to suppose that there could have been any risk in using a single tube for a few days. Such, however, were the grounds on which I was prevented from affording much-needed relief to the Crown Prince, whose strength was being worn out by constant suffering.

Kussmaul Contradicts Bergmann.—On his own ground the venerable Strasburg professor was edifying. He absolutely negatived Bergmann's notion, declaring himself unable to find the least evidence of cancer in the lungs, or indeed of pulmonary disease of any kind. Bergmann, in fact, had been entirely mistaken, and Professor Kussmaul's journey to San Remo had been quite useless.

I Have Another Tube Made.—February 28.—The Crown Prince passed a fairly good day, but the weather was cold, and he did not go out on the balcony. I spent most of the day in getting another tube made at a silversmith's in San Remo, and Dr. Evans, of Paris, gave me much valuable assistance. It was made on the same lines as the one previously constructed, that is to say, it had in part the shape of the German tube, but was so short that it would only reach just within the trachea. It was constructed so as not to pass down the windpipe at all, the lower end being cut off in such a way that it was parallel to the upper or outer opening, instead of at right angles to it, as is the case with most instruments. It was full-sized, and was provided with an inner tube.

February 29.—During the early part of the night the Crown Prince's sleep was much disturbed, but from 4 to 8 o'clock he slept fairly well. There is abundant discharge, and it contains a good deal of blood. I inserted the new tube just described.

Bramann's Incision and Hovell's Measurements.—March 3.—Mr. Hovell asked me if he might take some measurements, with the view of ascertaining how far Bramann's incision was to the right of the middle line. To this I saw no objection. The measurements were made in two ways, first, through a straight silver tube, which was passed just to the middle of the trachea; and second, through the naked wound. Bramann's incision was three millimetres to the right side of the median line. The canula was in fact nine millimetres from the left side of the trachea, and only three millimetres from the right side. This slight deviation from the middle line would be a matter of very little importance if a straight canula could be used; but seeing for the sake of safety it is necessary to have a descending arm, it will easily be understood that this descending portion, if introduced slightly on one side of the trachea, is certain to come into contact with its walls, and set up great irritation. A moderate-sized tube would have been likely to have wounded the walls of the trachea under the circumstances; but an enormous tube, such as that used by Bramann, would have been sure to have done so.

The Microscopic Proof at Last.—March 4.—The Crown Prince had a good night, although there was no decrease in the expectoration, which still contained a good deal of blood. I covered the canula with a piece of very tight-fitting indiarubber tubing, so as to prevent the sharp edge accidentally touching the wall of the trachea. Professor von Bergmann, who attended the consultation in the morning for the first time after several days, subsequently introduced me to Professor Waldeyer, who was good enough to show me several preparations which he had made. In some of the specimens there was a large number of cell-nests, but I did not perceive any alveolar structure. Professor Waldeyer said that although there was no alveolar structure, he considered that from the relation of the cell-nests to one another, he thought it almost certain they had come from an alveolar structure. The cell-nests, moreover, were so abundant that he thought they could not have been produced superficially, but were evidently the result of a deep-seated destructive process. As I had always based my diagnosis largely on the microscopic character of the disease, I no longer had reason to doubt that the morbid process was of a cancerous nature.

The Case is Restored to Me.—March 6.—The morning being warm and pleasant, the Crown Prince for the first time went into the garden. He came downstairs at half-past 11, took his lunch at 1, and returned to his room at about half-past 2. It was as warm out of doors—if not warmer—than in the house, and the illustrous patient greatly enjoyed his stay in the garden, where he nearly all the time remained seated, occasionally, however, taking a short turn up and down.

The case was now formally restored to me, but in what a different condition was the illustrious patient from what he had been when I had given him over to the care of the German surgeons! On the day that he was operated on he felt "perfectly well," except that his breathing was difficult. He was now a confirmed invalid. Besides this, the disease in the larynx, which had previously been progressing very slowly, had (through the coughing caused by ill-fitting tracheotomy tubes) been stirred into extreme activity. Greater destruction was probably occasioned in three weeks in this way than would have occurred in a year had the illustrious patient not been subjected to such injudicious treament.

Death of the Emperor William.—The next day news arrived of the death of the Emperor William. I was not with the august patient at the time, but I was informed by an eye-witness that he was greatly agitated on receiving the intelligence. When I had the honour of seeing his Majesty he was still much upset. He spoke little of the event, though it was evident that he felt the loss of his aged father much more keenly than might have been anticipated, considering that the death of a man of such advanced age could hardly have been unexpected. Nothing better shows how far the character of the Crown Prince stood above the ordinary standard of mankind than the fact that the shock of his venerable parent's death left no room for some time for any other feeling. Private sorrow, however, had to give way to public duty; the responsibilities of his new position had to be faced, and Frederick the Third determined to return at once to his own dominions.

CHAPTER VIII.

Arrival at Charlottenburg.—We reached Charlottenburg at 11 o'clock at night in a blinding snowstorm. The Emperor was received by the Crown Prince and other members of the Imperial family, and drove at once to the Schloss. The intense whiteness of the streets and houses, the brilliant illuminations, and the enthusiastic crowds of people, made a very striking picture, and as we drove up to the castle gates, the Garde du Corps, with their eagle-crested helmets, glittering cuirasses, and drawn swords, added to the imposing nature of the scene. His Majesty alighted from his carriage with a firm step, and in passing through the hall spoke to the British Ambassador and several high officials who were there. He very soon retired to his room, where I followed him, and found him rather fatigued by the journey. The shaking of the railway carriage had slightly increased the discharge from the canula; but on the whole he had borne the excitement remarkably well.

His Majesty had a good night, and on the morning of the 12th I was pleased to find that the journey had done him little or no harm. He was very slightly feverish, the temperature being 99·2, and the pulse 76, but otherwise his condition was relatively satisfactory. I should mention here that his Majesty's natural pulse was rather slow, its average number of beats each minute being only 64. There was little or no change during the next two days.

The Windpipe Crumbling Away.—On March 15 a large slough came away from the upper and deepest part of the wound. It seemed to consist of broken-down tissue (mainly minute pieces of cartilage) from the trachea. This destructive process was no doubt the consequence of the pressure of the large and unsuitable tube which had been the source of so much suffering to the august patient at San Remo, and which he had continued to wear till I was permitted to introduce the roughly improvised Italian canula. The effect of the separation of the slough was considerably to enlarge the opening into the windpipe, the vertical diameter of which was now rather more than two centimetres (four-fifths of an inch). The upper part of the tracheal orifice was nearly on a level with the wound in the skin, instead of being a good deal below it as before.

The Imperial Invalid's Daily Life.—The weather was still very severe, the snow falling almost continuously. At this time the illustrious patient's course of life was as follows:—He generally rose soon after 8, after breakfasting in bed, and was dressed by half-past 9. He then went down to the orangery, where the Empress accompanied him, whilst I remained near at hand. About 10 o'clock his Majesty returned to his study, where he gave audiences to his Ministers or other officials till noon. Soon afterwards he used to go again to the orangery, where he remained for an hour or so, sitting in the central pavilion, or walking up and down the long corridor. Here also the Emperor often received visitors and officials. Though the orangery was better than nothing, it was a very depressing place after the bright sunshine and balmy air of San Remo; the building had not originally been constructed as an orangery, and the glasswork occupied only one side. The orange trees were old, thick-stemmed, and covered with leaves, so that the interior was very gloomy. After lunch the Emperor generally saw some members of his family, after which he rested for an hour or two. Before, or after taking his rest, his Majesty often received Prince Bismarck or the Crown Prince. After his siesta the Emperor generally attended to State business, signed papers, and wrote his diary. He dined at 8, and went to bed between half-past 9 and 10.

The Question of Operation in a New Aspect.—As the health of the Imperial sufferer had by this time somewhat recovered from the effects of the rough handling to which his wounded throat had, in spite of my protests, been subjected at San Remo, the question arose in my mind whether a radical operation should be now proposed to his Majesty. I had absolutely set my face against any such measure when there was still a doubt as to the nature of the disease; but since Professor Waldeyer had pronounced it to be cancer, the situation was entirely changed. The only hope of cure lay in the removal of the disease. It was a very forlorn hope, no doubt, and one more than counterbalanced, to my mind, by the immediate risk of the operation and the wretched condition in which those who survive it are almost invariably left, owing to the dreadful mutilation they have undergone.

Nevertheless, as the operation does give the patient a chance—infinitesimal though it may be—and the disease is absolutely incurable by any other kind of treatment, I thought it right to discuss with Professor Krause and Mr. Hovell the propriety of mentioning the matter to the Emperor. These gentlemen fully agreed with me that, after all the august patient had gone through since tracheotomy had been performed, any severe surgical measure was out of the question. It is certain, however, that even at that time the operation, quâ operation, would have been perfectly feasible, because after death the anterior wall of the gullet was found to be intact, and the ulcer could have been dissected away from the posterior wall of the larynx, the œsophageal tube being still left in a state of integrity. I am far from saying that, even if the illustrious patient had been in a state of health to admit of extirpation of the larynx, I should have urged him to submit to it, but I maintain that, had it not been for the unfortunate mismanagement of the case by Drs. von Bergmann and Bramann in February, the operation might possibly have been undertaken when the nature of the disease had been definitely established by Professor Waldeyer.

It is beyond all question that the disease made much more rapid progress after the tracheotomy than before. As a rule, that operation has quite the opposite effect, for it gives the diseased parts comparative rest, and so far saves them from irritation. Why was the result so woefully different in the present case? Because the violent shaking of the larynx broke down the tissues, and caused as much destruction in a few weeks as is ordinarily produced by the unassisted action of the disease in many months. What was this shaking of the larynx due to? To the violent and almost continual coughing, set up by the chafing of the delicate inner wall of the windpipe by ill-fitting tracheotomy tubes. Later on, as will be told in due course, a further source of irritation was supplied by the trickling into the windpipe of matter from an abscess caused by Professor von Bergmann's blundering efforts to make force supply the place of skill in introducing a canula.

The Bleeding Stopped at Last.—In the meantime, as I have said, the ill-used trachea had, under more intelligent management, had some chance of recovering to a certain extent. From March 19th to the 22nd there was comparatively little coughing, and hardly any bleeding. His Majesty slept fairly well at night, and the temperature remained almost normal. It was only three weeks since I had been allowed to insert the tube I had had made at San Remo, and the bleeding, which till then had been all but continuous, had now almost ceased! It must be understood that the loss of blood was much greater than would be gathered from the euphemistic "blood-stained expectoration" of the bulletins. It was real hemorrhage, slight, it is true, but almost constant, so that a considerable amount of blood was lost each day. After March 22 there was no further bleeding, except once or twice after massage had been performed, and a very slight attack on March 31. This gratifying result was entirely due to the substitution of a proper tube for the instrument of torture which had wrought all the mischief, and is therefore a significant commentary on the assertion repeatedly made by von Bergmann, in the most emphatic terms, that no matter what tube was used the bleeding would never cease.

Another "Controller."—About this time I discovered that I had again been placed under "control"—on this occasion by Professor von Bergmann. I learned that the orderly in attendance on the Emperor was in the habit of making daily reports to Bergmann, who had, as a matter of fact, engaged him, of everything that took place whilst he was on duty. This arrangement was no doubt only an additional proof of the absorbing interest which Professor von Bergmann took in the illustrious patient's condition.

Massage Tried.—At the general consultation on the same day, it was agreed that as the Emperor was confined to the house by the very severe weather, and was suffering from want of exercise, massage should be tried as the best available substitute. On the recommendation of Professor von Bergmann, it was decided that the manipulations should be carried out by Dr. Zebludowsky. As massage has not yet quite found its level among our therapeutic resources, being vaunted as a panacea by some and despised as quackery by others, it may be right for me to point out the precise object for which it was proposed to apply it in the present case. There was, of course, no idea that it could have any effect on the disease; but it was thought it might be useful as giving passive exercise to the muscles and stimulating the vital functions which the enforced bodily inactivity was making torpid. Men of stalwart frame who have been accustomed to an outdoor life involving much physical exertion always suffer greatly from want of exercise, and his Majesty was no exception to this rule. Massage was applied on two or three occasions with great skill by Dr. Zebludowsky, but it was found that it did not suit the illustrious patient, as it over-excited him, and caused some fresh bleeding from the throat. It was therefore decided to discontinue it.

> "Ay, marry! now unmuzzle your wisdom."—ROSALIND.

A few of us (heroic servants of the State or the community), like Sir Henry Parkes, the Chief Justice and the Puisne Judges, the Water and Sewerage Board, the prefects of the daily press, the hierophants of the various religious denominations, and the much more numerous host of "such as have but little, and might bet too much"—in round numbers say about inside of a million people—have been obliged to suck such consolation as they could find for stopping at home during the week when Melbourne invites the Australasian world to Flemington Hill—or at least that section of it that can take money in its pockets. As one absentee unit, I have thought it my duty to exhaust every possible form of solace. And I find none more soothing than reading leading articles (the writers of which must have been in the same plight as myself) philosophically and philanthropically designed to prove that "Cup Day" is a solemn national Paneguris, or Pan-Australian Congress, at which the competition of horses, or the fascinations of betting, have only a secondary importance. It is rather, as they tell us, a day for men to go five or six, or even 1200, miles to a sacred hill for the purpose of seeing and shaking hands with one another, and of making perhaps a passing allusion to the state of the weather; and for women to put in evidence their devotion to the most imperious, capricious, and inexorable deity whom it is not for man to name. It is a day for Governors and statesmen to meet and exchange federal amenities, and for Sir Henry Loch to be their Amphitryon. The Derby Day on Epsom Downs has nothing in common with it but the merely accidental circumstance that there is horse-racing for those who care about such things. The real and the essential thing for us to bear in mind is that "Cup Day" is the day on which all Australians parade on Flemington Hill. That is the idea which all of us ought to live up to. Those who were there have the consciousness of duty patriotically performed. The absentees, of whom I have just enumerated some few, will be cheered to know that it was the biggest parade ever held—one hundred and forty thousand, according to the Victorian statist. Prodigious!—wasn't it?

Is the "typewriter" predestined to supplant the teacher of the fine "commercial hand"? Will typewriting do away with engrossing, and with all forms of caligraphy and cacography? Will ardent young gentlemen correspond, in future, in bold Roman type a couple of sizes bigger than pica, and modest damsels respond in like manner? And—most important of all questions, to at least the compositor and the Reader—will there be an end of those "characteristic" handwritings which some people seem to cultivate to the degree of absolute illegibility. A Herald correspondent, about a fortnight ago, speaking of certain other correspondents, said, "If ever those persons intend to become critics, they will have to adopt a better style in writing, especially if they want to prepossess the Reader in their favour." Be so good, all ye who still cling to the delusion that there is some merit in writing a more or less undecipherable script, to ponder that sentence, and remember who the Reader is that you should desire to prepossess in your favour. Between them, the compositor and he can make you feel as gay as a skylark or as melancholy as a railway ticket clerk. In some large typographical establishments I am told that a special "hand" is kept to make out hieroglyphics, but surely the safer course is for people crypto-graphically inclined to invest in a typewriter.

We now know, I suppose, on undoubted authority, that the new Governor of Queensland is to be a transfer from Newfoundland, that he is an Irishman, by name Blake, and 50 years old, also that both he and Lady Blake are known in literary, and the lady in the artistic, world. So far so good. But what a bitter pill is conveyed immediately after these good tidings for the Nationalist Premier, who wanted to know (of course only confidentially) the name of the gentleman selected by the Secretary of State before the appointment should be definitely decided upon. It is rather more nauseous indeed than a pill, for it is a snub. "It is impossible," says the Secretary of State, "for Colonial Ministers to share the responsibility of nominating a Governor, or to have a veto on his selection." Why? Because "officers conducting foreign relations, and advising the Crown when Imperial interests as distinguished from colonial arise, must be selected by the Secretary of State, for the Queen's approval, and be responsible to the Crown only." Which being put into plain English for Queensland Nationalists reads thus:—"Although you colonists pay the Governor's salary (such as it is), you can't have a finger in the appointment pie. Otherwise, the Governor as an Imperial representative would never know for certain on which side his bread was buttered, and it can't be buttered on both sides. If you were consulted about his appointment, and had any say in it, he might look to you as his masters, my colonial friends! But as I have appointed an Irishman—and you know what capital Governors they are—depend on it, all will go well."

The telegraph informed us, a week or 10 days ago, that Dr. Higgins (I think that was the name mentioned), who had been appointed as a sort of episcopal under-secretary to Cardinal Moran, was to be designated the Bishop-antiphellus, without succession to the Archiepiscopal dignity in case of the Cardinal's translation. Some people assure me that "Bishop-antiphellus must be a mistake of the cable, and that what was meant is "Bishop of Antiphellus." Antiphellus being, it is said, the name of an old See of the Eastern Church. If the word antiphellus was chosen to define the exact position which he has been appointed to fill in this archdiocese, I think it has not been badly chosen. "Cork," whence Dr. Higgins comes to us, as I have been given to understand, is in an opposite zone to Sydney. No places, perhaps, could be more severely antipodean to one another. Antiphellus (opposite to Cork, for phellos means cork) exactly describes the relation of the two cities.

T. J.

THE BATTLE OF THE STANDARDS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The cablegrams which you publish to-day relative to the report of the English Commission on Currency will doubtless tend to revive interest in a question which seems in the colonies to be thought of little moment. We learn that it may be proposed to undo the work of Lord Liverpool, and rehabilitate silver as currency throughout the British dominions, America, and Germany. At present gold is the recognised standard for each of the three nationalities named, and if silver is to be again raised to the dignity of currency (beyond its present legal limit of 40s.), the first thing to be done must be the establishment of a ratio between these metals, whether 16 or 15½ to 1, or say (at present rates) even in excess of 20 to 1. The precise recommendations of the Commission will now be awaited with some concern. According to the ratio which would be fixed if the decision of the Commission be acted upon, will be the effect on prices. Prices now established on a gold basis would necessarily be re-adjusted if a new and cheaper medium were available for payment of obligations or standing debts, and equilibrium would not be re-established until the world's reservoirs of gold and silver coin had become distributed in their natural trade channels under the new order of things. Of course what is aimed at is the creation of standards of value which shall deviate as little as possible, so that in event say of gold supplies falling short of requirements, the attendant increase of prices would be averted by means of the substitutive metal.

The effect which Australians have chiefly to consider is this,—Whether our staple, gold, will in future bring a less price? For each ounce of gold we can now obtain from the Mint £3 17s. 9d., measured in gold; but if in future, instead of gold, the £3 17s. 9d. could be paid and measured by a cheaper metal, silver, the change would be tantamount to a reduction in the purchasing power of the gold produced, and to the consequent diminution of colonial income from the shrinkage in value. To non-gold-producing countries the effect of the change would be of less importance, for gold is used only as a last resource in settlement of exchanges, and banknotes and cheques go more freely from hand to hand in proportion to coin. But we can suppose the case of a property-owner, who invested a sum of money in property years ago, now finding by a general reduction of purchasing power of currency that his property had received an accession of value quite unexpectedly. It is undoubted that India will benefit by any change. Her currency, now depreciated, will acquire an accession of value which might perhaps reach one-third of its total amount. Important effects would follow as regards Indian trade, for the protection would be withdrawn which the wheat-grower and other Indian producers now enjoy and the British agriculturist would be able to compete on more nearly equal terms.

NEWS BY THE MAIL.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

LONDON, Oct. 5.

The Liberal Unionists are beginning their political campaign for the autumn and winter months better than was expected, and are going a great way towards fulfilling their promise to make a special effort in Scotland, where Liberal Unionism is in a decidedly depressed condition. For once, they seem to be stealing a march upon their Gladstonian antagonists, for the latter are just now as apathetic as the Liberal Unionists are vigorous. Mr. Arnold Morley, the chief whip of the Gladstonian party, is away on the Continent, and Mr. Schnadhorst, who sometime ago came up to London from Birmingham for the express purpose of organising the Gladstonian party in the metropolis on the lines of the once famous Birmingham Caucus, is taking a long holiday in the country, while Mr. Gladstone has astonished a good many of his friends by lately refusing more than one invitation to speak in public. Mr. John Morley is the only prominent Gladstonian who has spoken during the week, and his address on Saturday to the Home Rule Club, at Ipswich, was more in the nature of a smart and very effective onslaught upon Mr. Chamberlain than a solid contribution to the political history of the hour. The Liberal Unionists, on the other hand, have been very busy. The ball which was set rolling at Bradford and Nottingham by Mr. Chamberlain has been kept going this week by Mr. Balfour and Lord Hartington, for, though the former is a Conservative Minister, his visit to Glasgow was part of the Liberal Unionist programme which has been arranged for Scotland. The speeches delivered by the Right Hon. gentleman, on Monday and Wednesday respectively have been the two main features of the politics of the week, and both have attracted much attention. The Nationalists are rather fond of alleging against Mr. Balfour that he has no brain for facts, that he can only deal in generalities, and that his mental attitude is summed up in the title of the work for which he is noted, "Philosophic Doubt." But the lucid statement of fact which he set forth at Glasgow on Monday night does not bear out this theory; for even his Nationalist critics admit, in private conversation at least, that he completely disposed of the assertion that the death of Mr. Mandeville had any connection with that gentleman's treatment during his incarceration in Tullamore Gaol, and also that he set forth two or three fresh particulars relating to Mr. William O'Brien which cannot be pleasing to that enthusiastic but somewhat unstable politician. The Irish Secretary gave chapter and verse to show that in the period intervening between his release from prison and his untimely death Mr. Mandeville was engaged in the active life of a vigorous, healthy man, and quoted the opinion of the most eminent specialist on throat affections in Ireland that Mr. Mandeville must have contracted the disease which ended fatally not more than three days before his death. He also brought to light the inconvenient fact that one of the doctors who was in the habit of sending round to the Nationalist newspapers alarming reports concerning the state of Mr. O'Brien's health while in prison never once saw that gentleman throughout the whole time that he was in Tullamore Gaol, and that his reports were written not from Tullamore, but from Cork. Furthermore Mr. Balfour declared that whilst Mr. O'Brien's friends were bewailing his starvation in prison, he was being surreptitiously supplied with sandwiches three times a week. The Chief Secretary for Ireland, however, was not indebted entirely to his own industry for the unearthing of the startling array of details respecting the lives of Mr. Mandeville and Mr. O'Brien with which he has surprised and amused newspaper readers. It is incorrect to say that he has no liking for facts. In reality, he delights in demolishing an elaborate hypothesis, which has been reared by his opponents by marshalling against it a little army of awkward details, but he rarely collects these himself. He is admirably served by two, at least, of his private secretaries. Mr. Hayes Fisher, M.P., who sits immediately behind him in the House of Commons, renders him valuable assistance in his Parliamentary work: while outside questions are covered by Mr. G. Wyndham, a smart young politician, who, it may be observed, writes a good many of the Chief Secretary's letters. Mr. Geo. Wyndham has been spending his holidays in Ireland, and has occupied himself with the task of amassing the materials for Mr. Balfour's Glasgow speech.

The importance of Lord Hartington's address at Inverness on Wednesday, lies in the fact that it is generally understood to contain a forecast of the policy of the next, that is, the 1889, session of Parliament. The general expectation is that this will be an uneventful one, and will be mainly occupied in making additions to the Local Government Act which was passed into law a few months ago. At the same time, it is likely that advantage will be taken of the reconsideration of the subject of local government to bring forward some measure for the extension of the same in Scotland. But the chances are believed to be very remote that any scheme will be submitted to Parliament in regard either to local government or the land question in Ireland. If Lord Salisbury decides to relegate Ireland to the background for a year or two, it is not at all improbable that his policy will meet with a good deal of quiet sympathy from his opponents. There are multiplying signs of an increasing impatience amongst Gladstonians at the continued prominence given to the Irish question: and even many Irish Nationalists, recognising that a general election is not to be expected for three or four years, and that until then no distinct advance can be made with the Home Rule cause, are not indisposed to admit the prudence of retiring a little from the front and making way for British questions. In private conversation more than one representative Radical has expressed the strong conviction that if the Conservative Government would only bring in an Arrears Bill which should do for the Irish tenants what has been done for the Scotch crofters their position would be well nigh impregnable, and that they might then very well refuse to touch the Irish question again in any form or shape. If, say these politicians, we could be convinced that every legitimate cause of grievance on the part of the Irish tenant had been removed, we should be prepared, while still retaining an academic belief in the advantages of Home Rule for Ireland, to let that subject drop out of sight until the opinion of the country has had time to ripen upon it; and, in the meanwhile, we would cooperate with the Dissentient Liberals in carrying out the uncontroverted portions of the Liberal programme. But Lord Salisbury is so impregnated with the spirit of landlordism that there is little prospect of his agreeing to the introduction of an Irish Arrears Bill. There is also an equal absence of any likelihood that he will consent to give a hearing in Parliament to Mr. Chamberlain's Irish Local Government scheme, and here again he will receive the unspoken approval of the Gladstonians. This hapless proposal, the result of laborious lucubration on the part of the right hon. member for Birmingham, finds friends nowhere. Lord Salisbury and the Conservatives dislike it, and consider it premature, the Conservative axiom being that any extension of local self-government in Ireland must be preceded by the establishment of the unquestioned supremacy of the law; Lord Hartington and Mr. Bright are strongly averse to it for a variety of reasons: while the Gladstonians may be trusted to oppose it simply because it emanates from Mr. Chamberlain. The probability, therefore, is that, if the Government can help it, we shall not hear much of Ireland during next session.

The rumours which have been flying about this week in regard to the Parnell Commission must be taken with a good deal of reserve, especially when they relate to the probable action of either party to the inquiry, for the simple reason that both sides know how to keep their own counsel. Of course information on minor matters may leak out, but little is known outside Printing House-square of what the Times intends to do, and Mr. George Lewis, Mr. Parnell's solicitor, is not the man who usually takes other people into his confidence. The statement put forth by the Pall Mall Gazette at the beginning of the week that panic reigned in Downing-street because the "forger" of the alleged incriminatory letters had been discovered was obviously incorrect; because at the present time there are no Ministers in Downing-street, so that the panic, if it prevailed at all, must have been amongst the caretakers and servants. Moreover, should the letters turn out to be spurious, though the fact would make an immense impression on the country, it would not, in the estimation of the authorities of the Times, essentially vitiate their case. They have more than once announced that, though they believed themselves to be in a position to establish the authenticity of these documents up to the hilt, they regard them as secondary evidence, and as mere links in the chain of facts which they intend to lay before the Commission, so that the absence of one link would not destroy the value of the whole. At the same time it cannot be gainsaid that the failure to bring these letters home to the hon. member for Cork would greatly damage the case of the Times in public opinion. The story which was current in the middle of the week, that the Times had resolved to reserve the bulk of its evidence for the Scotch case, and only to tender sufficient evidence before the Commission to compel Mr. Parnell to go into the witness box, likewise obtains little credence. In the first place, it would be playing into the hands of the Parnellites, whose avowed object was, up to a short time ago, to "bedevil the Commission"; and in the next place, inasmuch as the Commissioners have power to call for any evidence they may think necessary, they could compel the Times to make a full disclosure of its case. Rumours which are, perhaps, more reliable, are those relating to the more noted witnesses to be called on both sides. The story that the Times has secured the testimony of an informer continues to be repeated with a persistence which disposes some people to think that there may be an element of truth in it. The statement is also put forth that Mrs. Carey, wife of James Carey, the informer, and Sir Robert Hamilton, Governor of Tasmania, have been subpœnaed. But if the latter is to give evidence, he ought to have sailed from the colony long ere now. On the side of the Nationalists, it is said that Mr. Richard Piggott, the late proprietor of the Irishman newspaper, who is credited with knowing more of the inner workings of the physical force party in Ireland than any other man, has been summoned as a witness by the legal advisers of Mr. Parnell. It is interesting to note in this connection how politicians on both sides are discounting the importance of the result of the judicial inquiry. Unionist orators insist that the cause of the Union will be in no way impaired by the failure of the Times to prove its allegations, while Home Rule speakers ridicule the idea that the triumph of Irish Nationalism is in any way bound up with the purity of Mr. Parnell's character.

The public of the East End of London are, on the whole, keeping their self-possession to a most praiseworthy extent under the terrible trial through which they are passing. To have six undiscovered murders perpetrated in their midst within the space of a very few months is enough to appal the stoutest-hearted population; but, save on Sunday, there has been little tendency to anything like panic. We do, however, hear muttered threatenings of a rising of the East Londoners against the poor Jews, for the idea seems to have taken possession of the lower orders that the miscreant is some Polish or Russian Jew. It is certainly the fact that the locality where all six murders were committed is one containing an extensive Jewish population, who earn their livelihood by street hawking, "sweating," and cigar-making. Probably if another murder be committed we may witness an outburst of Judenhetze in the East End; but at present there are no marked signs of such an event. A fact which greatly tends to keep the public mind calm is that all the six victims have been drawn from the same class of women, and that it is clear that they must, of their own free will, have accompanied their murderer into the byenooks and alleys where they met with their doom. This fact also to some extent explains the failure of the police to catch the murderer redhanded, for the women whom he selects as victims are familiar with the beats of the constables, and, on the assumption that they accompanied him willingly, would be liable to conceal themselves and him until the policeman had passed out of sight, and to then indicate to the murderer a spot where they would be likely to be screened from observation. The circumstance that one of the murders of last Sunday morning was perpetrated within the city affords some justification for the hope that the assassin may be brought to book. The city constables are a much finer and smarter body of men in every respect than the metropolitan force; they are better supervised, and are much less trammelled by the bonds of red tape than the men under the control of Sir Charles Warren. The city police authorities lost not a moment in offering a substantial reward for the discovery of the assassin—for everyone regards the series of murders as the work of one hand—a thing which Mr. Matthews, the Home Secretary, stedfastly refuses to do, on the ground that it is contrary to the precedent of the Home Office. The precedent is not of very long standing. Sir William Harcourt first established the rule of not offering Government rewards for the discovery of crime, and did so in opposition to the advice of the most experienced Scotland Yard authorities. But Sir William broke through his own rule several times, and Mr. Childers, who succeeded him, would doubtless have done likewise, but that his sway at the Home Office was a very brief one. However, what Mr. Matthews refuses to do private subscriptions and the action of the city authorities have done, and a sum of £1200 has now been raised as a reward for the discovery of the assassin. The fact of such a large amount of money having been offered without result is almost a proof that the assassin works single-handed, for the sum is quite sufficient to induce his accomplices, if he had any to betray him.

The bold step taken by the Bank of New Zealand in making a thorough investigation of its position, and taking drastic measures to free itself from its difficulties has met with much approval in city circles. The bank has decided to absorb the reserve fund, and to write off £3 per share from the existing £10 shares. Three months ago Mr. A. G. Horton, of Auckland, and Mr. Walter Johnston, of Wellington, arrived in London as a deputation from the Committee of Investigation in New Zealand to arrange for the raising of fresh capital and the securing of fresh and strong connections in the metropolis for the bank. After a good deal of difficulty they have succeeded. Of the new capital of one million sterling, £200,000 has been guaranteed by leading financial institutions in London; £300,000 more will be issued to the shareholders, and the £10 shares will be offered at a premium of £1 each. Messrs. Horton and Johnston are entitled to credit for the way in which they carried out their mission, and the entire secrecy which they preserved. This latter is the more remarkable, as the object of their visit to London had to be disclosed to several leading financial institutions before the report of the committee was issued.

The Rev. Thomas M'Cullagh, a former president of the Wesleyan Conference, is engaged in writing the life of the late Sir William M'Arthur.

Mr. Gladstone is arranging a collection of his letters for publication at some future date, under the title of "The Correspondence of the Right Hon. Wm. Ewart Gladstone, M.P."

THE SPRING FLOWER SHOW.

The spring flower show opened on Thursday by Lady Carrington in the Inner Domain was continued yesterday, and finally closed at 6 o'clock. The attendance throughout the day was much larger than on Thursday. One of the principal exhibits in the amateur class was accidentally omitted from our notice yesterday, and that was the collection of 50 varieties of pelargoniums shown by Mr. H. C. D'Ardier, of Gladesville, for which a first prize was given. Amongst these varieties were two that Mr. D'Ardier has raised from seedlings—one being the regal, and the other the show specimen and named respectively after his Excellency the Governor and Lady Carrington. They were raised in the open without any watering, and have attracted considerable attention. Mr. D'Ardier also exhibited 12 pelargoniums, which elicited marked approbation from the judges, who, however, were compelled to refuse a prize through one stem too many having been found in a cluster. The collection shown by Mr. C. B. Pitt gained a first prize, and deservedly so. The three roses which have met with the largest share of praise are those known as the Grand Mogul, Earl of Dufferin, and Her Majesty, and exhibited in Mr. Bennett's excellent collection, and for which first prizes were awarded. The trophy arranged by Messrs. Searl and Sons near the entrance has been specially admired. It was arranged in the form of a square, the base being a profusion of seasonable flowers, ferns, and foliage, whilst the upper decorations were made almost purely of blooms. A lyre formed of roses and chrysanthemums constituted the centre piece, and a pillar of roses set each corner off exquisitely. It was beautifully arranged, and does credit to the exhibitors. It is hoped that some new life will be thrown into the next annual show, and that, instead of their being a noticeable falling off year after year, the tendency will in future be one of continued improvement.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well-fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold in ½-lb. packets, by grocers, labelled thus—James Epps and Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.—[ADVT.]

THE MELBOURNE CUP.

SOME SIDE LIGHTS UPON IT.

[BY CRISPIN.]

In these times a man might be pardoned for not knowing who is King of Bavaria, or Khan of Persia, or what the latest development in Eastern politics is, or what Sir Morell Mackenzie says about the German doctors, but not for ignorance regarding the Melbourne Cup. The world over now it is known, and we can hardly tell exactly how many there are who, having occasion to come to Australia, fix the time of their visit so that it will include the first Tuesday in November. I do not know either how many make it their business to sojourn to the "Land of the Golden Fleece" for the Cup alone. Of these it may be estimated that there are more on depredation bent than on mere amusement. At any Cup meeting may be seen mingling with the native bookmakers citizens from the land of the Stars and Stripes who come to find, as they hope, easy prey, and those of other nations, upon the same business. What the English Derby is to the racing world the Cup is swiftly becoming. The Derby attracts people from all parts of the earth in large numbers; the Cup does the same thing in small numbers; and were it not for our comparative isolation it would only be a matter of time till Flemington became a formidable rival to Epsom Downs, and the Cup to the Grand Prix. It would be thought that in a country like America, sporting in its character, there would be great race meetings. There are great meetings, but they are not like the Cup. They attract only the file; the rank does not appear save in very small numbers, and then it only comprises men. The "ladies" who appear at races in America are such by courtesy. It is not considered there the thing to go to races, save perhaps to drive past a course at Long Branch or Newport; and as for sweeps or bets, society would frown fiercely upon them. Why, it is not easy to tell, except that the trotting of horses began under some shady auspices, and the racing events have never been quite lifted from the cloud. Any one who knows anything about racing in England or on the Continent is aware of the fact that "all England" patronises it, from Royalty down to 'Arry of Seven Dials. There come the fashion and the beauty of the season, and there come sometimes the gentlemen riders who tend to lift the sport a little from the professional groove into which it has always a tendency to fall. It is the love of the sport in England, as here, that has redeemed it from baseness and from being "the devil's own game." It is the sport which such as Whyte Melville and Charles Kingsley and many another loved, who never more shall hear the ring of a rowel or the clamp of a bit. It is such a sport as helped to make Englishmen the hardy race they are. The sport has fallen from its old form; but society altogether has fallen in many ways from its old form. We are less sturdy than our forefathers, if more keen. We have lost something of chivalry if we have gained something of adaptibility. We are more inclined to be speculative and gamesters than were they, because we have allowed the habit to creep into our commercial life. They betted and gambled because they loved the excitement. We love the excitement too, but we love winning money better. We are fast losing the adventurous instinct in its best form, and in its place is coming a gambling disposition which is as unmanly as it is unsportsmanlike.

And how is it with us here in Australia, how is it with us here? We are, perhaps, the most enthusiastic sporting people in the world. Take any Saturday you please, and make if possible a tour of the recreation grounds of the city and suburbs. What do you find? Tens of thousands of people enjoying sports of all kinds. To the stranger in Australia it is startling at first. He gets used to it, however, and after a time sees nothing uncommon in the crowd at the Association Cricket Ground, or that on the Parramatta to view a boatrace, or that at Randwick at the Spring meeting—and then, the Cup! That is a surprise, overwhelming, stupefying, in this small population of three millions altogether: but even it is taken by-and-bye as a matter of course, and the impression only remains that we are fond of sports to a remarkable degree. How has it come about? It is our inheritance to begin with, from the old land. We brought it with us. Then came in the advantages of our climate for sports, and so they grew until we now look out upon a people who possess a sporting habit which is in itself at once a danger and a benefit. It is a benefit from the physical standpoint; it is a danger from the social and moral standpoint. But there are only few who stop to think of that. The habit is too strong. It has been cultivated even by the native writers, and those who are called "Australian poets," though some of them, like Gordon, are only such by adoption, not by grace. If one wanders through the interior of the country one can understand the love of horse-racing here. There is the innate love of the sport, which has been made somewhat romantic by such as Gordon, who was essentially a Whyte Melville of sporting rhyme. In him there was the dash, the fire, the daring of the horseman, the love of the horse, and the delight in its use. He tried to throw around the sport the glamour of his music, and has he not done so? I have heard him quoted in the bush, beside a camp fire, by a weather-beaten coach-driver. I have heard men use his name reverently when they talked of lonely days and nights with the sheep far off on the treeless plains. And many a time, in unexpected places, I have found men, who never would be expected to care a rush for poetry, familiar with "Britomarte" and the "Roll of the Kettledrum." The reason for it was plain. Gordon's poems were like good hunting songs. And what man who hunts is there who is not stirred by "John Peel"? What man is there that has had experiences with horses that would not read "Hippodromania"? Men read eagerly of a life that they understand when what he read is written by the hand of one of artistic power who has lived the life. But they must have lived the life. Gordon lived it. He spoke whereof he knew, and his words had the true ring in them. "Poetry does not attract me," say so many; but when poetry pourtrays the life or the experience they know in language that they understand, they read it, and catch the flavour of the art that makes the thing always after an educating, impressive influence upon them. So I repeat, the habit has been made more secure, more deep, by such as Gordon. Talk to the young gentleman rider in the West about the money he has lost at horse-racing, and the danger there is in it to society, and he will turn to Gordon for answer. Speak to a bullock-driver who has ventured five pounds in a sweep, of the loss that is likely to occur to him, and he will tell you that he finds satisfaction in the excitement and the delightful element of chance in the sport, winding up with a line, perhaps. I have heard far out on the western plains, from some manly fellow who has imbibed Gordon's pessimistic philosophy, quotations such as these:—

"We have no wish to exaggerate
  The worth of the sports we prize.
Some toil for their church, and some for their State,
  And some for their merchandise;
Some traffic and trade in the city's mart,
  Some toil by land and sea,
Some follow science, some cleave to art,
  And some to scandal and tea.

And some for their country and their Queen
  Would fight if a chance they had,
Good sooth 'twere a sorry world I ween
  If we all went galloping mad;
Yet if once we efface the joys of the chase
  From the land, and outroot the stud,
Good-bye to the Anglo-Saxon race,
  Farewell to the Norman blood!"

• • • • •

Thus the measured stroke on elastic sward
  Of the steed three-parts extended,
Hard held the breath of his nostrils broad
  With the golden ether blended;
Thus the leap, the rise from the springy turf,
  The rush through the buoyant air;
And the light shock landing—the veriest serf
  Is an Emperor, then and there."

Few can understand how strong a hold Gordon's pessimism has upon the people of the back-blocks; how much they are given to philosophise in their queer fashion; and how they are learned to regard as the only things worth living for, the chance of a few good seasons to enable them to clear out, or riding about, and getting a chance to visit the Cup meeting if they can. And down they come to Melbourne, and back they go whether winners or losers, or neither, to philosophise again, and believe in nothing particularly. These men are one section of the community, and to my mind it is after all the best in many respects. I cannot share in the vendetta of feeling against the squatter, against the man who gives his life to the soil. He in his place is a better type than the city man in his place. In his loss or gain there is something to him of the adventurous, born of his free and natural life. He possesses more of the real sporting spirit wherein our fathers worked; he is, if not less reckless, still less sordid, and that is a strong point in his favour. The man of the city as a rule bets to make money, and his betting is based upon that alone, and not on the love that a man who lives among horses feels to see a fight to the finish between two splendid animals. There is something of the Arab in the one feeling, there is something of the Jew in the other.

I believe thoroughly that we are on the wrong track here. Betting has become with us a mania. We bet on everything, save on politics; and even that has begun in no small way. The love of sport is being warped to mean conclusions by the love of money. I do not say that the vast crowds who bet do not enjoy a race, but I do say that they enjoy it chiefly because they have some money on it. I believe that the enjoyment of the race is lost to three-fourths of the people at a race meeting every year because the horse they have bet on has been defeated. How can a man take a real pleasure out of a race who sees the horse he has backed falling behind? The only man that does get pleasure is he who is free to fix his affections upon any winner that may be, whether it is Arsenal, Dunlop, or Mentor, or Trident, or Australian Peer, or Ensign. It is quite possible to take the most intense pleasure out of a race when you have no money at stake, and that is the test of the sporting spirit. To be personal, I have known men who attended the great race-meetings of England and the Continent, and who never put a penny on them, more than perhaps the price of a new hat. But, say devotees of the sport, "How could we have successful race-meetings without betting?" I suppose that would be almost impossible, save on a small scale, and yet it has been done. But is this racing carnival a necessity, a pleasure that is indispensible? Is it quite true that we would not have such good stock if we had not great race-meetings?—that men would sell their studs, and we would soon lose the strain of our best imported stock? That is possible; but may we not question the statement that we have better horses throughout the country because of these race-meetings? I do not believe that the result so commended is as evident as we would be made to think. We have only fairly good horses here throughout the country. We would get more good, generally speaking, from imported trotting stock than from the running blood that we now encourage. No, the plea is a poor one. The real benefit lies in a deepening of the affectionate interest in the horse and an enjoyment of all kinds of sport. One cannot agree with men like John Ruskin who see in sports a menace to the healthy life of the people. It is the privilege of the great many to speak in absolute phrases; of those who try to understand them, to speak in relative phrases. Looking over the plane of social life, the mind of the poet, of the philosopher, and of the student of sociology is struck with a painful surprise to see how little the fine elements of existence are cultivated, and how the tendency is to become sordid and selfish grubbing after money, and so they speak in sharp and sweeping phrases often. The sociologist sees money changing hands in immense sums without any labour or value as the basis of the transaction; he sees great losses and great gains—men made poor and men made rich upon an element of chance, and is it surprising that he condemns the process? Why there are thousands of people that visit Flemington or Randwick, who lose large sums of money every year from the chase of the golden butterfly of chance. And they lose it coolly, too, let that be said of them, though I doubt if they are any the better because they have come to that condition when they can lose coolly and gracefully. The accomplished gambler just does that. But would these people carry that gambling instinct into, say, an Art Union to the same extent? Would they be as anxious to secure a gem of Sallé or Bougereau, or Leighton or Graham, or Werner or Gabriel Max, as they are to have their "chosen" win the Cup or the Derby? I think not, though Heaven forbid that Art should become generally so debased as to be subject to art unions. What more degrading to an artist than that his picture shall be given in exchange, not for the price of human taste and affection for his work, but for the price of a lucky number. But this thing aside it is significant that we are as a people more concerned for the physical and the momentary in our pleasures than for the artistic and enduring. I have in my mind at this moment a man whom I regard as one of the most striking examples of those who are physically buoyant and artistically refined. He is a noted figure in the little colony of Tasmania, once a Premier, always a student, a politician in feeling for the good of his race, an artist at soul, a man of simple pleasures. I turn over some letters which came to me from him once, and they speak of a type of man but rarely found, and yet which ought to be the outgrowth of the soil and climate of this land of "Sea and bright wind and heaven of ardent airs,

More dear than all things earth-born."

One day I went to find this man in his home, and where think you I found him, at a time when political troubles were heaving around him, small perhaps by comparison, but quite as irritating as if they sprang from a larger political environment, I found him seated in an alcove which he had built off from his drawing-room, and absorbed before a statue of Medusa. He sat there lost to my obtrusive presence till I touched him on the shoulder at the last, and asked to share his quiet with him. What fleeting excitement of a feverish afternoon on the grandstand at Flemington could equal the quiet pleasure of that slow almost voiceless enjoyment of the beautiful statue of Medusa as she sat and held in her lucid fingers the strand of hair just curling into a serpent's form? Only the suggestion of horror! Was it overcoloured by the delicacy of the art of the sculptor? and was the enjoyment lessened, because I knew the hand of him shaped that marble, who went over from his quiet home among the Catskills to Florence and to Rome, and wrought this dream in marble? I would not seek to decry the love of all manly sports, but we stand confronted by the danger of running all to flesh and bone, and losing the pulsation of the refining instincts that clothes flesh and bone in a garment of dignity and elevated strength. For when the race is ended on the course, and the accounts are settled, and we go back to our goods and to our merchandise, what thing have we left to give us lasting pleasure if we have staked our short-lived enjoyment on one pound or one thousand?

No one can feel much admiration in the judgment of those of us who never take any pleasure out of physical contests, whether of horse or of man, for there is nothing less satisfactory in the world than a muscleless man; but still it is worth while setting up for ourselves a glass sometimes wherein we may see ourselves as we really are. Cup Day in Melbourne is a mixture of danger and honest human pleasure, but the danger is growing greater than the honesty of the pleasure equals. The extravagance, the feverishness, the gambling instinct that springs from it and pervades all classes of the people stand formidably beside the orderly fashion in which the people take their pleasures, the comparative absence of licentiousness or drunkenness and the relaxation from the great events, which is less violently dissipated than might be expected. My remembrance of the Melbourne Cup meetings is one of more excitement and fatigue than apparent evil. Upon the surface there appears no violent misuse of the privileges of existence, but the gambling element is a terrible menace to the future of this country, and it is useless to blind our eyes to the fact. How shall we mend it? Who can say? All reaction must come from the genius of the people, which has been educated to the point of expression through varied experiences, and the near future will not see any marked change in our attitude towards our sports. But that this hoped for time will come, any one who believes in humanity and the destiny of the Anglo-Saxon race must believe; the time when we shall be strong like the Greeks, and have all their aspirations and their artistic natures, too; when we shall regard not only the sports which our poet Gordon loved, but the nature, and therefore the art, which he loved also. The two can go together, for he that wrote the "Roll of the Kettledrum" wrote also:—

"The skies were fairer and shores were firmer—
  The blue sea over the bright sand rolled;
Babble and prattle and ripple and murmur,
  Skies of silver and glamour of gold—
And the sunset bathed in the gulf to lend her
  A garland of pinks and purples tender,
A tinge of the sun-god's rosy splendor,
  A tithe of his glories manifold."

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

A RETROSPECT OF THE INDUSTRIES.

WOMAN'S WORK IN AUSTRALIA.

It now remains to pass briefly in review the general advantages of the Women's Exhibition, which slowly, but surely, advanced to such immense national importance. Moreover, we may glean a few stray lessons for our own profit as we go, by an investigation of details and minutiae for which woman's confessedly superior tact and discernment pre-eminently fit her. We have seen that the quiet plodding labours of our lady-workers have made an abiding mark on the face of the country. They have actually succeeded (as facts and figures amply prove) in not only stimulating the material industry of feminine occupation in New South Wales, but have helped to increase the resources of that other praiseworthy womanly agency—I mean the Queen's Fund, so wisely administered by Lady Carrington. It may be quite true, as Rochefoucauld said, that "those who bestow too much application on trifling things become generally incapable of great ones." But it is quite true, as Goldsmith affirmed, that "those who place their affections at first on trifles for amusement, will find those trifles become at last their most serious concerns." Small things in this scheme are seeds for future growth. Hope and aspiration are the two wings on which we rise to confidence and to ultimate success. They are "Like happy blossoms fair,

  And promise timely fruit, if you will stay
    But the maturing."

Each cheerful worker possessed a power, though small in some instances, to move the lever aright. That power was put in force and utilised, because the will was not paralysed before the seeming difficulty of getting a fulcrum for the lever of influence. With courage came an opening way and a growing force.

"As the small pebble stirs the peaceful lake
  The centre moved, a circle straight succeeds,
  Another still, and still another spreads."

In a word, the victory is won, the position is gained, and the ladies of our colony have a wide and unclouded horizon of remunerative labour stretching into infinity before them. Nor is there any valid reason why Australian women should not climb to the heights of undoubted and recognised usefulness. Could not this mighty power be cultivated on Australian soil, where woman's work is no less indigenous and fruitful for good when wisely fostered and trained, as it is in the old and new worlds beyond the Pacific?

But success will be gained only by harmony of spirit and unity of effort. "Unanimity in a grand cause is the lever which can and will move the world." In spite of our intense desire and striving to help on philanthropic work, unanimity is not our strong point. More concentration is what we want; decentralisation is the rock on which many of our good actions split. Therefore, really we can all sympathise with the perturbed nobleman who could not sleep at night for thinking what new associations he might fear to see formed. In future the system pursued should spring from voluntary co-operation by persons who bring to the work freshness and independence of mind, unbiassed by personal considerations. With the many conclusive proofs we have of female fitness to work large systems amongst us we look to the loving-hearted, cultured, earnest women to concede hearty appreciation of such true woman's work as the competitors have triumphantly earned for themselves in the recent Exhibition. Would that in our large, noble-hearted, generous, indefatigable Sydney we could attain to more harmony, more unity of effort and action. Social misery can be successfully combated by nothing less than a coalition of all social forces in the struggle. Our present competition in benevolence is as odious as it is wasteful.

The history of too many of our independent foundations is often a history of jars and squabbles owing to want of discipline, rules, and concord in aim. The fact that quarrels do occur has unfortunately brought discredit on feminine leadership and fitness for rule. But it is only traceable to the absence of centralisation, which I have all along been lamenting. Were all the little and the big committees (too often swayed by one imperious will) under supervision from a greater centre, able to form impartial judgment, it is obvious that we should hear less of those painful struggles for personal prominence which at present deform so much of our woman's work. Let the committees, as now, consist mainly of women, move in a purer atmosphere, wider in extent and horizon, instead of stifling in the cramped prejudiced little world of local politics which usually govern them. Let them, in compensation for the loss of their individuality, rejoice in the higher thought that though singly each woman's influence is very small, yet, by incorporation with a great national band, they are like the "little drops of water, little grains of sand"—an aggregate of atoms, combining to form the greatest force of nature.

It is true that this co-operation of many different characters for one common end involves much pliability in trifles, much patience, much power of self-effacement, if collision is to be avoided; and it is for this reason that Australian dispositions, I think, would not bear transplanting to other shores. Australian women cannot easily bend their wills, and therefore they cannot work in large bodies like the German women, who have heavenly tempers. The latter are singularly gentle and free from self-assertion, very open to conviction, and obedience to rules seems to come naturally to them. I cannot in strict impartiality—though it pains me to say it—give the same palm to our butterflies of charity. The old fable of the sun and the wind, my sisters, has a wonderful charm about it. The greatest power is won invariably by the softest, gentlest influences; and once more I repeat, that the unpretending German women have won themselves a field of more glorious usefulness, and higher national recognition in good works, than any others in the world.

Let the women of Sydney, who are so untiringly zealous in every benevolent scheme, so heroically self-sacrificing where they have it all their own way, as late records testify, not scorn to lay to heart a word in season. Let us realise that individual and personal effort, however admirable, is but a weak weapon with which to fight the giant forces around us, and that by an organised banding together of earnest workers we shall have a broad and solid base to our phalanx with which to confront difficulties which no scattered skirmishers, however resolute, can ever hope to combat effectually. Then our monstrous social evils, in whatever form, might in time lower their hydra heads before the minute and discerning investigation, the sound economy, of a really national and properly organised philanthropy. There are numbers of women in the colonies who have had no systematic training in youth, they have never learnt a single thing thoroughly, who have perhaps mental power, yet who through adverse circumstances are thrown on their own resources, and have to maintain themselves. Such women are to be pitied, and their parents are to be blamed. Riches, even the greatest fortunes, do sometimes make for themselves wings; but that middle-class girls may some time in the course of their lives have to earn their own bread is an idea that seldom seems to enter the heads of middle-class parents. This baneful condition exists nowhere else in the world India excepted more than in Australia, it being probably the result of enormous and rapid development of wealth in some instances, and the mistaken teachings of parents on the other, especially a proportion of those belonging to the great middle class in this country.

Before saying anything about the avenues of employment open to educated and trained women in Australia, it may not be amiss to compare our girls with those of other lands. The average girl in America knows perfectly well how to take care of herself, and rather prides herself on the possession of a stiff neck, instead of a manageable spine. The English girl is more lovable, replete with womanly refinement, and attributes more domesticated. And the Australian girl—what of her? If her moral courage is not greater than that of her English sister, her independent will certainly is, and, having made up her mind and put her foot down, it is no trifle that will make her "budge." The phrase "bread-and-butter miss" cannot be used in Australia. There may be nothing very grand in this female tenacity—nothing heroic—and men may well prefer that gentle pliability and timidity which they expect to find in women, but in the battle of life—the battle for existence—it is the bending, weak, and supple, who go to the wall. Meek, gentle, lovable Amelia Sedgewick is a character all admire, but she had no chance against Becky Sharpe. And when stern necessity drives a young woman to face a cold, and ofttimes harsh, world, precociousness is better than timidity. It was John Stuart Mill who gave it as his opinion that "the subordination of one sex to the other was wrong in itself, and one of the chief hindrances to human improvement, and that it ought to be replaced by a principle of perfect equality, admitting no power or privilege on the one side or disability on the other." Time has shown that John Stuart Mill was right. The tendency in all civilised countries, so far as women are concerned, is admitted to be a "levelling-up tendency," and Australians are not behind them in this respect. And this is the more encouraging when the fact is remembered that a very large portion of our women seem to have roused themselves, and are willing to apply themselves heart and soul to all occupations, intellectual and industrial, that may come within their scope and are open to them. A great amelioration of the condition of the sex will be the result. It is to be hoped that the desire to work and to help will continue in ever-widening circles until all women are brought under its ennobling influence.

Not the least interesting event in connection with the "Industries" was the subject of sick nursing, and one which is likely to open up a wide field for feminine lucrative labour. The general feeling at the examination of nurses was satisfaction; more especially as the young candidates were trained in the colony, and displayed a high standard of excellence in the profession. Nursing the sick is fast growing into a regularly studied profession in the colonies, almost a science, and we are every day outgrowing the old prejudice against professional nurses more and more, and are even beginning to realise that no amateur nursing, however zealous and devoted, can equal that of a well-trained professional. One of the great hindrances in the way of proper treatment of the sick is sentimentality, and for this reason many a valuable life has been crippled, and even lost. This may seem a harsh thing to say, but is it not true? "It would be so cold-hearted to let a paid stranger attend our dear ones, while we who would gladly give our lives for them stand by idle and useless." This is the cry at once if professional nursing be suggested, the unlucky suggestor being usually overwhelmed with scorn and indignation. The opposal may be natural enough, but it is nonsence nevertheless. In the first place the patient does not require our lives, but skilled attention, and that we cannot give; in the second, though giving up the chief and important place at the bed we need be neither useless nor idle. Just as we would not dream in serious illness of taking the doctor's part, so little ought we, unless obliged absolutely, to try to nurse the sick person unaided by skilled professional training. One of the great faults of amateur nurses arises from an excess of devotion. They are so bent on considering their patient, that they decline to consider themselves. They rush about careless of food or rest with a kind of "as-long-as-the-patient-is-all-right-I-don't-matter" feeling, very praiseworthy in itself, but utterly fatal if carried too far. Again, that great requisite firmness is altogether lacking in them. Nowhere is the hand of steel in a glove of velvet more needed than in a sick-room. Patients are very ungrateful; they would gladly at times exchange loving fuss for quiet indifference. People are slow to believe in their own inefficiency; and, strangely enough, while admitting the great gifts required to make a good nurse, there are few persons who can be brought to see their deficiencies in the respect of complete quiet for the patient. "Dear So-and-so," they say, "is so fond of me, I have always done her good, I'm sure I can cheer her;" and up goes the dear good soul to the sick room, chatters incessantly to cheer (?) the poor sick one, patronising the nurse all the while, whom she considers "so dense, my dear," makes totally impracticable suggestions, and upsets all the arrangements made for the comfort of the patient, who is completely worn out by the time the "friend" takes her leave. These are among the delights of sick-nursing, so that if one has not a good constitution, a good temper, unshaken nerves, and a fair share of patience and firmness, they should not undertake its responsible duties. The Exhibition has opened up other fields of remunerative industry, so that no woman amongst us need ask now: "What am I to do to make myself a self-supporting and respected woman?"

FOOD IN SUMMER.

(From a Bombay Paper.)

The dyspeptic usually has far more trouble with his stomach in summer than in winter. During the summer months a large proportion of people are subject to attacks of gastric disturbance and diarrhœal affections, and not a few habitually go to the table with a certain dread of the consequences of their eating. Now all this ought not to be so, and is easily corrected. We find out how to correct our faults by studying nature.

A few weeks since a patient complained to us that he was troubled with a constant looseness of the bowels, stating that it did not trouble him in winter, and that he could not account for it, as he was regular in his modes of living. On asking him if he had changed his diet since the winter, he replied, "not a whit." The truth was then driven home by the question: "What would you think of a man who moved from the Polar regions to a tropical climate and didn't change his diet?" This man had moved from midwinter to midsummer without changing his dietary.

The bills of fare in the prominent restaurants of our large cities during the summer months are a disgrace to civilisation. There they are, with their full list of meats, a dietary sufficient for the coldest day in February. What wonder that there are so many diseased livers and kidneys, and so much dyspepsia and all matter of gastro-intestinal disorders! A move in the right direction is the vegetarian restaurant one runs across here and there, for meat several times a day is too much. True, for one accustomed to the stimulating principles of meat and wine, the vegetarian diet will hardly seem tempting at first, but the aversion is absolutely artificial. It should be said, too, that such a one may lack his usual vigour in the afternoon for several days after starting the midday "dinner of herbs." In hot climates people and animals do not live as we in England live during the hot months, and we should take a lesson from our cousins in other parts.

If a man likes to eat meat when he would be better off with something else he has himself to thank for the illness to which he may fall a victim. He must bear in mind that nature exacts penalties for the infringements of her laws. The European who takes much alcohol, the Chinese who smokes opium, the Styrian who takes arsenic, the Oriental who takes hashisch, must be made to fully understand that for all these things nature will surely call them into judgment. The "nutmeg liver" and the epileptic child are examples of penalties the "wine-bibber" must incur. Dyspepsia, biliousness, diarrhœal diseases, liver and kidney affections, derangement of the nervous system and functional troubles with the heart are some of the consequences of eating too much meat for a series of years.

"I wish I could eat that plate of greens" (containing lettuce, onions, radishes, &c.), said a semi-dyspeptic the other day. "Change your diet and you will soon accomplish your desire," was the terse reply; and, sure enough, in a week he could eat them without ill effects.

Many avoid vegetables and fruits in summer as precautions against diarrhœa. This is a mistake. Fruit—neither green nor over-ripe—and properly cooked vegetables, with the cereals, &c., taken in moderation and regularly, are the best diet for the hot months, and the preventive of intestinal disturbances. Drinks like lemonade are excellent. "All beer will turn into vinegar in time;" therefore the dyspeptic should avoid alcohol.

A word to those who cannot digest anything with comfort. Peptonise your food, and take it in small quantities, regularly. Charcoal biscuits are to be highly commended. Abstain from alcoholic drinks. See that the bowels are kept regular. For gastric dyspepsia pepsin tabloids are strongly recommended, while zymine tabloids are given for intestinal dyspepsia, and compound zymine tabloids for bilious dyspepsia. There are mites in science as well as in charity.

THE CENTENNIAL PARK NUISANCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of Thursday I see reference is again made to the abominable stench proceeding from the Centennial Park: but, Sir, what is the use of writing with the object of producing comfort, and, what is of more importance, with the object of keeping away sickness and disease, when the Premier tells us that we must still bear it until he is able to go out to Paddington and sample the odour, and so decide whether it is really hurtful and unpleasant? This state of things has been going on for a month or more, and during this time the Park manure has not been allowed to "waste its sweetness on the desert air," but the stench has been carried into Paddington, filling the houses with flies, and many of them with sickness. Now what will happen to Paddington if the Premier finds that he cannot come out to sample this odour till months have passed, and then when he does come, if the wind should blow from the north-east his mission will be a failure. Again, Sir Henry might have a cold, and lose the whole benefit of the effluvia; and so things may go on till we are all prostrated with sickness, and anxiously waiting and watching for the visit, on a favourable day, of the man to test the atmosphere. But in the meantime we will still continue, on arriving home from office, to offer up our little prayer for Sir Henry Parkes.

I am, &c., ARTHUR REDMOND.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S BIRTHDAY.

The 47th anniversary of the birthday of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was observed yesterday as a public holiday, and the day was generally given up to festivity. The weather was all that could be desired for enjoyment. A cool wind prevailed, and many thousands of persons were induced to spend the day out of doors. The choice of amusements was as great as, if not greater than, on any previous occasion of the kind. Some military manœuvres were carried out between Botany and Moore Park, and the movements of the Volunteers were watched by many persons with a considerable degree of interest. The event which took precedence in point of popularity, was the Balmain regatta, held on the waters of Iron Cove. The programme was a very elaborate one, and the affair was considered to be the most successful of the kind that has taken place for some years past. The November meeting of the Rosehill Racing Club was initiated at the Rosehill course, and attracted a very liberal amount of patronage. An Orange demonstration held at Ryde was numerously attended. Enthusiastic lovers of cricket spent the day on the Association Ground, where there was a match between a team of 11 selected from the Association, and 18 members of the Union. The Botanic Gardens, as well as the Zoological Gardens, and the Rose and Spring Show of the Horticultural Society were visited by large numbers of people. Manly, Bondi, Coogee, Botany, and other watering-places were exceedingly well patronised, and the skating rinks were well patronised. The harbour excursions also proved highly popular. In the evening most of the theatres and other places of amusement were crowded. Subjoined are details of the various events that took place.

BALMAIN REGATTA.

The great aquatic event of the day—Balmain Annual Regatta—took place on the waters of Iron Cove, and was largely patronised by the general public; indeed the attendance was better than it has been for some four or five years past. The weather—always an important factor in the success of out-door amusements of any kind—was favourable, and the meeting proved thoroughly enjoyable in every respect. The fine steamer Guthrie, under the command of the genial Captain Craig (himself an old resident of Balmain), served as the flagship, and she was in beautiful trim for the occasion, displaying a profusion of flags from stem to truck. This vessel was moored off Cockatoo Island, and from her deck an almost uninterrupted view of the majority of the events was to be obtained, consequently she was well filled by visitors, including a large number of ladies, the Hon. J. H. Young (Speaker of the Legislative Assembly), Messrs. Garrard, Hawthorne, F. J. Smith, Sydney Smith, Tonkin, Garland, and Riley, Ms.L.A., Mr. E. H. Buchanan, Mayor of Balmain (president of the regatta committee), and several well-known residents of the populous suburb. The Premier Band, stationed on the poop of the Guthrie, rendered a number of pleasing airs, and dancing was indulged in at intervals. The scene, as viewed from the bridge of the flagship, was exceedingly beautiful, the chief features in the panorama being the yachts and smaller craft gliding over glistening wavelets, vessels decked with the flags of all nations, and sloping bush-clad rocks covered to the water's edge with spectators in holiday attire, while further away in the distance the Parramatta and the homes of the people stretching out into the "bush" served to complete a very charming picture. A good north-easter came up shortly before midday, giving plenty of wind for the sailing races. About this time Iron Cove proper presented a magnificent appearance, the splendid sheet of water being literally covered with sailing and rowing craft of every conceivable description, ranging from the stately yachts Electra and Daphne down to the tiniest shell that could possibly keep afloat, and some of those present who had witnessed regattas in many lands voted that this was "by far the finest sight they had ever seen."

Luncheon was served on board the Guthrie at 1 o'clock, when a large number of those present were accommodated in the saloon. There was an entire absence of speech-making. A little later on an interesting ceremony took place on the poop of the steamer, when Mr. E. H. Buchanan, acting on behalf of the Balmain regatta committee, presented a handsome liqueur stand to Captain Craig. It bore the following inscription:—"Balmain Regatta, 1888. E. and A. S. S. Guthrie, flagship. Presented to Captain Hugh Craig by the committee as a souvenir of the above regatta." In making the presentation, the Mayor of Balmain alluded to the kindness of the captain and agents in placing the Guthrie at the disposal of the regatta committee, and said that they desired to return their thanks to those gentlemen for the favour they had conferred upon them. (Hear, hear.) He also wished to thank the public for the hearty support they had given to the committee. In conclusion, the speaker said he hoped that the deficiency which they incurred at the previous regatta, owing to the inclemency of the weather, would be wiped off by the receipts of the meeting of 1888. (Applause.) Captain Craig, who was received with cheers, briefly returned thanks for the souvenir which had been given to him by the committee, and assured those present that he would always treasure the gift as a memento of their pleasant meeting at the Balmain Regatta during the Centennial year. (Cheers.) Cheers were also given for Mr. Meeks (Gibbs, Bright, and Co.).

In all there were 23 races set down on the programme, and of these 22 were contested. The various officials and the members of the committee worked very hard, and all seemed animated by a laudable desire to make the Balmain Regatta of the Centennial year the thorough success it undoubtedly was. The following are the names of the officials:—Judge of sailing races, Mr. W. Garden; timekeepers, Mr. Chadwick and Mr. G. Snow; starter of rowing races, Mr. P. H. Sullivan; starter of sailing races, Mr. James Durning; judge of rowing races, Mr. H. Llewellyn; sailing committee, Messrs. W. Garden, G. Milham, and G. Dingwall; umpire, Mr. F. J. Smith; hon. treasurer, Mr. P. H. Sullivan; hon. secretary, Mr. O. H. Chidgey. The firing party was supplied by the industrial school ship Vernon. Several protests were entered in connection with the races; these will be dealt with by the committee at their next meeting. The proceedings did not terminate until nearly 6 o'clock.

The majority of the rowing events were well worth witnessing, and some splendid contests resulted. Mr. G. J. Ruwald, of the Mercantile Rowing Club, won the race for senior scullers in best and best boats. The Balmain Rowing Club was well represented, and they won two good events, viz., the Maiden Fours, in string-test gigs, and the Junior Senior Fours, also in string-test gigs. T. Hookey, F. J. Bellbridge, and R. S. Thompson (the two former having a seat in the intercolonial eight, and the latter being retained as emergency man) were in the crew that won the Junior Senior Fours Race. H. Messenger was successful in the contest for All-comers in light skiffs, handicapped; and the All-comers' Race in wager-boats was almost a gift for Chris. Neilsen, who rowed in splendid form over the whole distance.

The sailing races filled very well indeed, and it is pleasing to note that almost all the boats entered started, so that the boatowners must have been well satisfied with the handicaps they received. The early part of the day was most unsatisfactory for these contests, owing to the very light breeze, but towards midday the wind freshened considerably, and in the afternoon there was a splendid breeze from E.N.E., which enabled the boats to finish in good time. The canvas dingies 10ft. and under were the first to face the starter (Mr. James Durning), and a fine little fleet they were. Out of the 20 boats entered all put in an appearance but one. Young Ethel got into a leading position in the early part of the race, and maintained it till the finish. The 16ft. dingies made a very good race. Our Own, sailed by Tom Colebrook, had a good lead, and looked like a winner, but had the misfortune to capsize, and left Ellis, in the Sophia, to win as he liked. The latter named carried off the double without any difficulty. Besides being the helmsman in the winner of the 16-footers' race, he carried off the prize, with the Rosetta, in the 22-footers' race, beating his rivals—Colebrook in the Leonie and Fletcher in the Ellie—very easily. The 14ft. canvassers brought out a field of eight starters, but the Thomas Punch had the race all her own way. A splendid field of ten boats put in an appearance for the race for half-decked boats, 20ft. and over, among them being the crack 20-footers, Itonia and Genesta; but strange to say, the race resulted in a totally unexpected win for the Portia by 3 minutes 26 seconds; but a popular one for the Balmainites. For all boats 19ft. and upwards a field of nine boats faced the starter. Pandora was the first boat in, but Young Dick won on her time allowance. Last of all came the 14ft. wooden dingies, for which three boats started. The Young Victor led from the start, and won by more than three minutes. No protests, it is pleasing to remark, have reached the umpire, nor is it likely that any will. On this occasion the numbers were used on the sails, which have been found to be a decided improvement on the colours, although most of the competing boats carried their racing colours as well. The Yacht Race fell through owing to insufficient entries, the Volunteer being the only entry. This was a great pity, as it without doubt took a great deal of interest out of the regatta.

ROWING RACES.

Manual Labour Amateurs, pulling four oars, in string test gigs. Course: From flagship round two boats above Iron Cove Bridge and back to flagship. Prize, £10. Entrance, £1.—B. W. M. R. C., S. Davis, J. Backhouse, T. Emo, A. Cormack (stroke), J. Hellings (cox), 1; Just in Time, C. Farncombe, C. Cleeves, T. M'Farlane, A. Bruce (stroke), 2; White Horse, G. Wise, W. Johnson, R. Bishop, P. Duggan (stroke), 0. The men were sent away to a splendid start. Off White Horse Point Cormack's crew led, being closely followed by the others. Continuing on his course in a steady manner, and rowing a good stroke, Cormack rounded the flag first, leading Bruce by a length. On the way home a smart tussle ensued between Bruce and Duggan for second place. Cormack won by a length.

Senior Scullers, in best and best boats (amateurs). Course: From Longnose Point, round boats moored above Iron Cove Bridge, and back to flagship. Prize, value £10; entrance, £1.—G. J. Ruwald (M.R.C.), 1; J. Thomson (M.R.C.), 2; J. M'Rae, 0. Thomson went off very fast, but Ruwald, pulling a splendid stroke, kept with him, and headed him by half a length on passing the flagship. M'Rae steered a somewhat erratic course on the way down to the bridge. Ruwald, who rowed in fine form, led Thomson by a length at White Horse Point. From this out he continued to increase his lead, and eventually rowed home three lengths ahead of Thomson. M'Rae did not finish the course.

Maiden Fours, in spring-test gigs. Amateurs. Course: From Longnose Point, round Schnapper Island and back to flagship. Prize, value £8 8s. Entrance, £1.—B. R. C., S. J. Porter, W. Spinks, C. Frazer, F. Hooker (stroke), A. Chate (cox.), 1; S. R. C., J. Ryan, B. Smith, H. Hixon, D. S. Walker (stroke), J. Hellings (cox.), 2; E. S. R. C., G. W. Nash, M. Doyle, L. J. Pooley, W. E. Jacobs (stroke), S. Hellings (cox.), 3; Leichhardt R. C., H. Wilcox, F. Richards, H. Edwards, W. Richards (stroke), 0. The E. S. R. C. crew obtained the advantage of a poor start, but the Balmain men soon went away, and led by half a length in the 300 yards, the others being on level terms. Passing the flagship, the Balmain crew led by a length, the others being still on even terms, and striving hard for the second position. On the way to Schnapper Island the Sydneys drew on the Balmain representatives, and the E. S. R. C. fouled the Leichhardt men. In turning, which all did very well, Balmain were first, and drew away rapidly, being followed hard by the Sydneys, the other crews falling astern. On the homeward stretch Sydney lost their dash, and Balmain went away at a great rate, but nearing the flagship the Sydney men came again, and the result seemed in doubt until just at the finish, when Balmain spurted and won by a length, the Sydneys being six lengths in front of the E. S. R. C. men. The Balmain crew rowed in fine form.

All Youths (working or resident in Balmain, Leichhardt, or Birkenhead, and not exceeding 18 years of age), pulling pair of sculls, in club skiffs (or boats classed as such). Course: From Vernon steps, round Schnapper Island, and back to flagship. First prize, trophy, presented by M'Lean Bros. and Rigg, value £4 4s; second prize, pair of match sculls, presented by G. Eastmure, Esq., value £1 1s. Entrance, 5s.—This race did not take place, only two competitors putting in an appearance. The entries were:—Leichhardt, F. Wilcox; Balmain, B. Lyon; First Try, Frank Crimmins.

All-comers in light skiffs (those who have never won a stake over £10); handicapped. Course: From Vernon steps, round boats moored above Iron Cove Bridge and back to flagship. First prize, £10; second prize, £3. Entrance, £1. Alma, A. Cormack, 10st. 10lb., 35lb., 1; Boy Clarrie, S. Davis, 11st., 15lb., 2; Ensign, J. Gleaves, 10st., feather, 3; Lee, J. Anderson, 10st., feather; Bertie, A. Atkinson, 10st. 12lb., 10lb.; Here She Comes, C. Farncombe, 10st., 12lb. Cormack obtained the best of the start. At the flagship Anderson led, followed by Davis and Gleaves, all three rowing well. Off White Horse Point the positions were—Gleaves, Davis, Anderson, Atkinson, and Cormack. Farncombe retired at the B. R. C. shed. Cormack, who was pulling in great form, and showing much determination, led by two lengths at the turn, Davis being second, and Gleaves third. On the way home Cormack drew away with ease, being followed by Davis; but later on Gleaves passed Davis. A good race ensued between these three down to the flagship, where a sailing boat spoiled Gleaves's chance of obtaining second place. Cormack won by a couple of lengths, Davis second, Gleaves third. Junior senior fours, in string test gigs. Amateurs. Course: Same as senior sculls race; prize, value £10 10s; entrance, £1.—B. R. C., W. Spinks, T. Hooker, F. J. Belbridge, R. S. Thompson (stroke); A. Chate (coxswain), 1; E. S. R. C., G. W. Nash, W. E. Jacobs, J. A. Smith, A. W. Boshell (stroke), S. Hellings (coxswain), 2; M. R. C., T. W. Freeman, W. P. Berry, G. M'Gill, N. J. M'Donald (stroke), 3; G. R. R. C., L. O'Rourke, W. A. Walker, M. L. Zollner, C. J. M'Gregor (stroke), S. Ives (coxswain), 0. The Balmain crew showed to great advantage in this race. The Glebes got the best of the start. Passing the flagship Balmain had nearly a length to the good, the M. R. C. and E. S. R. C. being next. At the White Horse Point the Glebes were several lengths behind. A little further on the E. S. R. C. men, rowing in good form, went up into second place. Balmain led by three lengths at the turn, the E. S. R. C. being fully two lengths ahead of the M. R. C. men. On the homeward stretch the coxswain in the E. S. R. C. lost one of his rudder lines. This caused the boat to fall away considerably and allowed the M. R. C. to go up into the second position. The E. S. R. C. crew, having got over their difficulty, settled down to work in splendid style and soon beat the M. R. C. men, who rowed in anything but good form. The Balmain crew won by four lengths, the E. S. R. C. boat being two lengths in front of the M. R. C. representatives.

Coloured Men in Light Skiffs, single sculls, handicapped. Course same as All Youths' Race. First prize, £4; second, £2. Entrance, 5s.—Eagle, J. Renny, 10lb., 1; Waterlily, Jack, 5lb., 2; Sophie, Charlie, feather; Gamecock, Sandy, 5lb.; Eclipse, Dan, feather; Ruby, J. Herbert, feather. Won by J. Renny by a length from Jack, who finished second. Good race between these two.

All-comers, in Light Skiffs, handicapped.—Course: From Vernon steps, round boats moored above Iron Cove bridge, round flagship, round Schnapper Island, and back to flagship. First prize £12; second, £3. Entrance, £1.—H. Messenger, 15lb., 1; A. Cormack, 15lb., 2; W. Anderson, 10lb., 3; R. Green, feather; J. M'Lean, 15lb.; J. Backhouse, feather. This contest was a very fine one. Messenger, who rowed in his usual good form, won by about six lengths. M'Lean, the Richmond sculler, did not show to much advantage, but the chances are that he will make a good oarsman when he acquires a better knowledge of the science of rowing.

Maiden Scullers Amateurs, in best and best boats. Course: From Vernon Steps, round boats moored at Iron Cove Bridge, and back to flagship. First prize, trophy, value £5 5s; second prize, value £2. Entrance, 10s.—M. R. C., G. M'Gill, 1; Swan, J. M'Rae, 2; E. S. R. C., C. L. Quist, 3; Once More, J. Poole, 0; Manly R. C., G. C. Eastes, 0; S. R. C., J. Ryan, 0; Iona, E. Lamont, 0. M'Rae led at the start, but he was soon passed by M'Gill, who maintained his lead until the finish, when he rowed in five lengths ahead of M'Rae. Quist entered a protest against M'Gill and M'Rae on the ground that they did not go round the two flags.

Manual Labour Amateurs, pulling double sculls in club skiffs (with cox). Handicapped. Course same as the maiden scullers' race. First prize, £10; second prize, £2. Entrance, £1.—S. Davis, T. Emo (30lb.), 1; James Busch, H. Jones (feather), 2; E. Dalton, W. J. Scott (20lb.), 0. This was a splendidly-contested event, and the winners, who came home several lengths in front of the second crew, well deserved their victory.

All Comers, in best and best boats. Course: From Vernon Steps, round Rodd Island and back to flagship. First prize, £20; second, £3. Entrance, £1 10s. Four starters or no race.—C. Neilson, 1; J. Wulf, 2; A. Paul, 3; J. Gleaves, 0. Neilson, pulling a beautiful stroke, took the lead at the flagship and kept it all the way. The race was without interest, as he was never fully extended by Wulf. Paul rowed well, but was not fast enough. Gleaves did not finish.

Men-of-War, Naval Brigade, Naval Artillery, and Whalers, pulling five oars in service whaleboats (to be approved of by committee). Course: From Longnose, round Schnapper Island, and back to flagship. First prize, £8; second prize, £3. Entrance, 10s.—Daisy, No. 2 Company Naval Brigade, 1; Lily, No. 1 Naval Brigade, 2; Rosalind, H.M.S. Orlando, 3; Betsy, Costa Rica Packet, 0; Macassar, Costa Rica Packet, 0. A fine race between the two Naval Brigade crews resulted in a win for the Daisy, the Orlandos finishing third. The crew of the Lily entered a protest against the winning boat, on the ground that the latter put them ashore at the island. The protest was not entertained.

Manual Labour Amateurs, in club skiffs. Single sculls. Handicapped. Course: Same as the race for maiden amateurs. First prize, £8; second prize, trophy, presented by Oceanic Publishing Company, value £2 10s. Entrance, 10s.—R. Bishop, 30lb., 1; T. Emo, 20lb., 2; W. J. Scott, feather, 3; A. Poole, feather, 0; A. Bruce, 30lb., 0; J. Busch, 20lb., 0, J. Backhouse, 60lb., 0. Bishop won by about five lengths.

Vernon Boys in Ships' Boats.—Course: From flagship, round Vernon, round flagship, round Vernon and back to flagship. Prize, £6. Entrance free.—Schnappers, 16 oars, 1; Sharks, 8 oars, 2; Yellowtails, 12 oars, 3; Flatheads, 8 oars; Dolphins, 6 oars.

Punt Race. For all punts, propelled with shovels. Unlimited crews, in costume. Course: From flagship, round boat moored off baths and back to flagship. The committee reserved the right in this race to award the prize to the crew appearing in the most fanciful costumes, whether winning the race or not, but all punts must go over the full course. Prize, £4. Entrance, 2s 6d, and post entries.—King Thackambaw, W. Westbrook, fancy costume, 1; Raw Steak, J. Carruthers, fancy costume; Do Drop In, W. Elvin, fancy costume; Sudden Jerk, C. Phillips, fancy costume.

SAILING RACES.

Canvas Dingies, under canvas, 10ft. and under. Time allowance, 1½ minute per foot. Course: Flying start from line between starter's boat and Greenwich Wharf, round Schnapper Island, round flagship, round Vernon and back to flagship, finishing across bows. First prize, trophy, presented by Mr. Geo. Miller, value £5 5s; second prize, suit of clothes, presented Mr. Jas. Steenson; third prize, £1. Entrance, 2s 6d. Young Ethel, 10ft., W. Homes, 1; Neva, 10ft., R. Cameron, 2; Vesper, 10ft., R. Allen, 3. Other starters: Our Girls, 10ft., A. M'Arthur; Violet, 10ft., A. Smeal; Endeavour, 10ft., P. Summerbell; Our Girls, 8ft., A. Johnson; Ensign, 10ft., D. White; Our Boys, 8ft., E. Bell; Hero, 10ft., A. M'Donald; Dodger, 10ft., W. Sullivan; Maggie, 10ft., M. Morrison; Ione, 10ft., J. Williams; Rob Roy, 8ft., P. Corvie; Nita, 10ft., F. Stephenson; Dorothy, 10ft., F. Litchfield; Vite, 8ft., J. Rosser; Viking, 10ft., E. Deering; Neva, 10ft., R. Cameron; Olinda, 8ft., H. E. Blue. At 10.45 a.m. the starter got them away to a very good start, the wind being very light from E.S.E., with a flood tide. Squaresails were run up on most of the fleet; Neva, Ione, and Young Ethel being first to show to the fore. Ione soon took the lead, but breeze freshening Neva overhauled her and they passed the flagship in the following order.—Neva, Ione, Young Ethel, Dodger, Our Boys, Viking, Our Girls, 8ft.; Hero, Violet, Dorothy, Rob Rob, Vesper, Endeavour, Vite, Ensign, Maggie, Nita, Olinda, and Our Girls, 10ft. Nearing Schnapper Island the boats got becalmed for some little time, and rounding felt the flood tide severely. After getting well round, they all came about and made a leg over to the flagship, and from thence stood across to Cockatoo. Young Ethel on the starboard tack put Ione about (which was coming out of the latter place) and took the lead. They rounded the flagship as follows:—Young Ethel, 11h. 31m. 45s.; Ione, 11h. 32m. 20s.; Neva, 11h. 35m. 30s.; Vesper, 11h. 35m. 44s.; Our Girls (8ft.), 11h. 36m. 50s.; Viking, 11h. 37m.; Nita, 11h. 37m. 10s.; Our Boys and Dodger, 11h. 37m. 30s.; Endeavour, 11h. 37m. 52s.; Dorothy, 11h. 40m. 40.; and Hero, 11h. 40m. 51s. Several alterations in the positions took place on the way to the Vernon, and they finished in the following order:—Young Ethel, 11h. 46m. 30s.; Neva, 11h. 47m. 18s.; Vesper, 11h. 47m. 43s.; Ione, 11h. 48m. 40s.; Viking, 11h. 49m.; Dodger, 11h. 50m. 50s.; Our Girls (10ft.), 11h. 50m. 55s.; Nita, 11h. 51m. 7s.; Endeavour, 11h. 51m. 53s.; Dorothy, 11h. 52m. 28s.; Our Boys, Olinda, and Hero. Thus the Young Ethel takes first prize, Neva second, and Vesper third.

Dingies, under canvas, not exceeding 16ft. in length, 5ft. beam, and 20in. deep. Any crew. Course: From Sugar Works Bay, round boat off Iron Cove Bridge, round Fort Denison, round flagship, round Goat Island, and back to flagship. First prize, trophy, value £5, and £5 added; second prize, £2. Entrance, £1.—Sophia, C. G. Cameron, 1; Our Own, W. H. Pacey, 2. Other starters: Our Boys, G. Holmes; Rosebud, H. Eager; Our Girls, G. Bell; Vagabond, J. Scott. Shadow, J. Bird, was entered, but did not start. The boats were despatched to a good start, all carrying topsails. All hoisted squaresails but Sophia, which set a balloon jib. Our Girls was first away, followed by Vagabond, the latter assuming the lead, wind being still light. Sophia substituted a squaresail for her ballooner, and the order passing between the flagship and the gunboat was as follows:—Vagabond, Our Own, Sophia, Our Girls, Our Boys, and Rosebud. On the beat back from Iron Cove Bridge, Our Girls took up the lead, closely followed by Our Own, which was put about at the flagship by a pleasure boat. Sophia was third, and Our Boys in the rear of her. Our Boys and Vagabond worked the Cockatoo shore up, while the other boats all worked the Balmain shore. Our Own made good progress on the way up to the Denison, the times on rounding which were as follows:—Our Own, 12h. 50m.; Rosebud, 12h. 50m. 15s.; Sophia, 12h. 53m.; Our Boys, 12h. 53m. 50s.; Our Girls, 12h. 54m. 40s. All set squaresails for the run back but Rosebud. Sophia gained on the leader on the way to the flagship, and ran into second place, the times on rounding the ship being as follow:—Our Own, 1h. 22m. 20s.; Sophia, 1h. 23m. 15s.; and Our Girls, 1h. 25m. 37s. The jibe was safely negotiated, and sheet flattened for the beat to Goat Island. Our Own made a short leg over to Cockatoo, and then threw round and stood over to the bows of flagship, and coming round on the starboard tack made midstream. Sophia clearing the island stood down midstream, then came about on the port tack and made a short leg and threw round again, Our Own crossing her by some few hundred yards. Sophia came about and both stood over to Balmain shore, and from thence stood over to Greenwich. Our Own shortly after capsized, and left Sophia to finish the course, but the crew of the former on getting the boat righted again sailed the remainder of the course. Our Boys gave up during the race, being too far behind to have any show. The finishing times were as follows:—Sophia, 2h. 6m. 45s.; and Our Own, 2h. 18m. 40s. The Sophia was sailed by George Ellis, and Our Own and Our Boys by Tom Colebrook and Geo. Fletcher, respectively.

Canvas Dingies, 14ft. and under. No boat to rank less than 12ft.; time allowance, two minutes per foot; course same as last race. First prize, trophy presented by Mr. E. Turner, and £5 added; second prize, £2; third prize, £1. Entrance, 10s.—Thomas Punch, 14ft., J. Smith, 1; Pearle, 14ft., J. Hayes, 2; Bessie, 14ft., T. L. Mulhall, 3. Other starters: Violet, 14ft., O. Taylor; Estrella, 14ft., G. Snow; Ripple, 14ft., J. Smith; Bon Accord, 12ft., S. Corvie; Acme, 14ft., S. Small. A good start, all boats carrying topsails, but Acme and Bon Accord. Squaresails were hoisted soon after getting underway and passing the flagship the order was—Pearle, Violet, Thos. Punch, Estrella, Bessie, Ripple, Acme, and Bon Accord. On the beat back Thos. Punch took the lead a couple of boards bringing them up to Cockatoo, where they threw round and made a leg over to the flagship, and then stood over to the island again. Pearle worked the Balmain shore up. Thos. Punch cleared Long Nose with a good lead, followed by Violet, Pearle, Estrella, Bessie, Ripple, and Bon Accord. Pearle ran into second place, and on rounding Goat Island squaresails were hoisted for the run back. Off Greenwich the Estrella and Violet were running down together, when the former jibed, and Violet caught her mainsheet, and Estrella capsized, both boats getting entangled. The times of others on rounding the flagship were as follows:—Thomas Punch, 1h. 35m. 26s.; Pearle, 1h. 30m. 14s.; Bessie, 1h. 40m. 30s.; and Ripple. The same positions were maintained during the remainder of the course, and they finished as follows:—Thomas Punch, 2h. 21m. 14s.; Pearle, 2h. 22m.; Bessie, 2h. 26m. 21s.; and Ripple 2h. 35m. 50s. The winner was well handled throughout by Mr. W. Read.

Half-decked Boats, 20ft. and over. Handicapped. Amateur crews.—Course: From Sugar Works Bay, round flagship, round lightship (Sow and Pigs), and back to flagship. First prize, Mr. J. A. Ferguson's trophy and £8; second prize, £3. Entrance, £1 1s.—Portia, 22ft., W. E. Booth, 2 minutes, 1; Genesta, 20ft., C. G. Cameron, 1 minute, 2; Hermione, 20ft., W. Clarke, 2 minutes, 3. Other starters: Dreamland, 24ft., C. Hellings, scratch; Myosotis, 22ft., J. Flynn, 2 minutes; Itonia, 20ft., H. Carpenter, 1 minute; Varuna, 22ft., W. M. Paul, 1 minute; Wilfred, 24ft., P. Roberts, 1 minute; Our Jack, 24ft., G. R. Parrett, scratch; Idothea, 24ft., H. Bevan, 1 minute. All got away well together, the wind having made a good deal by this time, the tide being then on the ebb. Idothea hoisted spinnaker for the run to the ship, others hoisting squaresails or ballooners. The times rounding the flagship were as follows:—Idothea, 1h. 49m. 14s.; Genesta and Portia, 1h. 50m. 20s.; Varuna, 1h. 50m. 42s.; Dreamland, 1h. 51m. 18s.; Hermione and Itonia, 1h. 52m. 10s.; Wilfred and Myosotis, 1h. 52m. 25s.; and Our Jack, 1h. 52m. 44s. Kites were taken in, and the jibe rounding negotiated and sheets hauled aft for the work down to the lightship. All stood over to Cockatoo, Genesta, and Portia clearing the Island, but others not managing it had to throw round, making a short board, and followed leading boats. The wind a little stronger all stood out on starboard stretch working the tide down, Portia and Genesta gaining on Idothea, Itonia overhauling Hermione, a pretty race ensuing between those named. Good progress was made on the beat down, Portia assuming lead, others trying their best for supremacy, working down mid-channel, making the most of the ebb. On passing Bradley's all stood across towards eastern shore before coming about, then looking well up for the rounding mark, Portia, with her large sails, got through the water in good style. The wind being lighter, with occasional leads in it, the boats presented a very pretty spectacle as they followed almost in line to the lightship, which was rounded as follows:—Portia, at 3h. 11m. 55s.; Genesta, 3h. 14m. 5s.; Varuna, 3h. 18m. 45s.; Itonia, 3h. 18m. 55s.; Hermione, 3h. 20m. 50s.; Idothea, 3h. 32m.; Wilfred, 3h. 22m. 52s.; Our Jack, 3h. 24h. 30s.; Dreamland, 3h. 26s.; and Myosotis, 3h. 27min. 15sec. All hoisted squaresails for the run home, except Varuna and Idothea, the former setting balloon jib and latter a spinnaker. Kites were carried well up to Garden Island before jibing, same sails remained set to finish, the only change taking place was that Itonia had overhauled Varuna, the times at finish being Portia, 4h. 15m. 22sec.; Genesta 4h. 18m. 28sec.; Itonia, 4h. 21m. 23sec.; Varuna, 4h. 21m. 24sec.; Hermione, 4h. 21m. 25½; Idothea, 4h. 22m. 33sec.; Wilfred and Our Jack together, 4h. 25min. 52sec.; and Myosotis at 4h. 30m. 50sec. Thus the Portia, well sailed throughout by George Holmes, jun., takes first place; Genesta second, and Hermione third.

Open Boats, 20ft. to 24ft. Handicapped. Any crews. Course same as last race. First prize, the Mayor's Cup, trophy presented by Mr. E. H. Buchanan, Mayor of Balmain, and £10 added; 2nd prize, £5. Entrance, 21s. Rosetta, 22ft., E. Clark and G. Bonno, 1; Leonie, 22ft., W. H. Golding, 2; Ellie, 22ft., J. M'Murtrie, 3. A splendid start, the wind veering more to the eastward, ballooners were hoisted for the run to flagship. Ellie, with topsail up, got away with the lead, closely followed by Rosetta and Leonie in the order named. Rosetta, however, soon assumed the lead, and they rounded the ship as follows: Rosetta 3h. 1m. 21s., Ellie 3h. 1m. 57s., Leonie 3h. 2m. 5. The jibe was safely negotiated, and the boats came on the wind for the thrash below, all standing on the starboard tack to Greenwich, Rosetta holding a much better wind than her rivals. The latter boat was first about, Leonie and Ellie following, and all three cleared Longnose on this leg. The order being short boards down midstream to take advantage of the then strong ebb. Leonie improving her position slightly on the work down, followed the movements of Rosetta very careful, both choosing the northern shore after passing Fort Denison, Ellie still sticking to the channel. Leonie closing on Rosetta when off Robertson Point, a hard fight for supremacy resulting. Latter still in weather position and slightly ahead. Ellie, now round on starboard tack, stood across towards Bradley's, being crossed some little distance by others, she immediately throwing round. All heading for Shark Island, two leading boats stood well in before coming about. Ellie, tacking short, stood away on the starboard stretch, her topsail being sent aloft, and when off Chowder, the wind hauling a little more easterly, enabled them to lay their course—Rosetta steadily increasing her lead, Ellie holding her own with Leonie, the lightship being rounded by Rosetta at 4h. 20m. 30s., Leonie 4h. 21m. 42s., and Ellie 4h. 22m. 23s. Squaresails were smartly set on Rosetta and Ellie, former also setting topsail; Leonie's for'ard hand rather slow in setting hers. Kites were carried to the finish, which was as follows:—Rosetta, sailed by George Ellis, at 5h. 18m. 3s; Leonie, sailed by Tom Colebrook, at 5h. 22m. 31s.; and Ellie, sailed by G. Fletcher, at 5h. 22m. 32s.

All Boats, 18ft. and upwards. Amateur crews (limited), 18 to 22ft., 5 hands; 24ft. and over, 6 hands. Handicapped. Course: From Sugar Works Bay, round Schnapper Island, round Fort Denison, round flagship, round Goat Island, and back to flagship. First prize, trophy, presented by S. H. Hyam, Esq., value £6 6s; second prize, £3; third prize, £1. Entrance, 10s.—Young Dick, 19ft., W. Bull, 1; Pandora, 24ft., Dr. J. F. Elliott, 2; Triton, 22ft., J. M'Kinlay, 3. Other starters: Ianthe, 19ft. H. D., H. Hunt; Sappho, 22ft., G. S. Buzacott; Cynthia, 20ft. D. D., C. Saunders; Adeola, 20ft. open, A. Carpenter; Joylen, 24ft., J. L. Lyon; Harold, 22ft., M. Marshall. A good start, Triton, Joylen, Young Dick, Pandora, and Adeola setting squaresails and other balloon jibs for the run to Schnapper Island, which they rounded as follows:—Triton, 3h. 22m. 40s.; Harold, 3h. 23m. 40s.; Joylen, 3h. 23m. 50s.; Young Dick, 3h. 25m. 53s.; Cynthia, 3h. 24m. 30s.; Pandora, 3h. 24m. 56s.; Sappho and Ianthe, 3h. 26m. 25s.; and Adeola, 3h. 26m. 28s. Pandora soon took the lead and gradually increased it to Fort Denison, which she rounded first. Squaresails were hoisted for the run back, and they rounded the ship as follows:—Pandora, 4h. 43m. 44s.; Triton, 4h. 47m. 13s.; Cynthia, 4h. 47m. 28s.; Young Dick, 4h. 49m. 21s.; Ianthe, 4h. 55m. 19s.; Joylen, 4h. 55m. 44s.; and Sappho, 4h. 55m. 50s. Young Dick passed Cynthia, and positions of others remained the same, the finishing times being as follows:—Pandora, 5h. 22m. 17s.; Triton, 5h. 26m. 50s.; Young Dick, 5h. 28m. 9s.; Cynthia, 5h. 28m. 38s.; and Joylen. Thus Young Dick takes first place by time allowance.

Wooden Dingies, not exceeding 14ft. in length. Course: From Sugar Works Bay, round boats off Iron Cove Bridge, round Fort Denison, and back to flagship. First prize, trophy, value £4 4s, and £2 added.—Young Victor, J. Abraham, 1; Regina, T. Colebrook, 2. Our Roy (T. H. Snowden) also started. Young Victor jumped away with the lead, and maintained it till the finish, the times being as follows:—Young Victor, 5h. 16m.; and Regina, 5h. 17m. 3s. The winner was sailed by Mr. Chris. Webb.

ROSEHILL RACING CLUB NOVEMBER MEETING.

FIRST DAY, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9.

Stewards: Messrs. Henry Austin, E. M. Betts, William Clarke, W. R. Cortis, M.D.; F. W. Hill, Hon. J. Lackey, M.L.C.; M. J. M'Namara, J. B. Olliffe, J. A. Scarr, W. B. Walford, J. H. Want. Judge: Mr. J. B. Olliffe. Starter: Mr. H. Dawson. Time-keeper: Mr. Benson. Clerk of the Scales: Mr. Charles Perry. Clerk of the Course: Mr. J. Ashworth. Secretary: Mr. G. B. Rowley.

The first day's racing in connection with the November meeting of the Rosehill Racing Club took place yesterday (Prince of Wales's Birthday), on the picturesque course on the Parramatta River at Rosehill. The weather during the earlier part of the day was delightfully fine and cool, but as the afternoon wore on a light wind sprang up, rendering the atmosphere a little chilly, especially so for those who occupied the grandstand. Taking into account the numerous counter attractions in all directions, consequent upon the day being a public holiday, the attendance at the course could not have been other than a source of gratification to the management, although a large number of prominent sporting men were absent owing to the racing carnival now being held in Melbourne. Among those present were a considerable number of ladies, who occupied seats on the grandstand, and whose presence lent a charm to the gathering, whilst their vari-coloured dresses and neat costumes imparted an air of gaiety to the meeting. The Leger reserve was well patronised, and among those who frequented it a deal of betting took place. In the Saddling paddock, although there was a good attendance of sportsmen, the wagering appeared to be rather dull. The track was in excellent condition, and the surroundings of the course, clothed in their spring garb, appeared to great advantage. A good luncheon was provided, but the arrangements in the tearoom were incomplete, and considerable dissatisfaction was expressed at the insufficiency of the service—a defect that certainly ought to be remedied at once. During the day the Granville Band performed a number of musical selections on the lawn immediately in front of the grand stand. The railway arrangements, notwithstanding the strain put upon the resources of the department, were complete, and gave the utmost satisfaction. Upon the whole a fairly good day's sport was obtained, and everything passed off without accident of any kind.

Racing commenced punctually to time with the Prince's Gift, for which Lady Lovel was installed favourite, and Clement was next in request. The favourite occupied a good position throughout the race, but was troubled most at the finish by Bay II., whom she defeated by half a length. Out of the 15 coloured on the card only seven were saddled up for the Selling Hurdle Race, for which Yadbro received such consistent support that he quickly hardened down to 6 to 4, while Gobolion had a number of friends who freely accepted 2 to 1. Tinderbox cut out the pace for nearly three parts of the distance with the favourite and Gobolion in waiting; but he retired as they rounded the turn for home, leaving Yadbro to win easily by four lengths from Gobolion. On returning to scale the winner was submitted to public competition, and was bought in for £44. The Burwood Handicap attracted a field of half a score, and Folly and Brier were entrusted with most responsibility. Mr. Dawson repeated his recent Canterbury Park performance by despatching the field while Strephon was in front of the post, but a demonstration of disapproval arose from the occupants of the lawn, and after some of the horses had galloped to the seven-furlong they pulled up and returned to the post. The second attempt was very little better, for Dagobert was clear of his horses at the fall of the flag, and the rest left in procession with the Wreck as whipper-in. Dagobert held the lead to the distance, where he was unable to stall off a well-timed run of the favourite, who came home an easy winner by two lengths. All the youngsters numbered on the card for the Nursery Handicap faced the starter, and on the strength of her late running at Rosehill Phœbe was most in demand by the speculative public, though Manola had a good following. The juveniles were rather fractious at the post, and they were sent off on rather indifferent terms. The favourite held a pretty good position throughout, but she could not catch Mitre, who came to the front at the distance and rattled home half a length in advance of Alice, who beat the favourite by a length for second place. The time for the event was given as 57½ seconds, but the timeist evidently made a mistake and gave it afterwards as 56½ seconds. The Miner had the call in the market for the Prince of Wales's Stakes, and his party freely laid 5 to 2 on him. Mr. Kelso's chestnut upheld the confidence reposed in him, for he came to the front at the turn for home, and never again leaving the issue in doubt, finished a length clear of his stable companion. When speculation opened on the Welter Mile, the Newcastle gelding Hazard was most in request, but Thetis was accorded strong support by her party, and the pair left the paddock equal favourites. Thetis cut out the pace to the bend, where Home Rule, who went out at any price, took charge of affairs, and won a good race by half a length from Allandale, who beat Hazard for second place by a short head. A detailed account of the racing follows:—

THE PRINCE'S GIFT, a handicap of 100 sovs.; second horse, 10 sovs. from the prize—6 furlongs.

Mr. I. Earnshaw's b m Lady Lovel, by The Drummer—Paradigm, 4 years, 6st. 7lb. (F. M'Auliffe)	1
Mr. Joseph Hull's br h Bay II., 5 years, 7st. 11lb. (John Gough)	2
Mr. S. A. Blackman, jun.'s ch m Busy Bee, 4 years, 7st. 9lb. (A. Huxley)	3
Mr. Jno. Gough's b g Scatterfield, 5 years, 7st. 7lb. (F. Cleal)	0
Mr. J. W. C. Hunter's b g Some Day, aged, 7st. 7lb. (W. Doolan)	0
Mr. W. M'Callum ns br g Clement, aged, 7st. 7lb. (M. Riley)	0
Mr. Wilkinson's b g Marlborough, 6 years, 7st. 3lb. (J. Noud)	0
Mr. J. Swan's b f Creeper, 3 years, 7st. (F. Robinson)	0
Mr. T. Stewart ns ch g Stephanotis, 5 years, 7st. (Selly)	0
Mr. G. D. Wood's b g Sir Ronald, aged, 6st. 10lb. (Egan)	0
Mr. A. Cameron's b f Allie, 3 years, 6st. (C. Parker)	0
Mr. T. Ivory's b g Home Rule, 6 years, 6st. (Hevers)	0

Betting: 6 to 4 v. Lady Lovel, 4 to 1 v. Clement, 5 to 1 v. Bay II., 6 to 1 each v. Stephanotis, Scatterfield, and Busy Bee.

The flag flashed down to a good start, from which Busy Bee, Clement, and Lady Lovel were the first to show prominently, but when fairly going Busy Bee went to the front and led round the bend, where the field closed up, and Clement assumed command, and with Lady Lovel, Bay II., and Busy Bee in attendance, piloted the field to the distance. Bay II. made a bid for the prize at the half distance, but succumbed to Lady Lovel, who cut down her horses and won a good race by half a length from Bay II., while Busy Bee finished a length away third. Then followed Clement and the rest in a cluster, whipped in by Home Rule. Time 1 minute 15½ seconds.

THE SELLING HURDLE RACE, a handicap of 100 sovs. The winner to be sold for 1 sov. 2 miles.

Mr. John Kerr's b g Yadbro, by Fergus I—Queen of Trumps, 5 years, 9st. 7lb. (Rheece)	1
Mr. C. M'Laughlin's ch g Gobolion, aged, 9st. 9lb. (Thredgate)	2
Mr. J. Gardiner's ch g Tinderbox, aged, 9st. 5lb. (Wilson)	3
Mr. F. Walsh ns blk g Sultan, aged, 9st. 11lb. (R. Longford)	0
Mr. W. Foulsham's b g Fearer, 6 years, 9st. 9lb. (A. Young)	0
Mr. W. Thompson's ch g Lincoln, 4 years, 9st. 3lb. (Ruddle)	0
Mr. J. Gardiner's b g Blister, 4 years, 9st. 4lb., including 4lb. over (Butlin)	0

Betting: 6 to 4 v. Yadbro, 2 to 1 v. Gobolion, 6 to 1 v. Sultan, 10 to 1 v any other.

A good start was effected, Tinderbox, Fearer, and Gobolion being the first to break the line, and they negotiated the first obstacle in that order, followed by Sultan, Yadbro, and Blister, with Lincoln last. They cleared the second and third hurdles in the same order, and passing the stand Tinderbox was leading Gobolion by a length; then came Fearer, Yadbro, Sultan, and Blister, with Lincoln a long way out of it. As they raced along the river stretch the favourite ran into second place, and was succeeded by Gobolion, Fearer, and Sultan, Lincoln still bringing up the rear, and the positions were unchanged as they entered the back stretch, where Tinderbox still had a length lead. The favourite joined Tinderbox at the six furlong post, and the pair raced together to the far corner where Yadbro assumed command, and led Tinderbox by a length round the bend into the straight, followed by Gobolion, Fearer, and Sultan. Save that Gobolion ran into second place inside the distance, the positions were unaltered in the run home, and the favourite won easily by four lengths from Gobolion, who was a similar distance in front of Tinderbox. The placed horses were succeeded at all sorts of intervals by Fearer, Sultan, and Blister, while Lincoln was a long way last. Time, 3 minutes 54 seconds.

BURWOOD HANDICAP of 125 sovs.; second horse, 20 sovs. from the prize—1¼ mile and 100 yards.

Mr. W. J. Forrester's ch m Folly, aged, by Grandmaster—Sweetlips, 7st. 9lb. (John Gough)	1
Mr. D. Lawson's br g Strephon, 5 years, 6st. 12lb. (M. Riley)	2
Mr. W. Gosper, jun.'s b h Dagobert, aged, 7st. 2lb. (Doolan)	3
Mr. J. Allsop ns ch h Goldenstone, 6 years, 8st. 7lb. (S. Robinson)	0
Mr. H. Kinsela's br h Kingsgrove, 4 years, 7st. 4lb. (Ashwell)	0
Mr. W. Kelso ns b c Brier, 3 years, 7st. (M'Auliffe)	0
Mr. E. Key's b f Thetis, 3 years, 6st. 10lb. (Fulton)	0
Mr. John Gough's b g The Wreck, 5 years, 7st. 11lb., inc. 7lb. penalty (Cleal)	0
Mr. A. G. Bloomfield's b f Alcala (late Adelaide), 3 years, 6st. 6lb. (F. Robinson)	0
Mr. W. J. Noud's b g Nitrogen, 5 years, 6st. 4lb. (Moran)	0

Betting: 2 to 1 v. Folly, 5 to 2 v. Brier, 4 to 1 v. Strephon, 6 to 1 v. Dagobert, 10 to 1 v. The Wreck.

A false start occurred owing to the signal having been given while Strephon was in front of the post, and several of the horses ran nearly to the seven furlongs post before they discovered the mistake. When they were sent on their mission for the second time, Dagobert jumped away clear of his horses, the rest were spread-eagled, and Briar and The Wreck were the last to leave. Making the most of his chances, Dagobert showed the way round the turn from the straight and raced along the river four lengths clear from Strephon and Nitrogen on terms, closely followed by Alcala and Thetis. Dagobert had increased his lead to half a dozen lengths as they entered the back of the course, and there was no material alteration in the positions until they swung into the straight, where Gough brought Folly into the first flight. Dagobert was still leading at the distance, but he began to tire, and Folly, coming with a well-timed rush, got her head in front at the half-distance, and, drawing out, won by a couple of lengths from Strephon, who was a similar distance in advance of Dagobert. Thetis was fourth, and was succeeded by The Wreck, Briar, Goldenstone, Alcala, and Nitrogen, while Kingsgrove was last past the post. Time, 2 minutes 18½ seconds.

NURSERY HANDICAP, of 100 sovs.; second horse 10 sovs. from the prize. 4½ furlongs.

Mr. H. C. White's br g Mitre, 2 years, 7st. 4lb. (M'Farland)	1
Mr. W. Kelso's b f Alice, 2 years, 7st. 11lb. (M'Auliffe)	2
Mr. J. Mitchell's b f Phœbe, 2 years, 8st. 7lb. (S. Robinson)	3
Mr. J. Swan's ch f Manola, 2 years, 8st. 2lb. (Nerricker)	0
Mr. A. Wicks's b c Noetsfield, 2 years, 8st. (Campbell)	0
Mr. J. Mitchell's b c Stratagem, 2 years, 8st. (M. Skehan)	0
Mr. J. Allsop's b f Minuet, 2 years, 7st. 9lb. (B. Robinson)	0
Mr. J. Moore's b f Curls, 2 years, 7st. 6lb. (M. Riley)	0
Mr. C. Woods ns ch f Lady Hercules, 2 years, 7st. 2lb. (Tierney)	0
Mr. T. Lamond's b f Sophia, 2 years, 7st. (Strickland)	0

Betting: 6 to 4 v. Phœbe, 5 to 2 v. Manola, 5 to 1 v. Mitre, 6 to 1 v. Minuet, 10 to 1 v. any other.

After some delay at the post, caused by the fractiousness of Manola and Sophia, the flag was lowered to an indifferent start, Manola, Sophia, and Lady Hercules getting away with the lead, while Noetsfield was left at the post. After travelling a furlong the field boxed up, and as they entered the straight Sophia was just in front of Curls and Phœbe, while the colours of Mitre began to flash through. Mitre came to the front at the distance, where Alice put in her claim, but she was unable to catch Mitre, who passed the judge's box half a length to the good, and Phœbe finished third, a length away. Sophia was fourth, and was followed by Curls and Stratagem, after whom came a cluster, whipped in by Neotsfield. Time, 56½ seconds.

THE PRINCE OF WALES STAKES, of 100 sovs. Weight for age. The winner to be sold for 100 sovs. 6 furlongs.

Mr. W. Kelso's ch g The Miner, by Odd Trick—Valadetta (nil), 5 years, 6st. 12lb. (M'Auliffe)	1
Mr. W. Kelso's ch g Recruit (nil), aged, 6st. 13lb., including 1lb. over (W. Campbell)	2
Mr. W. Kelso's br g Pawnee (nil), 4 years, 6st. 11lb. (J. Noud)	3
Mr. W. Brennan ns b g Sydney (nil), aged, 6st. 12lb. (M. Riley)	0

Betting: 5 to 2 on The Miner, 3 to 1 v. Pawnee, 5 to 1 v. Recruit, 10 to 1 v. Sydney.

Pawnee was the first to move, but when fairly going Sydney went to the front, attended by The Miner and Pawnee, with Recruit last. Recruit joined The Miner at the half-mile post, and after a few strides the pair caught the leader, and they raced on terms to the straight, where the favourite drew out from his horses, Sydney and Recruit following in that order. Recruit ran into second place at half distance, but could not catch the favourite, who won cleverly by a length. Recruit beat Pawnee by half a length for second place, while Sydney was 10 lengths off fourth. Time, 1 minute 16½ seconds.

WELTER MILE, a handicap of 100 sovs.; second horse, 10 sovs. from prize; lowest weight, 8st. 1 mile.

Mr. T. Ivory's b g Home Rule, by Wilberforce—Slumber, 5 years, 8st. (J. Saily)	1
Mr. J. Allsop's ch h Allandale, 6 years, 10st. 5lb. (S. Robinson)	2
Mr. N. Johns's b g Hazard, aged, 10st. 3lb. (D. Roarty)	3
Mr. J. Swan's ch m Elly O'Connor, 5 years, 12st. 4lb. (Kerghran)	0
Mr. J. Wilkinson's b g Marlborough, 6 years, 10st. 9lb. (Reece)	0
Mr. W. Muggridge ns br g Cracksman, aged, 9st. 11lb. (M'Auliffe)	0

Mr. E. Keys's b f Thetis, 3 years, 9st. 7lb. (J. Norton)	0
Mr. H. Kinsela's b g Euroclydon, aged, 9st. 4lb. (F. Smith)	0
Mr. F. W. Day's br m Esperance, 4 years, 9st. 4lb. (Nerricker)	0
Mr. E. S. Rowe ns b m Lady Zetland, 5 years, 8st. 12lb. (Spence)	0
Mr. C. M'Laughlin's b or br g Bagpipes, 4 years, 8st. 12lb. (M'Guire)	0
Mr. J. C. Gunnell's br g Dolphin (late Sunbeam), 4 years, 8st. 7lb. (Thredgate)	0
Mr. S. Fielder's blk g Charcoal, 4 years, 8st. 4lb. (Gainsforth)	0
Mr. James Toohey's ch g Melrose, aged, 8st. 2lb. (F. Martineer)	0

Betting: 3 to 1 each v. Thetis and Hazard, 5 to 1 each v. Cracksman and Charcoal, 6 to 1 v. Esperance, 8 to 1 v. Alcala, 10 to 15 to 1 v. any other.

A good deal of time was wasted at the post before the signal was given, and Thetis, with Teddy Yuille in attendance, was the first to make play, the pair leading the field along the back of the course and to the far corner, where Hazard moved up towards the leaders, and Home Rule also took up a prominent position. Rounding the bend Home Rule joined the foremost division, and was the first to show when the horses' heads were turned for home. As they reached the distance post Allandale came through, and a great struggle took place in the run home between Home Rule, Hazard, and Allandale, the firstnamed winning by half a length from Allandale, who only beat Hazard by a short head for second place. Thetis finished fourth, just in front of a great cluster, followed by Esperance and Charcoal, with Melrose last. Time, 1 minute 47 seconds.

ORANGE DEMONSTRATION.

A demonstration in connection with the various Orange Lodges took place yesterday at Ryde. The spot selected was a large area of ground belonging to Mrs. Darval, and situated within little more than a stone's throw of the railway station. Shortly after 9 o'clock the members, many of whom were in regalia, assembled with their friends at the Protestant Hall, and thence they marched up Castlereagh-street and turning into Bathurst-street, proceeded along George-street to the Redfern railway station. The procession, which must have numbered over 1000 persons, had at its head the band of the Naval Brigade. On arrival at the grounds at Ryde, the picknickers broke up into different parties and scattered themselves in groups under the shade of the trees or down by the side of the small creek which meanders through the property. There was an entire absence of any restraint or any formalities, and as the excursionists had come out with the fixed intention of enjoying themselves, they evidently determined to make the best of their opportunities. All kinds of impromptu games were arranged, from cricket and football to athletic sports and those lighter forms of amusement without which no properly organised picnic would be complete. The committee were assiduous in attending to the requirements of the visitors, and half a dozen undemonstrative vendors of refreshments administered to the wants of those who had left their lunch at home. No formal programme of events had been drawn up, but notwithstanding this drawback all the sports which were arranged were carried out to the satisfaction of the competitors, and to the thorough enjoyment of the onlookers. The band from the Naval Brigade, and the Rockdale drum and fife band were on the ground, and dispelled any tendency to ennui by playing a variety of spirited airs. The attendance was a very representative one, and composed members from most of the city and suburban lodges as well as from the lodges at Newcastle, Maitland, Murrurundi, Campbelltown, and Wagga Wagga.

In the afternoon an open-air meeting took place on the ground, in the presence of a large number of people. Mr. C. Moore presided. After some remarks from the chairman and the Rev. J. Holland,

The Rev. W. S. FRACKELTON expressed his gratification at the result of the appeal which had been made to the Supreme Court in connection with the case of the member of the Salvation Army who had been imprisoned by the Wollongong bench. The new President of the United States was a staunch Protestant. (Cheers.) For many years he was a Sunday-school superintendent, and he had battled on the sides of those who contended that the Bible should not be taken out of the Public schools. (Hear, hear.) And in spite of the demagogism and the pandering to the Irish vote, as Cleveland had done in having demanded the recall of the British Minister, the Americans had declared that they were free men, and that none of the shackles of Romanism should be placed upon them. (Cheers, and a voice: "God bless Harrison.") The late Mr. Dalley was at his greatest when he was not guided by Rome. In the newspapers which had referred to his death no mention was made of any Roman Catholic priest having been at his bedside during his last hours. (Hear, hear.) All honour to a man who thus reverenced his parents. In their daily life and their political life they must carefully watch every man who trimmed. Orangeism must be first; every other consideration must be secondary to it. (Hear, hear.) Why were they so weak as they were? Simply because the Government thought it could carry them along and play with them, and that rather than that a certain party which they wanted to keep out should be let in, they would put up with almost anything. Let them tell the Government once and for all that they would vote for Protestantism first—(cheers),—and that that would be the thing for which they would give a solid vote. (Renewed cheers.) The battle had come, and they must stand shoulder to shoulder, with a firm front, and rally round the old Orange flag and assert their liberties, even, if to do so, they had to sacrifice their blood. (Great cheering.)

Mr. F. TREVETT denied that they were endeavouring to raise strife in a new land. They were only endeavouring to guard against any assault upon their liberties. Those Protestants who would ally themselves with Roman Catholics ought to be ashamed of themselves. (Hear, hear).

The Revs. W. M. D. Macky, J. Barnier, and Speer having spoken, the gathering gave cheers for the Queen and the Prince of Wales, and dispersed.

A start was afterwards made with the return journey, but owing to the manner in which the railway arrangements were carried out, Sydney was not reached until a late hour.

TEMPERANCE ORGANISATION SPORTS.

The first annual sports gathering of the Temperance organisation of the Western suburbs, was held at the Ashfield Recreation Grounds, yesterday. The juvenile members of some 12 societies, representing Bands of Hope, Rechabites, and Good Templars, formed up in marching order at the council-chambers in the morning, and a procession was made to the scene of pleasure. At 11 o'clock the sports commenced, and were continued throughout the day. The band of St. Barnabas (Sydney) performed numerous selections at intervals. In the afternoon a united choir, numbering upwards of 300 voices, rendered a programme of music from the grand stand. The following were amongst the choruses given:—"God Bless the Prince of Wales," "The Children are Gathering," "Men of Britain," "Bear on the Temperance Banner," "Who is a Brave Man, Who?" and "Firm and United." The choir was under the conductorship of Mr. R. H. Rowe. Addresses were given by the Mayor of Ashfield (Mr. Thos. Dean) and Bro. Semple, G.L.V.D. The principal item of the sports programme was a 100-yards Flat Race, for members of temperance societies. The successful competitors were:—G. Smith, 1; — Garrard, 2. At 6 o'clock the company was again mustered, and the National Anthem sung with much enthusiasm, to the accompaniment of the band.

TEACHERS' PICNIC.

The annual teachers' picnic in connection with the William-street Wesleyan Sunday School was held at Middle Harbour yesterday, when a very enjoyable day was passed by teachers and friends. During the afternoon a variety of outdoor games were engaged in. During the afternoon a variety of outdoor games were engaged in, and at an early hour in the evening the return journey was made, everything having passed off satisfactorily.

BROKEN BAY EXCURSIONS.

The ocean trip to the waters of Broken Bay is becoming exceedingly popular. This was evidenced yesterday by the large number of people who patronised the two steamboats which had been placed on the berth for the trip to the Hawkesbury. The Newcastle Steamship Company despatched their steamer Newcastle (Captain W. Adams, in command), and she left very nearly full of passengers. The favourite steamer the City of Grafton, of the C. and R. R. S. N. Company, left punctually to time with crowded decks, and Captain Magee successfully piloted the City to Newport. There the excursionists were allowed to go ashore, but time would not permit of a lengthy stay, consequently a hurried return to the vessel had to be made. Captain Adams, of the Newcastle, however, after entering Barranjoey Heads, gave his passengers a passing view of the beautiful scenery to be seen on the shores, and an opportunity to see the railway bridge over the Hawkesbury, which is now fast approaching completion. Brisbane will then be connected by rail with Sydney. Both steamers returned to Sydney shortly before 6 o'clock, all having thoroughly enjoyed themselves. No accidents occurred to mar the proceedings, and all the passengers were most pleased with their outing.

BOTANY AND GEORGE'S RIVER.

As usual, a large number of pleasure-seekers found their way to Botany and to the various picturesquely-situated places of resort on George's River. The attendance at the Sir Joseph Banks Pavilion and Pleasure-grounds at Botany was very large, so much so that in the early portion of the day the tram and 'bus traffic was exceedingly heavy. Owing to the generosity of the proprietor of the pleasure-grounds at Botany, there was no lack of amusement for those visitors who spent their time in the enclosure. The large pavilion was as usual reserved for dancing during the greater portion of the day, and was patronised by many hundreds of persons, who preferred dancing to strolling about the pleasure grounds. There was a good band in attendance, and some excellent music was contributed. In the pleasure grounds there were all kinds of amusements, including the get-back railway for the juvenile portion of the attendance, and it is scarcely necessary to add that the young people took full advantage of the facilities afforded them. In the afternoon a variety entertainment was given in the Sir Joseph Banks Theatre by the Alhambra Music Hall Company, and the peformances were fully appreciated.

LADY ROBINSON'S BEACH.

There was a large attendance at the New Brighton Recreation Grounds, Lady Robinson's Beach, when an interesting programme of amusements was gone through. The sports were well contested, and a general company found plenty of recreation. Cricket formed an item in the bill of attractions. Trains ran frequently during the day, and all those who went there appeared to enjoy themselves thoroughly. Dancing was largely indulged in, and was kept up until a late hour.

EXCURSIONS.

The day was of the kind which favoured outdoor excursions, especially on the water, and the scores of beautiful spots around the harbour were largely patronised. The steamers to Manly were of course well filled, and Watson's Bay, Fern Bay, and Chowder Bay had each a share of holiday-seekers, who were in search of the picturesque, devoid of the boisterousness which sometimes accompanies the more formal public outings. An excursion was made to Broken Bay and the Hawkesbury River in the s.s. Newcastle, and the City of Grafton went as far as Broken Bay and Newport. Scores of people of course took the time-honoured run up the Parramatta, while others contented themselves with a quiet trip to one of the bays on the North Shore, or a stroll up the undulating country around Neutral Bay. The Sir Joseph Banks pleasure grounds at Botany, and the ample means of recreation which Lady Robinson's Beach affords well maintained their popularity, while not a few persons availed themselves of their yachts or sailing boats to navigate the waters on their own account, and picnic in some secluded spot, undisturbed by the noise of the steam whistle, and untroubled with thoughts of the inexorable time-table.

THE SKATING RINKS.

The Sydney Elite Skating Rink was well patronised. There was a polo match and professional and amateur races. At the Crystal Palace Skating Rink, York-street, there was a large attendance; the plain dress carnival and ball in the evening was visited by a large company; and there were special performances on the Roman rings and trapeze by Professor H. E. Seguy.

THE BONDI AQUARIUM.

There was a very large attendance at the Bondi Aquarium yesterday. The general attractions were well patronised. The New Zealand warriors went through their war dances and were watched with great interest. The Switchback railway was largely attended, and there were swings, waterboats, merry-go-rounds, and other amusements.

THE COOGEE PALACE AQUARIUM.

The attractions at this place of amusement drew a large attendance. The grounds have lately been much improved, summer houses have been erected, and out-door amusements provided. Mdlle. Carina gave a display of tight-rope walking, for which she was much applauded. The swimming baths were largely attended, and the trams on the homeward journey were crowded.

THE MANLY AQUARIUM.

The Manly Aquarium did not lack attendance. The sea trip afforded a pleasant holiday in itself. There was also a general entertainment, and the seals, fishes, &c., provided ample amusements for the many visitors who attended throughout the day.

THE GARDENS.

The Botanical Gardens, the Zoological Park, and the Domain, the three principal garden resorts, teemed with holiday-makers from noon till sunset. The beautiful Botanical Gardens had the greatest share of patronage because of the central position they occupy, and every inch of ground, so to speak, was covered by picnic and promenade parties. The hill, the lovely spot familiar as the site of the Garden Palace, commanding perhaps the most picturesque view obtainable of the harbour, looked perfection in its rich abundance of shrubs and flowers, and hundreds thronged its lawn and paths. The lower portion, in the vicinity of Farm Cove, presented a more cheerful sight still, for it was in the full possession of the little ones who indulged themselves in their innocent and merry pastimes. The Domain was filled with a more mixed gathering, some thousands of persons lining the favourite promenade around Mrs. Macquarie's chair. The Domain proper was partly taken up by cricket from an early hour in the morning, and onlookers were deeply interested in selecting candidates for future Australian elevens. There was amusement for everybody in the Gardens and the Domain, thanks to the glorious afternoon. People trooped up to the Zoo as usual on these gala days, and during the afternoon there must have been several thousands upon the grounds. The animals were as attractive as ever to the crowds of sightseers, the fine old lion, as usual, coming in for his share of patronage. The elephants and the donkeys and pony carried a great number of children, and the female elephant "Toby" was put through a series of amusing performances. A brass band added to a most enjoyable afternoon.

RANDWICK ASYLUM.

Through the kindness of the house committee, the inmates of the Randwick Asylum were yesterday supplied with extra plum pudding, roast beef, vegetables, fruit, gingerbeer, and confectionery. Before sitting down to dinner the children sang very nicely some stanzas of "God Bless the Prince of Wales," after which three hearty cheers were given for the heir apparent. The treat was very much enjoyed, and indulgence in out-door pastimes in the large recreation grounds of the institution brought the proceedings of the day to a close. All connected with the management are to be congratulated upon the healthy and happy appearance of the children.

RAILWAY AND TRAMWAY TRAFFIC.

The railway traffic yesterday was heavy, the approximate number of passengers taken from Redfern station alone being estimated at 22,000, inclusive of return tickets. Of course the Rosehill races attracted a considerable number of people, which brought the traffic on the suburban line to about 4300, while the favourite holiday resorts on the Illawarra line, such as Lady Robinson's Beach, Como, &c., were also well patronised, the number of tickets sold being about equal to that of the suburban line. The traffic on the Northern line was estimated at about 1400, a great many passengers booking for Ryde and other places. Emu Plains, Katoomba, and Mount Victoria, on the Western line, attracted about 600 people. On the Southern line the traffic was not particularly noteworthy. The tramway traffic yesterday was not large as compared with previous holidays. Bondi and Coogee were popular, however; and it is estimated that about 7500 persons must have gone by tram to the former place. Nearly 4500 holiday-makers resorted to the latter.

EVENING AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"Mab, the Miner's Daughter," having attracted crowded houses during the week, was withdrawn last night from the boards of the Royal, and a very large audience marked their thorough appreciation of Miss Carrie Swain's impersonation of the heroine. To-night Miss Swain will appear as Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." As the part is one which she has made almost specially her own, an able and amusing interpretation may be expected. She will be assisted by a competent company, and as the drama is to be efficiently staged, it should be successful. Uncle Tom has been entrusted to Mr. L. M'Gowan, and the other leading male characters are in good hands. The ladies who appear are the Misses Flora Austead, Maggie Knight, May Vivian, Virginia Vivienne, Lucelle, and Helen Fergus. Mr. Gordon's scenery will no doubt be attractive, and the mechanical effects striking.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

The "Lights o' London" was produced for the last time, and it is now withdrawn, not, apparently, because it has become stale, but that the management of Her Majesty's Theatre have resolved upon submitting a novelty to the public which takes the shape of an entirely new production entitled "The Rajah, or the Collier's Strike." The principal character, Harold Wyncot will be represented by Mr. George Rignold. Mr. J. R. Greville will appear as Joseph Jekyll, a self-made attorney, and it is hardly necessary to say that a great deal of fun will be the result. Miss Kate Bishop, who has been enjoying a well-earned holiday, will appear as Gladys Wyncot; and Miss Roland Watt-Phillips, as Emilia Jekyll. Mrs. Melville will also appear as Mrs. Pringle, a part which should suit her admirably. The scenery has been placed in the hands of Messrs. Little and Clint, who will, no doubt, do their best to promote the success of the drama, and the effects are also likely to be good.

THE CRITERION THEATRE.

"The Butler" attracted a large audience to the Criterion Theatre, and Mr. Anson's delightfully funny impersonation of the title role was received with great favour, and even the soupçon of vulgarity seemed to be overlooked in the general excellence of the performance. "The Butler" will be repeated till further notice.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Messrs. Moynham and Sullivan's Burlesque Company have been giving really excellent performances at the Academy of Music during the past week, and the public last night testified their appreciation of the programme provided by attending in considerable numbers.

MISS DETCHON'S RECITALS.

In consequence of some unforseen delay taking place in connection with the arrival of the luggage, including musical instruments and other effects, of Miss Adelaide Detchon's company from Melbourne, the inaugural entertainment which was to have taken place at the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday evening had to be postponed. Miss Adelaide Detchon will make her first appearance this evening. The entertainment will be under the patronage of Lady Carrington, who has notified her intention of being present.

St. George's Minstrels played to an excellent house last night, at the St. George's Theatre, Newtown. Horace Bent and Charles Holly—the corner men—had, in a very minutes, the audience in a good humour with their humorous songs and witty sayings, and the programme was slightly altered from that performed during the week; but an entirely new programme is announced for this evening.

At the Alhambra nearly every seat was occupied last night, and the performance was thoroughly appreciated. At the new Haymarket Hall the attendance was also good, and the programme was received with every mark of approval.

Mr. Frank Thornton has returned to Australia per Orient steamer Ormuz to try his fortune once more with "The Private Secretary." Mr. Thornton does not, however, rely solely upon his former success, as he has secured the Australian rights of Pinero's latest and greatest success, "Sweet Lavender," which is now close upon its 300th performance in London, and playing nightly to the capacity of Terry's Theatre. Report speaks very highly of the construction and literary merit of this play, and Mr. Thornton as Dick Phenyl will have a part on very different lines to the Rev. Robert Spalding. Mr. Thornton also brings "Mamma," an adaptation by Sidny Grundey of "Les Surprises du Divorce," a play that has created a furore in Paris, and is now running at the new Court Theatre, London, with great success.

first, second, and third money being won by local men—G. Heath, 1; J. M'Laughlin, 2; G. Ross, 3. Time, 14 seconds. There were numerous other sports. At the butts rifle matches took place, the principal handicap being won by Private C. Deal.

WILLIAMSTOWN RACING CLUB.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The Prince of Wales' Birthday meeting, under the auspices of the Williamstown Racing Club attracted a great crowd. The weather was dull and sultry. The following are the results:—

HURDLE RACE—1½ mile.
Mr. C. A. Weston's The Acorn, 9st. 12lb. (Carey) ... 1
Mr. W. Glasscock's Crusoe, 9st. 9lb. (Bourke) ... 2
Mr. M. P. Whitty's First Arthur, carried 9st. 4lb. (Brown) ... 3

The following also started:—Cellarmar, Revenge, Stella, Lady Wilde, Partner, Rainbow, Yannathan, and Unice.

Betting: 5 to 1 v. The Acorn, 5 to 1 v. Revenge, 4 to 1 v. First Arthur.

Won by half a length: Arthur finishing third at a similar interval from the second horse. No time was taken.

TRUGANINI STAKES—5 furlongs.
Mr. R. Wyman's Mercury, 8st. 7lb. (Petrie) ... 1
Mr. J. Denny's General Sarsfield, 7st. 6lb. (Dacey) ... 2

The other starters were: Lord John, Fishing Rod, Carnival, Crystal, Bonnie Jean.

Betting: 6 to 4 v. Lord John, 3 to 1 v. General Sarsfield, 5 to 1 v. Mercury, 5 to 1 v. Carnival and Iona.

Won by a good length, Iona two lengths off the second horse. Time, 1 minute 4½ seconds.

TELEGRAPH STAKES—5 furlongs.
Mr. Connolly's True, 6st. 4lb. (Holmes) ... 1
Mr. S. Nathan's Clarendon, 7st. 6lb. (Tomlin) ... 2
Mr. T. Sampson's Mitchell, 7st. 10lb., carried 8st. (Smith) ... 3

Iroquois also started.

Betting: 5 to 4 on Clarendon; 3 to 1 against True; 4 to 1 against Mitchell.

Won by a length and a half, Mitchell and Iroquois pulling up. Time, 1 minute 4¾ seconds.

WILLIAMSTOWN CUP—1 mile and 3 furlongs.
Mr. S. G. Cook's Mara, 7st. 3lb. (O'Neil) ... 1
Mr. A. Davis's Pakeha (including 7lb. penalty), 8st. 13lb. (Hales) ... +
Mr. M. O'Shanassy's Chicago, 9st. (Campbell) ... + +Dead heat.

The other starters were:—Stanley, St. Louis, Mistletoe, Bos, Fishwife, Lando, Crown Brand, Menotti, Paikariki, and Mossiface.

Betting: 2 to 1 v. Mara, 3 to 1 v. Chicago, 6 to 1 v. St. Louis, 8 to 1 v. Fishwife and Stanley, 10 to 1 v. Pakeha.

Menotti jumped off in front to a moderate start, followed by Fishwife and Paikariki, the favourite moving last. Passing the stand Paikariki was leading. The order was the same leaving the straight, the favourite still last. Racing down the side, Land 'O assumed a lead of four lengths in front. Land 'O continued to lead along the back of the course. Chicago and Mara were the leaders down the side, Chicago rounded the turn into the straight first clear of the favourite; Pakeha, St. Louis, Bos, and Stanley lying next. At the half distance, Chicago was still in front, but O'Neill setting to work on Mara, she answered every call and won rather easily by a clear length. Pakeha, who came very fast, making a dead heat with Chicago for second place, Bos was fourth, St. Louis fifth, with Menotti, Fishwife, and Stanley next, and Mossiface last. Time, 2 minutes 27 seconds.

STEEPLECHASE—2 miles.
J. H. Hill's Robin Hood, 10st. (O'Brien) ... 1
R. Moffatt's Monarch, 11st. 5lb. (inc. 7lb. penalty) (M'Govern) ... 2
T. B. Durham's Cuckoo, 11st. 2lb. (Malme) ... 3

The other starters were Yankee Grab, Forester, Progress, Beldemonia, and Mildura. Bourke weighed out for My Luck, but the gelding was seized with cramp, and did not start.

Betting: 7 to 4 v. Monarch, 4 to 1 v. Cuckoo, 5 to 1 v. Robin Hood.

Won by two and a-half lengths, Cuckoo a bad third. Time, 4 minutes 20 seconds.

PRINCE OF WALES STAKES—¾ mile.
Mr. S. Miller's Wyvis, 7st. 10lb. (Turner) ... 1
Mr. W. Thomas's Typhoon, 7st. 11lb. (Ring) ... 2
Messrs. A. and F. Gonard's Day Star, including 7lb. penalty, 8st. 4lb. (Brown) ... 3

Retort and Wantega also ran.

Betting: 5 to 4 v. Wyvis, 4 to 1 v. Daystar and Wantega, 5 to 1 v. Typhon.

Won easily by a length. Time, 1 minute 17 seconds. Day Star was a head behind.

OCCIDENTAL BICYCLE SPORTS.

BATHURST, FRIDAY.

The weather was beautifully fine for the holiday. In the morning the cyclists in town for the Occidental Bicycle sports paraded to the cemetery, where a memorial stone to the late Dr. Cortis, presented by the cyclists of New South Wales, was unveiled by Dr. Machattie. There was a large attendance. The stone, which is very handsome, is of polished granite, from England. In the afternoon the Occidental Bicycle Club sports were held on the cricket ground. There was a fair attendance. Jenkins, the crack Sydney rider, was unable to appear, having met with a nasty accident on the track on Thursday night. The sport was good. The following are the results:—

Mile Roadster Handicap.—Northey, 45 yards, 1; E. Clifton, 45 yards, 2. Time, 3 minutes 23 seconds.

Mile Club Championship.—A. E. Ashworth, 1; W. J. Freeman, 2.

100 Yards Handicap Foot Race.—Clift, 8 yards, 1; Clements, 7 yards 2; Barham, 5 yards, 3. Time, 10 2-5 seconds.

Mile Bicycle Handicap.—Clifton, 165 yards, 1; Evens, 165 yards, 2. Time, 2 minutes 44 1-5 seconds.

Three Mile Bicycle Lap Race.—H. Mutton, Sydney B. C., 8 points, 1; A. E. Ashworth, 38 points, 2. Time, 9 minutes 40 4-5 seconds.

Agility Race.—A. Try, Sydney B. C., 30 yards, 1; A. E. Ashworth, scratch, 2. Time, 3 minutes, 43 4-5 seconds.

Two Mile Ladies' Bracelet.—H. S. Clifton, 32 yards, 1; A. E. Vans, 30 yards, 2. Time, 5 minutes 44 1-5 seconds.

Five Mile Club Championship.—A. E. Ashworth, 1; H. S. Clifton, 2.

SPORTS AT KIAMA.

KIAMA, FRIDAY.

To-day the town has had quite a holiday appearance, several points, especially the lighthouse and flagstaff at Blowhole, being gaily decorated. Many of the residents went to various country resorts on picnic excursions, but a large number of strangers have come here for a similar purpose, and the town is full of visitors. The Newington cadets had a very pleasant time at drill parade and sea-bathing.

Athletic sports took place on the Kiama Agricultural Association Grounds under the auspices of the Kiama Athletic Club, about 500 persons being present. The weather was favourable. All the events were well contested. The following are the results:—

RUNNING FOR GRAND £50 HANDICAP.

First Round.—First Heat: J. A. Walker, 27 yards, 2nd; W. King, 26, 3rd; S. Sproule, 19, 4th; A. Murley, 23, 5th; Cameron, 18, 6th; Davis, 22, 7th; J. King, 28, 8th; Page, 18, 9th; Parnell, 21, 10th; Sunn, 18, 11th; Spinks, 24, run-over, 12th; Bigg, 18.

Second Round.—First Heat: W. J. King, 2; Page, 3; Parnell, 4.

Final Round.—W. J. King, 1; Page, 2; Sproule, 3; Parnell, 4. Holt and Cooper were disqualified for suspicious running.

ALBURY VOLUNTEER FIRE BRIGADE SPORTS.

ALBURY, FRIDAY.

The annual sports to-day, under the auspices of the Albury Volunteer Fire Brigade, passed off successfully. The following are the results of the principal events:—

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES' SPORTS AT SINGLETON.

SINGLETON, FRIDAY.

The Friendly Societies' Amalgamated Sports took place to-day. A procession of members of the various bodies, with a band, marched to the Northern Agricultural Showground.

Maiden Plate, 100 Yards.—Chicago, 1; Ramsay, 2.
Youths' Handicap, 100 Yards.—Doolan and Cusack a dead heat.
Mile and a-half Bicycle Handicap.—Curtis, 1; Doolan, 2.
All-comers' Handicap.—Mitchell, 1; Alcorn, 2.
Boys' Handicap, under 12.—Southa, 1; Hadler, 2.
Two and a Half Miles Bicycle Handicap.—Curtis, 1; Nicholls, 2.
Boys' Tricycle Race.—Decourcy, 1; Neal, 2.
Mile Bicycle Handicap.—Curtis, 1; Doohan, 2.
Quarter of a Mile Handicap.—Ramsey, 1; Doohan, 2.
Society Tug of War.—Orange Society.

Everything passed off well. There were about 900 on the ground. The sports were a great success. The weather was beautiful.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The Prince of Wales' Birthday was observed as a close holiday. Though the weather was sultry the various outdoor events were well patronised. A sham fight of the militia forces took place at Oakleigh. The St. Andrew's Society held a centennial fête at the Friendly Societies Gardens. A complimentary bicycle sports meeting to Mr. H. T. Bale was held on the Melbourne Cricket Club Ground. The Williamstown Races and the Exhibition were largely patronised. Several batteries of the garrison militia proceeded to Queenscliff and were distributed amongst the forts for shot and shell practice. Rain came on shortly before dusk, but the theatres and other places of amusement were filled to overflowing.

BRISBANE, FRIDAY.

To-day was observed as a general holiday, and all business was suspended. The weather was beautifully fine. The principal attractions were the Q. T. C. Races, and the Scottish Association Annual sports, which were very successfully carried out at the Exhibition-grounds, nearly 3000 being present. The steamer Warrego made a trip to the bay for the benefit of the hospital, and took nearly 1000 excursionists. The other excursion steamers were largely patronised. The Humpy Bong Regatta attracted a number of visitors to the bay. The principal yacht race was won by Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith's new yacht Harriette.

ADELAIDE, FRIDAY.

To-day was observed as a public holiday, the weather being favourable. The land defence forces engaged in a sham fight which passed off successfully, the affair being well planned and spiritedly carried out. The Druids held a demonstration. In the evening, Sir E. T. Smith, the Mayor, gave his annual banquet. There was a representative attendance.

HOBART, FRIDAY.

To-day was observed as a general holiday. Two regattas were held, one at Norfolk Bay and the other on the Derwent. The weather was fine.

BUNGENDORE, FRIDAY.

A cricket match, Braidwood v. Bungendore, was played at Bungendore, and was won by the latter, after an exciting game, by 13 runs. The weather was beautiful and fine. Rain is badly wanted.

CROOKWELL, FRIDAY.

The Oddfellows to-day held athletic sports, which were largely attended. The programme was the best yet carried out here. For the big handicap, 20 faced the starter, the event being won by Edward Warn, J. Ruane second, M. O'Shannassy third, and John Downe fourth. Everything passed off well. The members of the Manchester Unity wore regalia.

GOULBURN, FRIDAY.

The Y. M. C. A. held a picnic at Lake Bathurst. The weather was enjoyable for holiday making.

GUNDAGAI, FRIDAY.

To-day was observed as a close holiday, the only attraction being a match between the Gundagai and Narandera Rifle Companies. Considerable interest was manifested in the affair on account of its being one of the first matches of the kind in the colony. The Gundagai team won by 25 points, the scores being - Gundagai, 316; Narandera, 291. The highest scorers for the Gundagai team were E. Milne, M'Cutcheon, Captain Matchett, and Burns. The highest scorers in Narandera were Roach, W. M'Mahon, Horsley, and Duval. The secretary of the Gundagai team was the highest scorer in the match.

GUNNING, FRIDAY.

Athletic sports were held here to-day, which passed off successfully.

NOWRA, FRIDAY.

Cruickshanks won Dent's Sheffield Handicap at the local sports to-day. The day was observed as a general holiday.

ORANGE, FRIDAY.

The regatta at Lucknow to-day attracted large crowds from all parts of the district. No expense or trouble had been spared by Mr. Newman, the organiser, and his willing assistants, success being unmistakable. Prizes of the value of £100 were competed for, consisting principally of cups and trophies, contributed by his Excellency the Governor, the members for the district, and others. The weather was favourable for the outing. The proceeds are to be devoted to the Orange Hospital, which will be largely benefited.

The Wesleyan Sunday School annual treat was held to-day, the children and teachers proceeding by tram to Amaroo. The Congregational School also held a picnic at a suitable spot near the town. To-night the proceedings at Lucknow close with a ball.

WINDSOR, FRIDAY.

The holiday passed off quietly. A cricket match, Leichhardt versus Windsor Albions, was won on the first innings by the latter, the scores being—Windsor, 157; Leichhardt, 100. Dean, with 35, was top scorer for the victors; and Carroll, 22, for the visitors. A second match, St. James', Sydney, v. Windsor Grammar School, was won easily by the former.

MEETINGS.

At the East St. Leonards Town Hall, on Wednesday evening last, the St. Leonards Literary and Debating Society further considered "in committee" the District Government Bill. The definition given by Mr. Butchart as to what was a borough and what a municipal district, was severely criticised, but ultimately the Ministry carried their point. Clauses 2, 3, and 5 were passed. Clause 4 adjourned, and an amendment, altering the rating of property to taxing the capital value of land, was under discussion when the House resumed. During the evening, under the head of preliminary business, Mr. Kershaw was elected hon. secretary, and J. H. W. Cleave nominated as treasurer.

The seventeenth anniversary of the Willoughby Wesleyan Church, North Shore, was celebrated yesterday. After a luncheon—laid out in a booth in the church grounds—had been partaken of, a public meeting was held in the church. The chair was occupied by Mr. E. M. Sayers. The Rev. F. C. Boyer read the annual report, which was very gratifying. The work done in the past year showed no sign whatever of a downward tendency; in fact £500 has been collected during that period for the new parsonage. Other work in connection with the church has been as liberally supported. Addresses were delivered by the President of the Conference (Rev. George Lane), the Rev. Dr. Sellors, and Rev. J. E. Carruthers, all of whom spoke of the excellent progress which the church had been making, and the good that was being done on all sides. The report was adopted. The addresses were interspersed with singing by the members of the choir. A sum of something like £213 was announced as being still owing on the church, but before the meeting terminated that sum was considerably reduced.

CASUALTIES.

A sad boating accident occurred near the Glebe Island Bridge shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning, resulting in the drowning of two young men named Thomas [illegible], aged 21, and Thomas Nettleton, residing respectively at Prosper-street and White Bay, Balmain. A young woman, named Clara Holmes, of 206, Evans-street, Balmain, was also imperilled by the accident, but was rescued. It appears that shortly before 6 o'clock the three people named embarked at White Bay in a small open boat, and pulled round to Glebe Island Bridge. Just as they arrived there, the steam launch Essex, Captain Richard Hawksley in command, came close up on the other side. The whistle of the launch was blown, and the vessel proceeded to pass through the bridge, the master seemingly being impressed that the small boat would keep clear. Soon, however, he saw the craft close ahead, and, although he endeavoured to avoid a collision with her by running into the side of the bridge, his vessel [illegible], and turned the boat over. The engines were [illegible] at the time. A young man named William [illegible], residing at 12, Mansfield-street, Balmain, saw the [illegible] struggling in the water, and gallantly jumped over the bridge, a distance of nearly 26ft., and swam to the rescue. He succeeded in saving the life of the young woman, but her two companions sank before assistance came. The Water Police were notified, and after dragging recovered the bodies, one at 11 o'clock and the other at 1 p.m. They were removed to the North Sydney morgue, and an inquest will be held at 11 o'clock this morning. The captain of the steamer states that the party in the boat appeared undecided as to their movements, and after going in one direction went back again and tried to cross the bows of the steamer.

On Thursday night a labourer, giving his name as Henry Rooney, aged 59, was arrested for drunkenness, and locked up in a cell at No. 1 station. Some two hours afterwards he fell on the floor in a fit, and was removed to the hospital, where he died within 45 minutes. When arrested the deceased told the police that he did not belong to Sydney, but the truth of this is uncertain. He was about 5ft. 10in. high, wore a black hat and coat, and had the appearance of a bushman. The Acting Coroner has ordered a post-mortem examination.

Ernest Creber, aged 20, of 7, Upton-street, Surry Hills, was knocked down by a cart, in George-street, yesterday, and was admitted to the hospital, with symptoms of concussion of the brain.

A shipwright, named Henry Murray, aged 28, of Miller's Point, fell down in a public-house bar yesterday, and was admitted to the hospital showing symptoms of being the worse for drink. He had lost a considerable quantity of blood from a cut over the eyebrow.

THE FIRE ON BRENDA STATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As manager of Brenda Station will you kindly allow me to correct the report of your Goodooga correspondent, appearing in your issue of 30th ultimo. The fire on Brenda was stopped when about 20 miles from the [illegible] boundary, on the Culgoa, and for four days and nights it was almost constantly worked at, but owing to the prevalent strong winds it was difficult to conquer. As so much has lately appeared in the newspapers with reference to the disgraceful outrage by members of the Shearers' Union at Brookong, it may be refreshing to learn that the union shearers at present working at Brenda volunteered their services to work at the fire, and refused to accept payment, and all who could be conveyed to the scene of action worked during the whole time with as much energy and determination as it was possible for men to exercise, utterly regardless of discomfort from want of sleep, and the risk they frequently ran from falling trees and the flames overtaking them. I feel that it was almost entirely owing to the manner in which the shearers worked that the fire was stopped so soon, and I trust that the conduct of members of the union working at Brenda may prove that the union is not wholly composed of men who think only of their own interests, and are careless of the interests of others.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The Rosehill November meeting will be continued and concluded to-day. Special trains will leave Redfern for the course at 11.25, 11.55 a.m., 12.20, 12.23 p.m., and a mixed train, picking up passengers at the principal intermediate stations, at 1.28 p.m. Racing will commence at 1.30 p.m. with the Granville Stakes, in which Briar, Second Thought, and Robinson Maid should be the hardest to beat, while Beda may effect a surprise. Explorer, Melton, and Marksman should have most to say in the Hurdle Race; while Zephyr, Folly, and Hazard may come home as named in the Croydon Handicap. Mr. Kelso seems to have a mortgage on selling events, and his choice should be treated with due respect; while Robinson Maid, Hazard, and Teddy Yuille may have the winner of the Welter Handicap among them. The full programme is published in another part of this issue.

The V. R. C. Spring meeting will be continued and concluded at Flemington to-day, when some great racing will be witnessed. In connection therewith "Nemo's" anticipations by telegraph are as follows:—"Quadrant and Aldivalloch are likely to divide the honours in the Maiden Plate, and Carbine should carry too many guns for Melos in the Foal Stakes. Blue Mountain stands out in relief for the Steeplechase, and he may have most trouble with Flashlight, if the latter be reserved for it. Carbine should be the best for the Canterbury Plate, and in his absence The Australian Peer seems to hold the others safely. The V.R.C. Handicap is very open; but on paper Bravo, Arsenal, and Pakeha promise to be hardest to beat, and may divide the places, unless Theorist can split them. Rudolph, Necklet, and Montalto will probably have most to say in the Flemington Stakes, and The Queen, The Charmer, and Maggie may give most trouble in the Free Handicap." The weights for the different handicaps were declared yesterday, and appear in the programme published elsewhere.

Owners and trainers of racing stock should bear in mind that the general entry for the Spring meeting of the Murrumbidgee Turf Club closes on Tuesday next, at 4 p.m., with the secretary, Mr. J. Hawkes, Wagga Wagga, and that the following items will need attention:—Selling Race of 40 sovs., for three-year-olds and upwards, w.f.a., winner to be sold for 40 sovs., selling allowances, 6 furlongs; Mile Handicap of 75 sovs.; Flying Handicap of 75 sovs., 6 furlongs; Disposal Stakes of 40 sovs., for three-year-olds and upwards, w.f.a., winner to be sold for 40 sovs., selling allowances, 1 mile; and Ladies' Bracelet, value 100 sovs., 1 mile. For the convenience of Melbourne and Sydney sportsmen arrangements have been made for receiving entries at the office of the V. R. C., Melbourne, and the office of the A. J. C., Sydney.

Acceptances for the Yerong handicaps are due on Monday.

The Rosehill Racing Club benefited to the extent of £143 by their selling events yesterday. Yadbro, who won the Hurdle Race, brought £44 under the hammer, and The Miner realised £100, both having been bought in by their respective owners.

LITHGOW RACES.

LITHGOW, FRIDAY.

The race meeting to-day was carried out under most favourable circumstances. The weather was delightful, and the attendance large, and the arrangements were carried through without a single hitch. The following are the results:—

MAIDEN PLATE, 20 sovs.—1½ mile.
Mr. J. Phair's Broker, 7st. 7lb. ... 1
Mr. R. Blackford's The Fop, 8st. 12lb. ... 2
Mr. J. B. Turnbull's The Rose, 5st. 7lb. ... 3

Lord Bertie was scratched.

Betting: 5 to 2 on Broker, 3 to 1 v. others.

Broker and The Fop went away with the lead, but at the distance post The Rose was rapidly overhauling them, when her rider, in using the whip, caused the mare to swerve, throwing the jockey named Delaney over a fence. Neither were hurt. This accident left Broker to win as he liked.

SELLING PLATE, 20 sovs.—1 mile.
Mr. F. C. Cousin's Ettie, 8st. 2lb. ... 1
Mr. J. Phair's Chips, 7st. 11lb. ... 2
Mr. J. Peer's Irishman, 8st. 11lb. ... 3

Irishman was made a hot favourite at 6 to 4 on, but Ettie won easily.

VALE COLLIERY PLATE, a trophy value 20 guineas, with 20 sovs. added.
Mr. C. Hooper's Garnet, 7st. ... 1
Mr. A. Draper's Lady Chandos, 7st. ... 2
Mr. J. Peer's Ettie, 7st. 8lb. ... 3

Whisper Low, Schoolboy, and The Fop also started.

Betting: 6 to 4 v. Whisper Low, 2 to 1 v. Schoolboy, 3 to 1 v. Garnet, 5 to 1 v. Ettie, 10 to 1 v. The Fop.

Schoolboy got a bad start. Passing the stand the first time the favourite lay second, hard held, Chandos leading. At the mile Whisper Low fell back, and Ettie rushed to the front, the others being four lengths behind. Entering the straight Garrett came with a great rush, passing Ettie and Lady Chandos, and eventually winning by one length.

PRINCE OF WALES HANDICAP, of 20 sovs.—¾ mile.
Mr. J. Phair's Broker, 6st. 10lb. ... 1
Mr. E. C. Cousin's Lionel, 7st. 12lb. ... 2
Mr. H. M'Bride's Tommy, 8st. ... 3

Gold Dust, Garnett, Lady Chandos, Broker, Lord Bertie, and the Rose also started.

Betting: 5 to 2 v. Lionel, 3 to 1 v. Gold Dust, Tommy, and Lord Bertie, 4 to 1 v. Garnett, Chandos, and Broker, 10 to 1 v. The Rose.

This was a wretched start, Broker jumped away with the lead, and winning as he liked.

FORCED HANDICAP, 10 sovs.—1 mile.
Mr. H. M'Bride's Tommy, 7st. 5lb. ... 1
Mr. J. Phair's Chips, 7st. ... 2
Mr. J. Peer's Ettie, 8st. ... 3

Betting: Even money v. Tommy, 2 to 1 v. the others.

This was a hard race between Tommy and Chipps, Tommy winning by a short head.

ALL-AGED STAKES.—Semiramis, 1.

INTERCOLONIAL BOWLING MATCH.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

A bowling match was played this afternoon on the Richmond Club Green between representative teams of New South Wales and New Zealand, the former winning by 105 points to 90. This leaves the question of the bowling supremacy in about the same position as before. This week's competitions began, Victoria having beaten New South Wales, New Zealand having beaten Victoria, and now New South Wales has beaten New Zealand. A team of bowlers representing the Glebe Club, Sydney, played a match yesterday against a team from the Richmond Club, defeating them. To-day Carlton defeated the Glebe Club.

INTERCOLONIAL LANDS DEPARTMENTS' CRICKET MATCH.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The two days' cricket match between the Victorian Lands Department and the New South Wales Lands Department was concluded on the Melbourne Cricket Ground yesterday. The visitors in their first innings made 162, and the Victorians 82. Following on, the latter made 107. The visitors won the match with nine wickets to spare.

CYCLING IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

At a complimentary sports meeting to Mr. H. S. Bale on the Melbourne C. C. ground to-day, the principal event was the Professional Bicycle Handicap, three distances, namely, one mile, three miles, and five miles; the prizes being awarded according to the number of points. D. Libeau, of Sydney, with 13 points, gained first prize; J. R. Rolfe, of Sandhurst, 11 points, second; and R. Mitchell, of Carlton, 6 points, third. C. E. Fenton, the English amateur champion, attempted to lower the world's grass record of 2 minutes 45 seconds. A strong wind was blowing, and the attempt was not successful, the distance being covered in 2 minutes 55 seconds—3 seconds longer than the Australian record.

PIGEON SHOOTING.
VICTORIA v. NEW SOUTH WALES.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

A pigeon shooting match between Victoria and New South Wales was fired to-day, the conditions being 13 men a-side, nine birds each, 28 yards. New South Wales won by one point only, scoring 95 against Victoria's 94. After the match 59 members of the different gun clubs competed for three trophies of the value of 25 sovs., 15 sovs., and 5 sovs., given by the Melbourne Gun Club. W. Morris killed 18 birds, and took first prize; D. Lannett, with 17 birds, was second; and J. C. Webb, 15 birds and a miss, took third prize.

TOLL'S (CAMDEN) HANDICAP.

CAMDEN, FRIDAY.

Toll's handicap was run off to-day and resulted as follows:—J. Moriarty, 18 yards, 1; D. Hickey, 20 yards, 2; T. Collins, 11 yards, 3; J. Byrne, 18 yards, 4. Time, 14 4-5 seconds.

RIFLE MATCH AT GOULBURN.

GOULBURN, FRIDAY.

A triangular rifle match took place between the Goulburn ex-cadets, the second team of the Goulburn Volunteer Rifle Club, and the Young Reserve Corps. It was won by the ex-cadets, the Goulburn team being second. The scores were—Ex-cadets, 368; Goulburn, 358; Young, 311.

CRICKET.

An all-day match was played on the Association Cricket Ground on Friday, between an eleven selected from the association and 18 members of the Union. The result was a draw, greatly in favour of the seniors. The match was supposed to start at 10 o'clock, but it was fully an hour later before the teams took the field. J. Austin won the toss from Moses, and elected to bat, Patrick and Cowley facing the bowling of Callaway and Garrett. In the first over Patrick made a miss hit, and was let off in slips by Hall, who was fielding as a substitute. The batsmen were quickly at work on the bowling. Patrick cut Garrett for 4, and made a brace off each trundler. Cowley forward cut Garrett in pretty style to the boundary, and Patrick slipped him for the same. Cowley cut Garrett hard, and was missed by Davis at point, and shortly afterwards he received another life off the same bowler at mid-off. With the score at 33 Iredale took the ball from Callaway, who was not keeping a good length on. A few overs later Cowley was caught at fine slip by C. Richardson off Garrett after playing a lucky innings. (1-11-41.) S. Austin followed, and Patrick, who did not throw away any chances, got Iredale twice to the boundary at leg. That bowler proving very expensive, Callaway went on again, and Patrick made a fine hit off him to the boundary. Austin played forward out of his ground to Garrett, and Wales had his bails off with wonderful celerity. (2-0-57.) Clements was next man, and he was run out off Patrick's call. He turned to go back, but fell, and was unable to get home before the ball was returned. (3-0-57.) Hillier came next, and after each batsman had scored a four, Ogilvy went on bowling. The change proved a fortunate one, as in the first over Patrick, who had given the bowlers a lot of trouble, was caught out at cover point. (4-45-65.) Folkes became Hillier's partner, but the score had not been materially increased before Hillier tried to get a ball from Ogilvy round towards leg, and was given out l.b.w. (5-4-68.) Yuill succeeded him, and he slipped Ogilvy to the fence for a start, Folkes following up the example by driving the same bowler for another quartette. With the score at 80, W. Richardson replaced Garrett, and putting on a lot of pace he clean bowled Folkes. (6-15-80.) J. Austin was the next batsman, and once more Richardson's fast bowling secured a victim. (7-0-80.) Meagher was missed for a catch in the field, and his new partner, Yuill, was run out off an overthrow. (8-8-104.) Buckle joined Meagher, and the former was missed by Callaway at mid-off. With the score at 105, an adjournment was made for luncheon. When the game was resumed, Wales, who had been keeping wickets excellently, gave place to S. Deane. Occasional changes were made in the bowling with Ogilvy, W. Richardson, Garrett, and Callaway. Ogilvy found a weak spot in Buckle's defence. (9-4-118.) Camphin, his successor, was caught first ball. (10-0-118.) Sweetnam came next, and Meagher, who had been playing exceedingly good cricket, was caught at mid-off by Callaway. (11-27-126.) Doyle, who came next, did not last long, being caught out after scoring a single. (12-1-130.) Young joined Sweetnam, and they made an excellent stand, the score when Young was bowled standing (13-18-173.) Hall followed, and a good ball from Garrett cut short an excellent innings played by Sweetnam. (14-32-175.) Mitchell and Hall became partners, but Hall was caught out before he had increased the score materially. (15-9-195.) Mitchell was bowled by Callaway before the score had been increased. (16-9-195.) M'Grath, the last man in, did not score. (17-0-196.) Neither did O'Brien, the not-out man. (18-0-196.)

The seniors started their innings by sending in Garrett and C. Richardson to the bowling of Sweetnam and O'Brien. Richardson hit O'Brien to forward of square leg and five were run for the stroke. Garrett was the first to receive his dismissal, being caught by Yuill at forward cover. (1-13-22.) Davis partnered Richardson, and numerous changes in the bowling were tried, Buckle being the least expensive, only four runs were recorded against him for seven overs, five of them being maidens. Davis was very hard on the bowling stepping out and punishing it severely. At length he played a fast ball from Young under his leg, and the ball rising, he was caught out at square leg. (2-46-81.) Hiddilston joined Richardson, and after playing a fairly free innings, Richardson was caught out at mid-on. (3-47-120.) Iredale joined Hiddilston, and the former was badly missed by Folkes from an easy catch between long-stop and square-leg. The batsmen ultimately played out time, bringing the total up to 136. The following are the scores and bowling analysis:—

The Alberts met the Warwicks on the Domain on Friday, and a win resulted for the Alberts by 247 runs. A splendid turf wicket was provided, and it was very much in favour of the batsmen. For the Warwicks, M'Donald and A. Hiddilston (17) played very creditably for their runs, while Weekes (113) and most of the Albert team shaped well for their scores. The bowling of the Alberts was entrusted to Bowden and Taylor, and the Warwick team had a good chance for testing their bowling strength, Brown proving the most successful and capturing six wickets. Appended are the scores:—

Teams representing the Waverley C. C. and Gladesville Asylum Club met on Friday on the latter's ground at Gladesville. The match resulted in a victory for Waverley by 6 runs. Gladesville Asylum, 85 (Roberts 24); Waverley, 91 (V. Adams 49, not out). Adams played a dashing innings for the Waverleys, and was cheered when he made the winning hit during a critical stage of the game. The principals of the asylum displayed unlimited hospitality to their visitors during the day, and an excellent band enlivened the proceedings throughout the match.

PEDESTRIANISM.

The first 19 heats in connection with the first round of the Carrington Prince of Wales Birthday Handicap will be run off to-night, the time of starting being 8 o'clock. The handicap has been pronounced one of the best framed for a long time; and, judging from the number of men who are said to have a good chance of winning the final, there should be some very interesting racing. The proprietary of these grounds are determined, as far as it lies in their power, to put down suspicious running; and, as the penalties imposed by them will shortly be endorsed by the Ashfield Ground Company, there is no doubt that peds will have to be on their best behaviour. The running will be opened by Shaw, Smyth, and the two veterans Learnihan and Cant, and an exciting finish should be the result. The third heat ought to produce an excellent finish between C. E. Merchant, W. Pearson, C. Thomas, and E. G. S. Foster. The eighth heat brings about the meeting of the well-known performers H. Miller, T. K. Bond, F. Kirby, and H. S. Thompson, and the last heat of the evening should result in a pretty race between R. R. Williams, R. Stevens, A. M. Hart, and W. H. Williams. The running will terminate at 9.55.

The time for receiving entries for the Carrington 300 yards Steeplechase has been extended until to-night.

Pedestrians are reminded that to-night the entries for the Ashfield Supplementary Sheffield Handicap close with the secretary at Forbes' Hotel, King-street, or at the grounds.

AQUATICS.

The North Shore Regatta, to be held at Middle Harbour on November 17, promises to be a great success. The programme is as follows:—Double Sculls, in club skiffs, for youths under 21, residents of North Shore, first prize £7 10s., second prize £2; Manual Labour Amateurs, in light skiffs, handicapped, first prize £7, second prize £3; All-comers, in light skiffs, handicapped, first prize £12, second prize £3; Double Sculls, in club skiffs, for residents in the electorate of St Leonards, handicapped, first prize £8, second prize £5; Senior Outrigger Race for Amateurs, members of rowing clubs, first prize £12 12s.; second prize £3 3s. Senior Double Sculls, in club skiffs, for amateur members of rowing clubs, prize £8 8s. Entries for the above will be taken at Mr. J. Connolly's Hotel, Lane Cove-road, North Shore, and at Mr. J. H. Myers's, King-street, Sydney, this (Saturday) evening, up to 9 o'clock. The entrance fees are unusually small, and a large number of entries are expected. Arrangements are being made for securing a suitable flagship, and also for a steamer to follow the different events. The handicaps are promised by Wednesday next. Having such a beautiful sheet of water the residents of the shore are determined to make their initial regatta a big success.

The boats of the Sydney Amateur Canvas Dingy Club will sail a handicap race this afternoon, for a trophy presented by their vice-president, Dr. Marano. The following are the entries and handicaps:—Thos. Punch, Ripple, Pearl, Bessie, and Violet, scratch, working and leading; Estrella, 1 minute working, and 30 seconds leading; and Xarifa, 4¼ minutes working, and 2½ minutes leading. The start is to be a flying one, and will take place at 3.15 p.m. Mr. W. Langford will officiate as starter, and Mr. C. F. Dunn as umpire and timekeeper.

The Irene and Wilfred, the first and second boats respectively in the Port Jackson Sailing Club's Hurry Scurry Race on the 13th ultimo, will sail over the course this afternoon, as decided upon by the committee.

Mr. A. G. Milson's yacht Era left her moorings at 1.15 p.m. yesterday, clearing the Heads an hour later, with a nice leading wind and every prospect of making a good passage. The Volunteer will leave this morning at 10 o'clock, in charge of Captain Dudley.

COMMERCIAL.

THE WOOL TRADE.

Several auctioneers refrained from submitting catalogues during the past week; as a consequence, both the quantities offered and sold show a considerable decrease on the preceding week. The attendance of buyers continues large, and biddings all round are brisk. For really good wools, sound and well skirted, prices show no change, but for the medium and interior sorts values scarcely equal the highest point reached. Bulky pieces, bellies, and locks are, if anything, in improved request, and command very good prices in proportion to that ruling for fleece wool. Good, free, bright lambs continue in favour, whilst faulty sorts are difficult to move. Continental representatives take the bulk of the offerings; buyers for Yorkshire still remain rather quiet, except for scoured oddments. Buyers for local speculation only take a lot here and there. The selection of wools has not been very choice, the bulk of the offerings consisting of medium wools. The highest price given for greasy fleece was 11d., which was paid for 25 bales of the H over MB over Rosevale mark from Young, the lambs of the same clip reaching 11½d.; a small line from Mudgee marked EDN brought 10½d.; whilst 10d. was paid for 52 bales AJ over Derwent Park, and 19 bales CH over Yunnburra, marks. The best price for scoured wool was 17d., obtained for 51 bales branded MC over Welbon; 277 bales of Burrenbilla scoured were quitted at from 15½d. to 16½d., and 105 bales of first pieces at 14d. per lb. The full particulars of the sales will be found in another column.

Tallow.—Messrs. F. L. Barker, J. H. Geddes and Co., Brunker and Wolfe, Hill, Clark, and Co., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, and Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, report holding sales on Thursday. 330 packages were offered, and 281 sold publicly. A further improvement in the London market created a corresponding advance in the local market for shipping lots, which were competed for with freedom at an advance of 25s per ton. Trade lines also were in good demand. Quotations—Best beef, £23 to £24 10s per ton; best mixed, £24 10s to £25 5s; exceptional lines, to £25 10s; oddments, £17 5s to £22 10s; mutton, £25 to £25 10s.

Hides.—5606 were offered, and 3393 sold at Thursday's sales. Although the supplies forward was small, prices were rather easier. Extra heavies, 3d to 3½d per lb.; superior lines to 3¾d; heavy, 2¾d to 3d; medium, 2¼d to 2½d; light, 2¾d to 3½d; faulty from 1d.

Marsupial Skins.—Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, report offering on Thursday a large catalogue, which was cleared at full prices. For kangaroo skins a strong demand was experienced for all sizes, and values obtained were equal to those current at last sales. Extra large and superior skins to 94s per dozen; very large, 50 to 60s; large, 36s to 48s; fair, 28s to 36s; medium, 22s to 27s; small, 12s to 20s; very small, 3s to 10s. Only the very best wallaby skins were in demand, and prices were rather weaker. Largest realised to 15s 6d; medium, 5s to 8s 6d; small, 3s to 4s; very small, 1s 6d to 2s 6d; rock wallaby, 1s 6d to 2s 6d. Bear skins were in fair request; best worth 4s 6d to 6s; small to medium, 2s to 4s. Well-furred opossum skins commanded ready sale at 7s 6d to 10s 6d; medium, 4s to 6s 6d; inferior lots, 1s 6d to 3s 6d.

Hair.—Horsehair ranges from 13½d to 15d per lb.; cow, washed, 10d to 13½d; dirty and stumps, 6d to 12d.

Horns and Bones.—Large well-cared lots of horns command strong attention, 33s 6d to 43s per 100; medium, 23s to 30s; small, 7s 6d to 14s; tips, from 2s 6d. Best shank bones, £5 to £7 per ton; other descriptions from £23 10s. Common bones, £2 15s to £3; hoof, £3 to £3 5s.

Leather.—At Tuesday's sales there was only a limited attendance. The demand was entirely confined to the lightest and best dressed tweed goods. Kip was unchanged. Shippers operated freely for sole. Harness lines, of which large stocks were available, were again neglected. Quotations: Sole, heavy, 9d to 10d; medium, 7½d to 8d; light, to 8½d; kip, 11d to 14d; cow, tweed, 15d to 20d; heavy, 13d to 14d; yearling tweed, 18d to 19d; calf tweed, 21d to 24d; harness, best, 12d to 13d; medium, 10½d to 11d; bag, 9s to 11s; bridle, 10s to 11s.

Store Stock.—There is very little inquiry for store cattle in the north-western district, in consequence of the drought. On the Murray good bullocks sold as low as 50s to 60s. Store sheep can scarcely be quitted in the present state of the country. From 3s 6d to 5s for wethers is almost a nominal range of quotations.

Stations.—The sale of the Taloumbie station, Clarence River district, with stock, has been reported during the week.

The steamer Te Anau, for Auckland and southern New Zealand ports, cleared the heads at 3 p.m. yesterday.

To-day the colonial man-of-war Wolverene goes into commission and it is proposed to go outside for big-gun and drill practice by the Naval Brigade and Naval Artillery Corps.

H.M.S. Raven left the harbour yesterday, on a cruise down to New Zealand, going round by way of Hobart. She cleared the heads at 2.20 p.m.

The yacht Era made a third, and doubtless final, start yesterday for Melbourne, with a nice fresh fair wind. She cleared the heads in company with H.M.S. Raven.

A barque, too far off to identify, passed the Heads, bound north, yesterday at 1 p.m.

During Thursday night, or rather early on Friday morning, the sea and wind went down sufficiently to induce the schooner Lady Mabel and the steamer Kiama, lying in Watson's Bay, weatherbound, to proceed on their respective voyages—the schooner to Newcastle, for Auckland, and the Kiama for Moruya.

This afternoon, at 1 o'clock, the P. and O. R.M. steamer Britannia will leave here for London, via usual ports of call. Yesterday a number of passengers were added to her clearance as published yesterday. The complete list appears in to-day's clearances of shipping.

Movements of the Union Steamship Company's steamers are noted as follows:—Hauroto, hence, at Wellington 3rd instant; Wakatipu left Wellington for Sydney direct on Thursday morning last.

No business whatever was transacted yesterday at the Custom-house.

To-day the Merchants' Exchange and the Custom-house will be closed in continuation of the Prince of Wales's Birthday. This covers the celebration of the 9th in the old country, allowing for the difference in time.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY EVENING.

To-day was observed as a general holiday.

In our advertising columns appears the abridged prospectus of the Pastoral, Finance, Trust, and Agency Company of Australasia, the share list of which closes to-morrow, Saturday. A meeting has been called for the 23rd instant to declare the company formed.

London commercial files to the 5th October were delivered to-day. The money market was active, owing to expectations of further withdrawals of gold for export. Current rates of discount had advanced to 4 per cent., the bank rate, being raised to 5 per cent. Advances from the banks were being made at as much as 4½ per cent. Call loans made at 3½ to 4 per cent. Colonial stocks were shaken by the news of the condition of the Bank of New Zealand, the 4 per cents. of New Zealand falling 2½ per cent., and closing at 96½ to 97½. The prices of bank stocks on October 4 were as follows:—Bank of Australasia, 90-92; Bank of New South Wales, 70-72; Bank of New Zealand, 9-11, a fall of 3½; Commercial of Australia, 9½-10½; English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered Bank, 34-35; London Chartered of Australia, 27½-28½; National of Australasia, 11-11½; Queensland National, Limited, 10½-11½; Union of Australia, 61-63; Union Inscribed Stock Deposits, 101-103.

A meeting of shareholders of the Bank of Australasia was held at London on October 3; Mr. E. W. Hamilton in the chair. The report stated that, after providing for rebate on bills current, for income tax, for colonial taxes on note circulation, and for all bad and doubtful debts, the net profit for the half-year amounted to £96,251. The addition of £12,800 brought forward from the previous half-year gave a disposable balance of £109,052, of which the dividend declared at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum absorbed £96,000, leaving £13,052 to be carried forward to the next account. The chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that the latest reports he had seen justified him in saying that most of the colonies with which the bank carried on business were fairly prosperous. The latest returns of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Queensland, and Tasmania showed the total amount of revenue raised during the 12 months to June, 1888, as 22½ millions, which was an improvement of nearly two and a-half millions. This was an increase of more than 11 per cent., and, when it was borne in mind that 4 or 5 per cent. increase in the finances of the United Kingdom used to be talked of in the past as an advance by leaps and bounds, therefore some bold figure of speech would be necessary to describe the increase referred to. There had been considerable increase in the export of wool and precious metals, and there had also been an astonishing increase in the transactions of the Melbourne Clearing House, but for all that the reports as to trade and commerce were not so good as they might be. During the 12 months, 270 new companies had been floated, involving capital to the amount of 52 millions, but the bank had stood still because it had regarded the position as the result of speculation rather than of the legitimate expansion of trade. It had never been the policy of the bank to foster speculative movements or to seek to participate in the treacherous profits to be gathered from them. Mr. R. Martin Smith seconded the motion, which was adopted, and then a long and animated discussion took place upon a motion by Mr. Henderson, to the effect that the directors should appear by counsel, and agree to the reversal of the decision of Mr. Justice North, which legalised the action of the last meeting in making the grant to the Parkes family, and to the issue of a perpetual injunction prohibiting the payments, the whole of the cost of the action and the appeal being borne by the bank. Ultimately, upon a show of hands, the resolution was declared to be carried. Mr. Sebag Montefiore demanded a poll, which was fixed for Tuesday, October 16, between the hours of 12 and 4 o'clock, and the general meeting was adjourned until October 17. The chairman proposed that Mr. W. A. M'Arthur be a director. Mr. Henderson was also nominated, and obtained the show of hands, and a poll was demanded. At an extraordinary meeting held afterwards Mr. Henderson carried a series of resolutions chiefly against the directors in reference to the grant to Mr. Parkes, an amendment of the directors that the resolution be referred to them being negatived. However, the chairman demanded a ballot. The voting, as we have learnt by cablegram, has resulted in the endorsement of the policy of the directors by four to one.

From the London commercial letter of Messrs. De Lissa, Crowe, and Co., dated October 5, we take the following:—

"In our last report we advised the continued firmness in freights and scarcity of ships, and since then rates for Australian ports have been raised another 2s. 6d. The activity reported in trade generally still continues, and a gradual stiffening of prices is taking place in all leading lines. Dried Fruits: The rise in currants, which we advised at the opening of the season, has not been sustained, and prices have gradually dropped to very nearly the lowest point again. The Christmas demand is likely to keep figures up to about this level, but towards the end of the year we shall not be surprised to see lower prices. Sultanas and figs have both dropped during the past fortnight. Figs are now about 5s. cheaper. Elemes can be bought a little lower than our last quotations. Muscatels are very scarce, and the few arrivals have been snapped up, principally for the home trade, at very high figures, as much as 120s. being paid for 3 and 4 crown. Dates: Some forward business has been done in well-known marks at 19s., 20s., c.i.f., colony, but prices are drooping a little, and we expect to buy considerably lower. Sardines: We have never seen fine fish procurable at the low prices we are now paying, and which certainly cannot last for many months, as the packers are losing money. Herrings: It is difficult to get orders executed, the principal packers being sold out. Prices must became firmer later on. Malt: The bad prospects for the barley crop have caused maltsters to raise their figures, and for really fine quality we quote 5s. to 10s. per qr. advance. Iron: Pig iron has been quiet during the last fortnight; but, allowing for slight fluctuations, there is no decline in the market. In manufactured iron the activity we reported continues unabated, and prices are steadily creeping upwards for all leading lines. Holloware: The manufacturers have reduced their discounts. Galvanised Iron: Makers are full of orders, and prices are very firm at our last quotations, with an upward tendency. Fencing Wire: Figures remain unaltered. Tinplates are firm, and, we think, likely to be higher.

The Australasian Mortgage and Agency Company report the receipt of the following telegram from Melbourne:—

"We had excellent competition to-day, and obtained full prices. Rookbrook greasy brought 12½d.; Nicholl, 12d.; Stock, 12d.; Tabletop, 11¾d.; Rocklea, 11½d.; Adams and G. M. Wallaloo, 11½d.; W. A. Moredun, Hill, and T. A. Everton, 10½d.; J. M. Olrig, 9½d.; Nangeribone and Belubla, 9½d.; R. M. A. Benduck, 9d.; in washed fleece, T. N. Nareen brought 16d.; 3300 were offered and 3150 sold."

The London wool market at the beginning of October, according to Messrs. Jacomb and Son, was in a healthy condition, the sales being well attended and the competition brisk. The upward movement in the market from the beginning of the sales had been arrested except with respect to the best merino combing descriptions. Crossbreds had altered but little since the opening of the sales. Coarser grades and poor scoureds did not quite reach July rates. At the periodical sales of hides held on October 4, the supply of salted Australian consisted of remnants; dry salted sold without change. Particulars as follows:—55 salted Australian ox and cow sold: iron damaged averaged 52½ to 54¼lb., 3d.; 305 dry salted Australian ox and cow sold: heavy, averaged 35½lb., 3¾d.; light, 25½lb., 3½d.; thirds, 2½d. The periodical sales of skins were held on October 4, when 34,166 kangaroo were offered, and 10,173 sold: large averaged 21 to 22½lb., per dozen, 2s. 11d. to 2s. 11½d.; middling, 12½ to 13lb., 2s. 7d. to 2s. 7½d.; small, 5¾ to 9½lb., 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 6d.; wombat, 7d. to 7½d.; wallaby, 4½d. to 1s. each.

The shipping arrivals to-day include the Skelmorlie from London, with a general cargo valued at £35,400, and the Paposo, from Hamburg, with general cargo for this port, and 375 tons salt for Newcastle.

Messrs. G. T. Clarke and Company report the following sales of real estate by public auction and private contract during the week:—The remaining unsold lots in the Queen's Park Estate, North Shore, on the ground, Saturday last at prices ranging from 24s. to 80s. per foot; also, land in St. Leonards Park subdivision, Fortview-street, £2 10s. per foot; land in Alexander-street, Perry's Estate, North Shore, £4 per foot; land in Rosebery Estate, Military-road, North Shore, £2 10s. per foot.

LATEST COMMERCIAL TELEGRAMS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Nov. 8.

The issue department stock of gold, coin, and buillion is £18,520,000.

The banking department reserve in notes and coin is £10,982,000.

The percentage of reserve to liabilities is 36½ per cent.

The circulation (excluding bank post bills) is £24,828,000.

The public deposits are £4,386,000.

The other deposits are £25,480,000.

Government securities are £17,070,000.

Other securities are £19,724,000.

Since the close of the last series of wool sales the market has been quiet. The number of bales privately disposed of amounts to 1600. Values are slightly firmer than the rates ruling at the close of last sales: Adding the quantity held over from last sales, the available total for the ensuing series will be 160,000 bales. The reports from the manufacturing districts are satisfactory.

The prices for Australian and New Zealand mutton and beef are unchanged.

CHRISTMAS, 1888.

IN PREPARATION
ONE OF, IF NOT THE, FINEST
CHRISTMAS PUBLICATIONS EVER ISSUED IN AUSTRALIA.

There will be a large number of
FIRST-CLASS ENGRAVINGS, which will be
WORKS OF ART.

There will be
SEVERAL ILLUSTRATED STORIES by some of the ablest and most popular authors of the day.

In addition to numerous Engravings, a COLOURED SUPPLEMENT
will be given away to each subscriber. The subject is exceedingly good, of great artistic finish, rich in colour, and would adorn the drawing-room of any home in the colony.

Although the Story and Illustrations have been procured only at a very large outlay, the Proprietors have resolved NOT TO MAKE ANY EXTRA CHARGE FOR THE MAIL. The price will therefore remain as usual, SIXPENCE PER COPY.

Owing to the large amount of space covered by the stories and pictures, the advertising space will be necessarily limited. Intending advertisers would therefore do well to send in their favours early.

GILLON'S LIMEJUICE CORDIAL.
Extract from the Lancet, 5th and 12th November, 1870.
"A sample of this juice submitted to analysis furnished the following results, the specific gravity being 10·24:—1000 parts contained anhydrous citric, 42·24; grape sugar, 1·81, ash, 2·3. This gave an amount of potash equal to 43·47 per cent., and 8·23 per cent. of phosphoric acid. NO CANE SUGAR, TARTARIC, OR OTHER MINERAL ACID WAS PRESENT. We conclude, therefore, from these data that the juice is genuine, while its state of preservation is highly satisfactory."
We are now receiving our summer supplies of the above, and will be pleased to book orders.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1888.

Final returns in connection with the Presidential election in America show that General Harrison received 233 votes, and ex-President Cleveland 168. The Republicans were victorious in California and Indiana.

The Queensland Agent-General has officially informed the Secretary of State for the Colonies that a strong feeling of dissatisfaction has been expressed in Queensland at the appointment of Sir Arthur Henry Blake as Governor of the colony.

Major Deane Pitt, of the Royal Artillery, has been appointed successor to Major Walker as commandant of the Victorian Permanent Artillery.

Additional evidence given before the Parnell-Times Inquiry Commission shows that outrages and boycotting in Ireland resulted from National League action.

A London cablegram announces that the Sugar Bounties Convention will not be ratified by the Imperial Parliament this session.

H.M.S. Agamemnon has been ordered to Zanzibar, to assist in the suppression of slavery in Zanzibar and Eastern Africa.

The weekly report on the wool trade states that the attendance of buyers at the market continues to be large, and biddings all round are brisk.

One result of the colliery strike at Newcastle has been the uncertain arrival at San Francisco of vessels with Australian coal, which has created a preference for British Columbian coal.

The third instalment of Sir Morell Mackenzie's work on "The Fatal Illness of Frederick the Noble" is published in this morning's Herald.

Lord Carrington was a visitor to the Masonic Club in Melbourne yesterday. The toast of his health was cordially honoured, to which compliment his Excellency made a pleasant response.

His Excellency Lord Carrington and suite will leave Melbourne for Sydney by special train this evening at five minutes to 11 o'clock.

In Sydney and throughout the colony the Prince of Wales's Birthday was observed as a holiday.

A sad fatal boating accident happened through a collision near Glebe Island Bridge yesterday morning. A small open boat and the steam launch Essex collided. The boat was overturned, and two young men named Thomas Bardsley and Thomas Nettleton were drowned.

The Prince of Wales' Birthday holiday was duly observed in Brisbane. About 10,000 persons attended the Q. T. C. Spring Meeting, held at Eagle Farm, and over 1000 passengers patronised an excursion across Moreton Bay, in aid of the Brisbane Hospital.

Yesterday was observed as a general holiday at Adelaide. The principal event was a sham fight.

At Hobart and throughout Tasmania the Prince of Wales' birthday was celebrated by a general holiday.

Alderman Benjamin was yesterday sworn in as Mayor of the City of Melbourne for the municipal year of 1888-9.

The drought still continues at Port Moresby and over the eastern part of New Guinea generally.

Mr. L. Melton, an architect, of Melbourne, was drowned yesterday, while with a sailing party, through the capsizing of a boat in Port Phillip Bay. Three other occupants of the boat were rescued in an exhausted condition.

James Martin Banck, a draughtsman in the Victorian Lands Department, committed suicide yesterday morning at Kew, by cutting his throat and then stabbing himself. Papers referring to the transfer of land, and others bearing the names of horses in the recent race meetings were found amongst his luggage.

A bowling match played yesterday afternoon between teams representing New South Wales and New Zealand was won by the former by 105 points to 90. The Glebe Club of Sydney beat the Richmond Club yesterday, and were in turn defeated by the Carlton bowlers.

Yesterday Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith's new yacht, the Harriet Ann, which was amongst the craft at the opening meeting of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron this season, secured the principal prize at the Humpybong Regatta.

Arrangements have been made for the signing of the Newcastle agreement on Monday next. The managers of the associated collieries have decided to blow the whistles for work on Monday morning; but as local agreements have to be framed, it is likely that operations will not be in full swing before Wednesday or Thursday.

Several accidents happened at Newcastle yesterday. A guard named Saunders fell out of a train near Maitland, and narrowly escaped being killed, and through an omnibus colliding with a cab and a buggy one man had his leg broken, and others were severely bruised and shaken.

The attendance at the Melbourne Exhibition yesterday numbered 28,221 persons.

A disastrous fire occurred yesterday afternoon at the corner of Ferguson and James streets, Williamstown. The value of the property destroyed was not far short of £5000. It is supposed that the fire was caused by the explosion of crackers.

The pigeon-shooting match between Victoria and New South Wales, which took place at Melbourne yesterday, was won by New South Wales with only one point to spare. The scoring was 95 to 94, with 13 men aside and 9 birds each, at 28 yards.

The barque Iron Duke, which grounded near Queenscliffe on Thursday, backed into deep water yesterday during a squall. She is now anchored in the channel.

Various local governing bodies interested yesterday considered the question of forming a harbour trust scheme at Townsville, but no definite arrangement was arrived at.

Tamworth was successfully lighted with electricity last night, amid much rejoicing. The success of the undertaking eclipsed the anticipations of the most sanguine.

Some new regulations passed by the Executive during the week on the subject of the treatment of youthful criminals suggest certain considerations on what is admitted on all sides to be an important social question. These regulations are intended to apply to first offenders between the ages of 16 and 25 years. It is recognised that persons of this class who have committed offences against the law stand in a different position to the convicted criminal over the age of twenty-five or thirty years; and that their case requires a different treatment to correspond with the difference in conditions. For one reason and another, into which considerations of convenience and expense largely enter, it has not been practically recognised hitherto that any variation in the system should be made on this account; but the new regulations seem to indicate that the opinion of authority has undergone some modification in this particular. A seventh class for first offenders of the ages specified has been established, providing for special treatment, which will take the form of confinement in separate cells, and dissociation from the more hardened habitués of the gaols. Provision has been made for the carrying out of this scheme from the beginning of January next, and the step is one that will commend itself to most sociological observers not only on the ground of its immediate merit, but also as indicating that the problem of youthful criminality, and its nature generally, is about to be approached in a practical way. The object of the criminal law, of course, is to punish crime. But an axiom of this kind, like most dogmatic utterances on social questions, may be taken to mean more than it says, and probably few earnest-minded individuals would see in it a justification for abstention from anything that might tend to give the law's operation a curative or preventive effect as well. The liberalising process that public opinion has passed through during the last hundred years has gone far to humanise the public sentiment on the subject of the law and its penalties. If, with the development of the liberal instinct, it can go a step farther and humanise the law's administration still more in practice and in theory as well, a distinct advance will have been made.

Any one who cares to give attention to the question of youthful criminality must be struck by two startling facts in connection with it. The first is the proportion borne by the number of youthful offenders to the total criminal population; and the other is the fact, clearly enough proved by foreign figures though we have no local returns bearing specifically on this aspect of the question, that it is chiefly from the ranks of the youthful offenders that the twice and thrice convicted criminals are recruited. These two indisputable facts circumscribe within very narrow limits the practical part of the question as to the prevention and cure of crime. The last report of the GOVERNMENT STATIST gives us all the information necessary to make the truth of the former and more important fact unmistakably apparent. Returns of the ages of persons arrested prove, not only that the number of offenders under the age of thirty greatly exceeds that given in the table for any other age, but that the offences themselves are of a more serious character. The table shows that the majority of crimes against property and the person were committed before the age of thirty, while those against good order, consisting chiefly of drunkenness, are chargeable against offenders between the ages of 30 and 50 years. Out of a total of 294 offences against property with violence, 210 were committed by persons of the former class during last year, and the percentages of arrests during 1885-6-7 were 37·36, 37·42, and 37·99 respectively, the next approaching totals for a given age being 26·47, 26·13, and 26·86, between the ages of thirty and forty. Out of a total of convictions for the year, amounting to 44,094, the proportion of offenders under the age of thirty years was 16,749. But increased significance is given to these figures when it is remembered that of the total convictions 33,753 were for offences against good order, including that of drunkenness, for which, the GOVERNMENT STATIST tells us, offenders between the ages of thirty and fifty are chiefly responsible. The greatest number of prisoners at any age-period is given as of those under the age of thirty years, and if the cases of drunkenness be excluded, the years up to that age are more prolific of criminals than those after that period is passed. These are striking figures. They tell their own tale with cruel exactness, and with merciless directness and lucidity. And indicating as they do the large importance of the question of youthful criminality in connection with the subject of crime and its treatment generally, they leave very little room for doubt as to the necessity for giving that aspect of the matter the most liberal and intelligent consideration. It is not enough to punish crime in youthful offenders if the desire be to cope with the subject as a whole in a broad and remedial social spirit.

Of course the problem as to the best method of treatment appropriate to first offenders who may be said to be just entering on the responsibilities of life can only at the present stage receive a tentative answer. Some of the most desperate offences known to our criminal records have been perpetrated by youthful offenders. A crime is a crime in the eye of the law, at whatever age it may be committed. Yet it may be remembered for a moment in this connection that, while our criminal law takes the most exact cognisance of offences committed by persons under the age of 21, it refuses to recognise any person's liability for a civil debt contracted before he comes of age. The idea in the latter case is that the minor has not a sufficient sense of his personal responsibility; yet in the case of youthful criminals, the full possession of this sense, and a practical knowledge of its application in so far as it has to do with the provisions of the law, is necessarily taken for granted. The practical difficulties in the way of any other view being taken are, of course, apparent enough. But it is at the same time equally apparent that for a thoughtless act, done in the heat of youth and under the impact of circumstances, perhaps, of which his youth and inexperience gave him no opportunity of exercising a responsible judgment, the youthful offender has wrecked his life at the outset, and contracted a penalty of which it will take him years even to learn the full nature. That is the matter as it regards the youthful offender himself. Its aspect with respect to the public interest is a still more important one. Thrown among criminal associates, the well-known influences that surround him must almost of necessity turn him out with pronounced criminal proclivities. That portion of the penalty of his crime which is forced on him after his release from prison drives him into the ranks of the criminal classes again, unless special circumstances favour him; and in this way a repeatedly-convicted criminal is manufactured. In a less civilised state than ours we should deal with confirmed criminals very peremptorily, perhaps; as it is, we have to maintain them in gaol, and let them loose again to prey on society, alternately. They are the result of our social conditions, developed by the punitive letter of the law and the exigencies of prison discipline; and so long as the causes last, the result is an evil we must be content to put up with. But it is becoming more and more generally understood that the cause may be reached in a measure by the more enlightened treatment of youthful first offenders, and as the fact becomes more practically recognised, measures may doubtless be taken to deal with the question of crime and criminals through this easily accessible avenue of approach. A New Zealand contemporary recently published some encouraging results of a measure of the kind suggested by Mr. HOWARD VINCENT, of the London police, while in that colony. Under its provisions first offenders are released on probation, and of 121 so dealt with since the Act came into force, in October, 1886, 58 satisfactorily discharged their conditions, and 53 were still on probation, while only nine had been re-arrested, and but one had evaded supervision. If similar regulations were adopted among ourselves it might be interesting to observe the number of youthful offenders rescued from the criminal classes, and encouraging to calculate the social and economical benefit to the community generally.

An interesting paper upon the meat supply of the colony, compiled by the GOVERNMENT STATISTICIAN, has been laid upon the table of the Assembly. This paper, arranged with Mr. COGHLAN'S usual lucidity, deals with the ratio of increase in the cattle and sheep of the various colonies compared with that of the population of Australia, the percentage of stock available for consumption, and the period in which the demand for beef and mutton may be expected to equalise the supply available. Mr. COGHLAN estimates that the number of cattle available for consumption in 1888 will be 884,000, out of a total of 7,916,520 head of cattle, which represents the complete stock of cattle in Australia for this year. The demand for beef in these colonies at present equals 743,080 head of cattle. As, however, the increase of cattle in the colonies is only estimated at 1 per cent., while the population—equivalent to a present demand of 743,080 head—increases at a rate of not less than 4 per cent, the demand will overtake the supply in six years. With regard to sheep, the supply is at present so great, equalling more than twice the demand, and the ratio of increase is so nearly equal to that of the population, that the demand is never likely to become anything like equal to the supply.

It will thus be seen that, as matters are at present going, within the short space of six years, or a period slightly more remote than that, the demand for beef in Australia will equal the supply. The first consequence of this will, of course, be the demolition of the export trade in beef, which is built upon the margin of stock lying between the yearly demand and supply. Beyond the period at which the demand and supply will balance Mr. COGHLAN'S report does not go; but it is fair to assume that, as there is apparently nothing to diminish the rate of increase of population in these colonies for some considerable number of years, the demand for cattle will speedily outstrip the market supply. The direct consequence of such a state of things would undoubtedly be the consumption of a less amount of beef per head of the population, and an increased value upon beef consequent upon the comparatively limited supply. It is a curious circumstance that more meat is consumed in these colonies proportionately to the population than in, perhaps, any other country in the world. This fact is, doubtless, primarily caused by the cheapness of beef and mutton in Australia. This cheapness of meat places it within the reach of the very poorest as an article of diet; and a continual indulgence in it as one of the staple articles of food seems at length to render it almost indispensable to those who have been in the habit of using it. To those accustomed to it no other article of food can take its place as a stimulant. The labourer in Australia is unable to work properly unless he has a large daily supply of meat. The working classes of the United Kingdom and Europe subsist upon a far less quantity of meat than the same class in Australia, but they supply its place with vegetable and cereal productions infinitely superior to it as mental and physical force-producers. When these workmen come to Australia, however, they appear to find the consumption of large quantities of meat necessary to the preservation of their physical stamina. This may, perhaps, be ascribable to the enervating nature of our climate, but is more probably due, as we have said before, to the cheap and plentiful supply of meat obtainable. That meat is not essential to the hardworkers of other races than our own is evidenced by the Chinese and other Eastern peoples, to whom meat is an almost unknown article of diet, and whose labourers, if inferior to Caucasians in the capacity for severe and sudden physical exertion, are at least superior in endurance. Wherever nations have been able to obtain meat in abundance they have certainly preferred it to any other dietary, and to this appreciation of meat has been traced with every appearance of probability the origin of cannibalism.

That excessive meat-eating is very disastrous to the health is with many an article of firm belief. For instance, an extract from a Bombay paper, published in another column, in dealing with this question, says:—"Dyspepsia, biliousness, diarrhœal diseases, liver and kidney affections, derangement of the nervous system, and functional troubles with the heart are some of the consequences of eating too much meat for a series of years." Whether we take this extreme view of the physical evil attendant on an over-indulgence in meat or not, to such an indulgence has been ascribed the boisterous and sometimes brutal animalism which marks the rougher element in our population, and which in the young produces the larrikin, ripe for disorder and sometimes for lawlessness. This is of course only a theory, but a knowledge of the chemistry of the human organism has revealed the fact that meat is by no means valuable as a nutriment to the brain and the finer tissues of the body. For this purpose fish has deservedly a much higher reputation, and it would unquestionably be much better for the intellectual, and probably moral, character of the population of Australia if more fish and less meat were consumed. Fish does not, however, possess the directly stimulating qualities of meat, and is not for this reason in anything like equal demand among the working, or indeed any class in these colonies.

Although a great many doubtful objections have been urged from time to time against the consumption of meat, there can be no doubt that too much of such solid stimulating food is unwholesome; and it is certain that too much meat is consumed here in Australia. The approach, then, of the period indicated by the GOVERNMENT STATISTICIAN, when meat in its most stimulating form, as beef, is to become scarcer and higher priced, cannot be viewed as an unmixed evil. Mutton, according to Mr. COGHLAN, will always be plentiful, and consequently cheap; but mutton, according to some of the authorities, does not possess the animalising tendencies of beef. With the scarcity and dearness of the latter we may expect to see a decline in the meat-eating habits of the people of these colonies, and with this decline will come a greater demand for the produce of the orchard, the farm, and the sea. Lighter food, but yet force-producing, will take the place of the ubiquitous steak and chop; and although we may not quite become like the sunny, wine-drinking, fruit-eating sons of Southern Europe—a destiny which we would appear in many respects to be fitted for by nature—we may, perhaps, approximate more closely to them than to the slow, sturdy sons of the colder North.

The RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS may be congratulated upon the excellence of the tone that distinguished Mr. EDDY'S replies to the requests presented by Mr. SCHEY on behalf of the Employees' Association. It will be remembered that under the old régime there were some difficulties at the outset in connection with the establishment of the association and its recognition by the authorities; and although the MINISTER for WORKS consented to recognise the association, the late COMMISSIONER was unwilling to sanction its intervention in individual cases of grievance. It appears to have been the desire of the association to take advantage of the change of management to increase its influence in this direction. Mr. SCHEY'S request was that the association might be allowed to bring before the COMMISSIONERS any individual case which, after exhaustive inquiry, they considered to be a grievance. Mr. EDDY replied, in effect, that the COMMISSIONERS would give to every man the right to appeal to them; but whilst they wished to be in entire sympathy with the men at all times, there should be no intermediate authority between the men and themselves, and they would not permit outside pressure to be brought to bear upon their action. It is well that there should be a clear understanding upon this point from the beginning. The new system has been introduced chiefly for the purpose of removing the management from the range of political influence, and it would be an absurdity after taking that step to allow the people employed in the department to participate in any degree in the control. The proposal submitted on behalf of the association would have involved an encroachment upon the province of the management, and it is satisfactory to see that it was at once rejected in firm but courteous terms. Another request made by Mr. SCHEY was of a different character. The efforts of the association to establish the machinery for imparting special instruction to the employees in the department are to be commended, and the application for assistance was worthy of favourable consideration. The COMMISSIONERS have not yet had time to fully consider the question, but their ideas seem to be in favour of establishing an institution on a more comprehensive plan, the management to be chiefly in the hands of a committee of employees, but to be independent of the association. A part of the scheme is an arrangement to enable young men of conspicuous ability in the service to visit the large establishments in the mother-country for the purpose of gaining experience that could not be acquired here. This seems to be an excellent idea, and the whole project would probably be carried out with greater vigour and practical effect than could be hoped for under the original plan of operations. If the COMMISSIONERS show a real interest in the welfare of the men under their control, and at the same time a determination to maintain their own authority unimpaired, they will serve the interests both of the department and the public.

We have much pleasure in directing attention to a letter elsewhere, the writer of which reports that a terrible bush fire which was raging towards the close of last month on the Brenda station was extinguished chiefly through the voluntary and gratuitous services of the Union shearers. The fire was fanned by frequent strong winds, and the conflict with it was one of difficulty and danger. It was kept up almost incessantly for four days and nights with energy and determination, and a disregard of fatigue, privation, and risk. Our correspondent points out the contrast between this pleasing spectacle and that presented a short time ago by members of the same Union at Brookong. It is but right that the censure justly applied to the action of the men who in the one case established conditions closely resembling those of civil war, in utter recklessness of the rights and liberties of their fellows, should be followed by a recognition of this display of the better side of human nature in an unselfish, or rather self-sacrificing, aspect. Apparently, the proceedings of the Union shearers at Brenda were the practical expression of a feeling of hearty goodwill. Those at Brookong were distinguished by an entire absence of it. How much better would it be for the world if this feeling of goodwill, this regard for the interests of others, were always predominant. The action of the men at Brenda gives more hopeful views of the race than some of the transactions which have lately been reported with alarming frequency in the papers. It is the want of consideration, perhaps the want of any thought of the rights and interests of other people, that leads men to assemble in crowds, and to tyrannise over the weak and the few by the display or the exercise of physical force. It is necessary that when there is an absence of this reasonable consideration and the natural results follow, the administrators of the law should intervene with superior force for the defence of common liberty. There would be little need for the interposition of the law if men would always, when disputes are threatened, try to put themselves in the place of their opponents, and survey the situation from their point of view. The fact that Union men were working at Brenda shows that there was no dispute there; but that does not alter the argument. Men who are capable of disinterested action must be strangely misled by some overmastering passion when, because they have a quarrel with one man, they assume the right to dictate to or do violence to others.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

OUR cable news this morning announces that General Harrison, the Republican candidate, has been elected President of the United States by a majority of 65 votes over President Cleveland. Previous telegrams gave 218 as the number of votes recorded in favour of General Harrison, while President Cleveland was stated to have polled 183. The votes have evidently been recounted, for the numbers are now given as 233 for General Harrison and 168 for President Cleveland, being a difference of 65 in favour of the new President. The Republicans carried the election in the States of California and Indiana.

THE chapters which constitute the third instalment of Sir Morell Mackenzie's work, "The Fatal Illness of Frederick the Noble," which we publish this morning, deal with the further developments of the case at San Remo, leading up to the operation of tracheotomy. A discussion which preceded the operation, as to the administration of chloroform, and the operation itself, conducted by Dr. Bramann, are fully described by the English physician in a graphic manner. To add to the interest of the publication we are enabled to present an illustration of the canula inserted by Dr. Bramann after the operation. Two other illustrations, one an ordinary full-sized canula, and the other a diagram showing Dr. Bramann's half-size canula as it was originally placed and given. From the date of the operation, in order to make the general situation more intelligible, the narrative is continued in the form of a daily record. Among the subjects dealt with are—the treatment of the case by the German doctors, the news of the death of the Emperor William, the journey to Charlottenburg, the author under "control," and the "massage" treatment.

OUR London correspondent in his letter, which will be found on another page, refers to the activity of the Liberal Unionists during the recess, noting the speeches delivered by Lord Hartington and Mr. Balfour in Scotland, the latter of whom is said to have, by lucid facts, completely disposed of the popular beliefs in connection with Mr. O'Brien and the death of Mr. Mandeville in Tullamore gaol. The Parnell Commission, the Whitechapel murders, and the action of the Bank of New Zealand in making a thorough investigation of its position, are commented upon in the letter.

THE railway traffic yesterday was heavier than it has been for a long time past. Between 3000 and 4000 passengers were conveyed to the Rosehill races. There were seven special trains to Rosehill, six of them being passenger trains, and the other a horse-box train. About 2000 passengers went to Rockdale, and from 1800 to 2000 were conveyed to Ryde. The passengers to Wollongong and Kiama numbered nearly 800. Altogether there has been about 2000 more passengers than on previous occasions. The three trains from the south were well loaded, but one of the special excursion trains was about two hours late, owing to a delay on the Victorian side. With this exception the railway arrangements were admirably conducted, no mishaps having occurred. The traffic was supervised by Inspector Richardson and Stationmasters Johnstone and Scarlett.

As to-day has been proclaimed a public holiday the Government offices and banks will remain closed. Special arrangements made at the General Post Office are to the effect that the various departments will be open from half-past 8 until 10 a.m. only, and the 8 a.m. delivery will be the only one made by letter-carriers. Country mails usually despatched in the afternoon and evening, and the coastal, intercolonial, and foreign mails, will close at 9 this morning. Iron pillar-boxes and the receivers at suburban Post-offices will be cleared at the first usual hour, and not subsequently during the day.

UNDER climatic auspices all that could be desired, the 47th anniversary of the Prince of Wales's Birthday was heartily celebrated in Sydney and throughout the colony of New South Wales yesterday. During the greater part of the day the city itself, with the exception of a very fair display of flags and bunting, particularly in the vicinity of the wharfs, wore quite a Sunday aspect, the exceedingly genial weather having tempted the vast majority of the population to the special holiday attractions provided at the well-known pleasure resorts, and to the various picnicking grounds abutting on the different bays of the harbour. The military manœuvres between Botany and Moore Park were watched by numerous spectators, the flower show in the Inner Domain was largely attended, Rosehill races received liberal public patronage, Balmain regatta was exceedingly popular, and the attractions of Manly, Bondi, Coogee, and Botany secured ample recognition. In the evening the city streets and the various places of amusements were thronged with holiday-makers.

THE following is the order of Musical Service at St. Andrew's Cathedral, on Sunday next: Morning, 11 a.m., Te Deum, Thorne in C; anthem, "God so loved the world" (Stainer). Afternoon: At 3.15 p.m., Magnificat (Bridge) in D; anthem, "Send out Thy Light" (Gounod).

REFERRING to our notice of the November number of the Centennial Magazine, we have been requested to state that the rondel to which reference was made was an original contribution to the magazine by Mr. Everard Digby, of Sydney.

THE Natural History Association advertise a collecting excursion this afternoon, under Mr. John Brazier, F.L.S. A special steamer has been engaged.

FATAL BOAT ACCIDENT IN PORT PHILLIP BAY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

A boating accident, caused by a sudden change of wind, occurred to-day. Dr. E. Johnson Williams and Mrs. Williams were giving a party at Beaumarris, near Mentone. While the wind was low some of the party went sailing, and returned. Then Messrs. Singleton, L. Melton, Williams, and House went out. Dr. Williams warned them to be careful, as a change in the weather was coming. About 10 minutes after the wind shifted suddenly, and capsized the boat. The occupants got on the keel, but a heavy sea rose and washed them off. Mr. Melton could not regain the boat, and before he could be reached he called out "God help me," and sank. The others were rescued in a much exhausted condition. Mr. Melton's body was washed up an hour and a half afterwards. Means were used to resuscitate him, but without avail. Mr. Melton was an architect, aged about 24.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

Lord Carrington to-day visited the Masonic Club. Sir Wm. Clarke, president, occupied the chair. A few toasts were honoured. Lord Carrington's health was cordially drunk, and his Excellency made a pleasant response.

At the quarterly meeting of the City Council to-day Alderman Benjamin was sworn in as Mayor for the municipal year 1888-9.

The Roman Catholic Bishop of Ballarat (Dr. Moore), with a number of priests and nuns, arrived this morning by the Ormuz.

James Martin Bance, a draughtsman in the Lands Department, committed suicide this morning at his lodgings, at Kew, by cutting his throat, and then stabbing himself. He arrived from Cape Town about 12 months ago. Papers referring to the transfer of land, and four others bearing the names of horses in the present race meetings, were found amongst his luggage.

The barque Iron Duke remained fast on the bank near Queenscliffe till about 4.30 this afternoon, when the wind shifted round with heavy squalls and perceptible rise in the tide, and the vessel backed into deep water. She is now anchored in the channel.

This morning a Manilla tobacco-house or baha was erected at the south-western front of the Exhibition Building, and was formally opened with some ceremony. At the Exhibition this morning a concert was given by the Jungfrau Kapelle. In the afternoon and evening there were orchestral concerts.

The cereal crops in the Sandhurst district are likely to be a comparative failure owing to the want of rain. The vignerons and orchardists are threatened with similar serious results.

His Excellency the Governor gave a party at Government House to-night, about 1500 guests being present, including Lord Carrington, Sir W. C. F. Robinson, and Lord Hastings.

A thunderstorm passed over the city this evening, but the weather is now fine.

Elizabeth Illidge, 27 years of age, while at a picnic at Heidelberg to-day was boiling water for tea, when her dress caught fire. She rushed about frantically, and before the flames could be extinguished she was fearfully burnt. She was taken to the hospital. There is little hope of her recovery.

The special train which was to leave for Sydney at 10.5 on Saturday evening has been altered to 10.55. Lord Carrington will travel by it.

The attendance at the Exhibition to-day numbered 28,221.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, FRIDAY.

A conference of the Chambers of Commerce of Townsville and Charters Towers, and the representatives of the various local governing bodies interested, convened by the Townsville Chamber of Commerce, was held at Townsville to-day to consider the question of forming a Townsville Harbour Trust. A scheme was formulated, but no definite arrangement was arrived at.

Mr. G. Miln, the American tragedian, has been playing in "Richard III." to large audiences at the Opera House all the week. Harry Rickards is still playing at the Gaiety Theatre.

GRENFELL, FRIDAY.

The weather is warm and cloudy. The rainfall for the past year up to date is under five inches.

GUNNING, FRIDAY.

The date of the forthcoming agricultural and pastoral show is fixed for Thursday and Friday, the 4th and 5th April.

A united prayer meeting for rain was held in the Wesleyan Church last Monday evening.

NOWRA, FRIDAY.

Mr. Thomas Morton Richards, solicitor, for over 30 years a resident of Shoalhaven, died this afternoon after a brief illness.

QUIRINDI, FRIDAY.

Mr. Matthew Burnett, the evangelist and social reformer, held very successful meetings here on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Numerous audiences were present on each occasion. On the latter evening 80 pledges were taken and 100 ribbons issued as the result of the mission.

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

Two or three accidents are reported to-day. In one case a guard named Saunders fell out of a railway train, near Maitland, and had a narrow escape from being killed. He received severe injuries. There were several capsizes on the road from Lake Macquarie to Newcastle. A three-horse 'bus, returning to town, collided with a cab and a buggy this evening. All three vehicles were upset. One passenger had his leg broken in two places. The rest escaped with a few wounds, and a severe shaking. The cab was smashed to pieces, and the buggy was much damaged.

WOLLONGONG POULTRY SHOW.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

WOLLONGONG, FRIDAY.

The first annual poultry show under the auspices of the Wollongong Agricultural Society was opened yesterday, in the Town Hall. So far as the exhibits and the quality of the exhibits are concerned it has proved a decided success. A large number of exhibits have been forwarded from the metropolitan district, and it would be difficult to find such a collection of poultry and other like exhibits anywhere. The chief exhibitors from the metropolitan districts are—S. Francis, Rockdale; A. P. F. Wilkie, Riverstone; R. H. Judd, St. Peters; W. H. M'Keown, Gordon; Goodwin, Ashfield; Mand, Newtown; Pratt, Marrickville. Among the local exhibitors are—Porter Bros., Rudd, and Cousins, Kiama; Mansion, Albion Park; T. H. Robertson, Wollongong; and many others. In addition to the above being the chief exhibitors, they were as a matter of course the principal prize-takers, Mr. S. Francis being first among the list. A good many of the local exhibitors seem to think that it is hardly fair that amateurs in poultry-breeding should be placed on the same footing as professional breeders. This is a matter which no doubt will occupy the attention of the committee at the proper time, and is one worthy of consideration. There was an excellent and varied collection of pot and other plants, and cut flowers, including some splendid roses. In this section the principal exhibitors and prize-takers were Mesdames A. Campbell, M. A. Moriarty, D. M. Campbell, Hosking, Parsons, Miss Nicoll, besides other local ladies; Messrs. Rudd and Cousins, Kiama, Rev. P. H. Waugh, W. Kirton, Bulli, and other exhibitors. The arrangements carried out under the superintendence of the hon. secretary and the committee were the subject of favourable comment by the Sydney exhibitors and visitors. Altogether the first poultry show must be considered very successful, and reflecting great credit on the Association.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

A disastrous fire occurred this afternoon at the corner of Ferguson and James streets, Williamstown, resulting in the destruction of four shops. The loss was not far short of £5000. It broke out in a shop of the Melbourne Furnishing Company. Mr. Muckner, the manager, seeing some boys discharging crackers near, warned them off. Shortly afterwards he found one of the back rooms of the building in flames, not far from where the crackers were discharged. A strong wind was blowing at the time, and there was a poor pressure of water. The strong wind carried the burning embers, setting fire to a building on the opposite side of the street, and also to the Church of England Sunday schoolroom, nearly a quarter of a mile away.

LIVERPOOL AUTUMN MEETING.

LIVERPOOL AUTUMN CUP.

[BY CABLE.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Nov. 8.

At the Liverpool Autumn meeting to-day, the principal event, the Autumn Cup, resulted as under :—

THE LIVERPOOL AUTUMN CUP, of 1000 sovs. (200 in plate and the rest in specie), by subscription of 25 sovs. each; second horse to receive 50 sovs. from the plate; a handicap for three year olds and upwards. Cup course, one mile and three furlongs. 51 subscribers.

Mr. W. Winn's b f Lady Rosebery, by Rosebery—The Empress Maud, 3 years 1
Mr. A. Cooper's br c Bismarck, by Pride of Russia—Fleada, 3 years 2
Mr. R. Howett's ch f Aureoline, by Bend Or—Perfume, 3 years 3

[The Liverpool Cup, the last big handicap of the English racing season, was instituted in 1856, when a field of 23 went to the post, and the three-year-old filly Maid of Derwent came home victorious. Since then many equine celebrities have taken part and distinguished themselves in this event, and among them may be mentioned the names of Meg Merrilies, Mandrake, Vanderdecken, Arbitrator, and Thebais. The nominations for the event just decided numbered 51 subscribers, and included, in addition to the placed horses, such well-known performers as Reve d'Or (Oaks, 1887), Orbit (Eclipse Stakes, 1888), Stourhead (Goodwood Stakes, 1888), Ossory (Criterion Stakes, 1885), Eiridispord (Grand Prize, Epsom, 1887), Theodolite (Irish Derby; 1888), Ashplant, Kinksy, &c. Last year the Autumn Cup was secured by the Duke of Westminster's St. Mirin, by Hermit—Lady Paramount, who defeated a field of eight, winning by a short head from Gay Hermit, with Kilcreene four lengths off third. This year's winner, Lady Rosebery, is by Rosebery from the Empress Maud, by Beauclere from Stella, by High Treason from Giltnook, by Lambton, &c., and was bred by Mr. H. A. Harrison. She started nine times as a two-year-old, and earned a pair of winning brackets, besides filling places on several occasions. Her first essay under silk was in the Claro Plate, 5 furlongs, at the Ripon St. Wilfred August meeting last year, when she ran Mr. Vyner's Fallow Chat to a neck. Her first victory was achieved three days afterwards in the Wright Stakes, 5 furlongs, at the Richmond August meeting, when she defeated a field of half a dozen. At the Stockton August meeting she ran unplaced in the Lambton Stakes, 6 furlongs, won by Lord Londonderry's Scarlet Runner. At the Western (Ayr) meeting she scored her second win in the Jubilee Nursery Handicap, 6 furlongs; and filled third place in the Juvenile Handicap, 5 furlongs, won by Lunan. Ran unplaced in the Liverpool Nursery Plate, 7 furlongs, won by Belle Mahone at the Liverpool Autumn meeting; unplaced in the Sefton Nursery Stakes, 5½ furlongs, won by Flower o' the May; unplaced in the Lancaster Nursery Handicap, 7 furlongs, at the Manchester November meeting; and wound up her two-year-old career by filling third place in the Eglinton Nursery Handicap, 6 furlongs, at the same gathering. Bismarck, who finished second in the Cup, is by Pride of Prussia from Fleada, by Hermit from Cradle, by Saunterer from Marjery Daw, by Bracket, and was bred by Sir C. Coote. He went to the post on eight occasions as a two-year-old, and his only win was in the Maiden Plate, five furlongs, at the Carragh June meeting, when he was purchased by his present owner for 400 guineas. Aureoline, who ran third, is by Bend Or from Perfume, by Buccaneer from Frangipani, by Longbow, &c. She was bred by Mr. G. D. Pennant, and was not raced as a two-year-old.]

NEW GUINEA.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

PORT MORESBY, Oct. 25.

Vague reports, like the rumbling of distant thunder, come to us from Sud Est and the east end of New Guinea, but the storm has not broken here. The rush for gold has not reached us yet, and we are quiet and calm as ever. I do not believe there is any warrant for the rush to Sud Est. Gold is being obtained, but it is not likely to last, nor yet to satisfy 500 or 600 men. Miners who have sufficient means are sure to visit the mainland and prospect likely places. Reports of gold in various places have been floating about ever since Captain Moresby came here in H.M.S. Basilisk in 1872, but there has been no find beyond the colour. That has been often obtained. There is no reason to believe that the natives anywhere in New Guinea are acquainted with the precious metal. Reports of the wearing of golden ornaments by the natives may be dismissed as "travellers' yarns."

A party of six or eight diggers arrived here yesterday bound to the St. Joseph River, near Yule Island; and other parties are said to be on their way. In my last letter I gave a sketch of Messrs. English, Belford, and Mulholland's expedition to that river. Those who know best, do not believe in any rich prospects there. It is quite certain that the men who have been there are not anxious to return.

The Administrator, Dr. M'Gregor, is still away at Sud Est and the east end of New Guinea. He sailed in his own yacht, the Hygeia, and H.M.S. Swinger is also in attendance on him. The Government cutter Maino stationed here has received orders to proceed east immediately. The only representatives of the Government at present in Port Moresby are the Hon. A. Musgrave, secretary to the Government, and Mr. F. E. P. Lawes, who fills a variety of offices, and has been recently gazetted Collector of Customs. All the appointments hitherto made have been notified as "provisionally and temporarily."

The Hon. F. P. Winter, late Attorney-General of Fiji, arrived yesterday per Lucy and Adelaide. Mr. Winter has been appointed Judicial Officer, and is a most valuable addition to the official staff of this new possession. New Guinea has existed hitherto without a lawyer, but under the new order of things many questions are sure to arise which will require all the legal skill and ability which Mr. Winter's reputation gives him.

I reported last month that the Customs Act of Queensland had been adopted here by an Ordinance of the Legislative Council. It was hurriedly passed under the pressure of urgent necessity, and was soon found to be, in some of its provisions, unworkable. Trade would have been crushed instead of encouraged. Some amendments have now been made which will make it more just and practicable. In a Gazette just published the duty on biscuits, salt and tinned meats has been removed, that on tobacco reduced to 1s. per lb., while 10 per cent. ad valorem has been imposed on knives, tomahawks, &c., which before were free.

The last month has been a very busy one in the mission, and large additions have been made to the working staff. On the 20th ultimo the Revs. F. W. Walker and H. M. Dauncey arrived. They are alumni of Cheshunt College, in England, where they distinguished themselves, and won golden opinions from the professors and their fellow-students. They will be located temporarily at Port Moresby until they have become accustomed to the climate, and have acquired some knowledge of the language spoken in this district. The mission committee has decided to adopt this language (the Motuan) as the one literary language of the coast. On the 2nd instant the John Williams arrived from the South Sea Islands with six Barotongan teachers and their wives, appointed to mission work in New Guinea. The John Williams had a quick run of 15 days from Samoa. She sailed from here on the 15th for Hood Bay, and left there on the 20th for Sydney. The day after the John Williams left this port Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers arrived from Cooktown in the Harrier. The many friends of Mr. Chalmers in Australia will be glad to know that the years of his widowhood are ended, and that his active life in New Guinea will be shared by a worthy helpmeet. He was married in Cooktown on the 6th instant by Canon Taylor to Mrs. Harrison, who arrived from England a few hours before in the Jumna. There was a large turnout of teachers and natives, among whom Tamate is so well known, to welcome them on their landing here.

No news has been received here from the Roman Catholic mission at Yule Island.

A horrible murder was committed a short time ago near Cape Possession. Three natives of Oibapu had been to Maiva trading, and on their return were waylaid, and two of them killed, by natives of Kivori. The third man managed to escape.

The long drought still continues. From every part comes the cry for rain. It is difficult to know what the natives are living on, and still more difficult to imagine what they are going to live on six months hence. The hills about Port Moresby look as if nothing could ever grow on them again.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt here on the 23rd ultimo, about 8.45 a.m.

THE JUBILEE OF THE INTRODUCTION OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

The issue of the new postage stamps from time to time, with the legend "One Hundred Years," common to all, reminds us that we are still celebrating the centenary of our national existence. It may perhaps be of interest to some to know that 50 years ago the world made a great stride in advance, by the introduction of the system of prepaying letters by means of postage stamps. It was in February, 1837, that Sir Rowland Hill published his famous pamphlet on "Post Office Reform." At that time the committee of post-office inquiry, consisting of Lords Bessborough, Taunton, and Seymour, was occupied in examining into the condition of the twopenny post, and Sir Rowland Hill, with others, was called before the commissioners to give evidence as to the practicability of establishing a uniform rate of one penny for letters under one ounce weight within the metropolitan district covered by the twopenny post, as also for employing covers or stamps for the use of those who chose to avail themselves of the reduced rate. This system did not come into use in England until the 10th of January, 1840. When that date arrived, the public seemed nothing loth to take advantage of the new system, and the pressure on the post officials was very great; not only at the chief offices, but at the metropolitan receiving houses. The postmaster at one of these latter declared that were the system to last, he would not retain his office for £200 a year; the letter-writers scared away all his customers, and he positively sold nothing. On several days he had taken 2000 paid letters, whereas his former average had been 70. But the scene at the chief office in St. Martin's le Grand is thus described in the Westminster Review for February, 1840:—"A night or two after the change to a penny, we ourselves witnessed the scene at St. Martin's le Grand. The great hall was nearly filled with spectators, marshalled in a line by the police to watch the crowds pressing, scuffling and fighting to get first to the window. The superintending president of the Inland Office, with praiseworthy zeal, was in all quarters, directing the energy of his officers where the pressure was greatest. Formerly, one window sufficed to receive letters. On this evening, six windows, with two receivers at each, were bombarded by applicants. As the last quarter of an hour approached, and the crowd still thickened, a seventh window was opened, and that none might be turned away, Mr Bokenham made some other opening, and took in money and letters himself. To the credit of the Post Office, not a single person lost the time; and we learn that on this evening upwards of 3000 letters had been posted at St. Martin's le Grand between 5 and 6. A witness present on the first night of the penny post described to us a similar scene. When the windows closed the mob, delighted at the energy displayed by the officers, gave one cheer for the Post Office and another for Rowland Hill." This state of matters existed from the 10th of January for many weary weeks. It was not until the end of April that the Lords of the Treasury found themselves in a position to fix a day on which stamps could be issued to the public. The date fixed was the 6th of May, 1840, and on that day were issued the Mulready one penny and twopenny envelopes and covers, and the black one penny adhesive stamp.

Now, what was doing in New South Wales at this time? Sir George Gipps arrived in Sydney as Governor on the 23rd February, 1838. He therefore was doubtless acquainted with the postal agitation in England, then at its height, as also with the report of the commissioners on the twopenny post; and what is more, he found an enterprising Postmaster-General, Mr. James Raymond, in office, whose heart and soul were in his work, and who was only desirous of extending postal accommodation. There was also no "circumlocution office" to hamper him, and it is therefore not surprising to find him sanctioning, some few months after, the adoption of the identical recommendations made to the English Government by the committee in July, 1837, but which were not carried out because a larger and more comprehensive scheme was under consideration. The evidence given by Mr. Raymond before the committee of the Legislative Council in 1849 shows that the charge for letters delivered in Sydney was 1d. when stamps were used, 2d. without the prepaid stamps, but that there had always been a difficulty in inducing the public to make use of the stamps, though the system had been gradually working its way. It must be, however, taken into account that the twopenny post itself was not much used. Sydney was then only a moderate-sized town. The population was probably under 30,000 when the new system was commenced, and not more than 40,000 when Mr. Raymond gave his evidence in 1849, and the majority of the letters were delivered by hand; for there was only one post-office, and it was most frequently as easy to deliver them at the residence of the addressees as at the post-office.

But the fact remains, viz., that as early as November 1, 1838, the prepayment of postage by the sender, by means of stamped covers, was in existence, although it was not adopted in England till February, 1840, and under similar conditions.

The following is the Gazette notice that appeared:—

"General Post Office, Sydney,
"1st November, 1838.

"Whereas it has been considered that by transmitting letters, invitations, notices, bills, &c., under stamped or post-office covers, the delivery thereof would be much expedited, by avoiding the delay consequent on the letter-carriers awaiting payment. His Excellency the Governor, with this view, and in order to effect a reduction of postage on such communications intended for delivery within the limits of the town of Sydney, has been pleased to sanction their transmission under envelopes, which may in future be obtained at the General Post Office on payment of one shilling and threepence per dozen, including all charges for paper and delivery. This arrangement is not intended to suspend or interfere with the present twopenny post delivery, which will proceed in all respects as heretofore.

"JAMES RAYMOND,
"Postmaster-General."

The charge of 1s. 3d. per dozen continued in force until 1841, when it was reduced to 1s. What was the nature of the post-office cover? It was simply half a sheet of foolscap, on which was embossed the following design:—The royal arms, crest, and supporters, with motto, "Dieu et mon droit," under which is "Sydney" in capitals, all in a circular ring inscribed in capitals at the top, "General Post Office" below "New South Wales." The outer circle measures 29 millemetres in diameter, and the stamp was impressed about the centre of the upper part of the half-sheet when folded as an envelope. An interesting fact occurs in connection with the coat of arms mentioned above. When William IV. was king, the Hanoverian coat of arms, surmounted by the Hanoverian Crown, occupied the centre of the royal coat of arms. Now as Queen Victoria did not ascend the throne until January 20, 1838, and as the news of King William's death did not reach the colony until November, 1838, it is evident that the Royal coat of arms used for the die should contain the Hanoverian arms and crown in the centre, and this is actually the case. The crown of Hanover was limited in its descent to the male line, and, consequently, the omission of the arms of that country from the Royal arms of England took place on Queen Victoria's accession. These envelopes or covers continued in use up to and, indeed, after the introduction of adhesive stamps on January 1st, 1850.

Having thus briefly sketched the history of the introduction of postage stamps, it may be of interest to look at the progress made by the colony in the last 50 years, as shown by the records of the Post Office Department. In 1838, the revenue of the Post Office was £8390 16s. 11d., the expenditure £10,357 1s. 6d. In 1887, the revenue was £342,093 14s. 4d., and the expenditure £426,586 18s. 5d. In 1838 the Sydney Postal Establishment consisted of one Postmaster-General, one accountant, six clerks, six letter-carriers, and one officekeeper. The number of post-offices established to the end of 1838 was 40. In 1887, the number of persons employed in connection with the Postal Department was 2963, and the number of post-offices was 1167. The number of miles travelled by the mails in 1838 was 253,830; in 1887 it had increased to 7,015,600. The number of chargeable letters and newspapers despatched and received from Great Britain and foreign ports was, in 1838, 222,479. 168,551 inland letters, 297,245 inland newspapers, and 84,775 franked letters also passed through the post, giving a total number received and despatched of 773,050. The report of the Postmaster-General for 1887 unfortunately does not give the number of letters, &c., received, but only those posted throughout the colony. These amount to 79,617,100. If the number of those received be added to this, the number, of course, will be much larger. The number of town letters delivered in Sydney in 1838 was 14,967; in 1887 the number of letters, &c., delivered by the letter carriers attached to the head office amounted to 10,526,012. These few figures will suffice to show the enormous strides that have been made in the last 50 years, as illustrated by the work of the Post Office Department. Who will be bold enough to predict the corresponding figures in 1938?

FIRE BRIGADES' DEMONSTRATION AT NEWCASTLE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

The weather to-day was splendid for the fire brigades' demonstration. The principal feature of the Prince of Wales holiday sports at Newcastle commenced last night with a procession never yet equalled in the northern district. Two troopers headed the procession, followed by a large number of members of the Newcastle Bicycle Club riding upon their machines. The City Band was also present. The fire brigades from the following places were represented:—Burwood V. F. B., Tighe's Hill, Honeysuckle Point, Granville, Government Printing Office (Sydney), Theatre Royal (Sydney), Goulburn, Alexandria, Newcastle Salvage Corps, Darlington, Newcastle Hose and Reel, Hamilton, St. Leonards, Newcastle City, Standard Brewery, Balmain, Lambton, and Stockton. The processionists numbered altogether about 350. Coloured prismatic lights cast a glowing illumination from the tower of the Honeysuckle fire station. Flags flying from the tower were tinged with varied hues. The procession proved a very great success, and every credit is due to each individual who took part. The attraction last night was greater than in any previous procession in Newcastle. The thoroughfares traversed were Blane, Hunter, Bolton, King, Watt, Scott, Bolton, and Hunter streets, and the procession dispersed in Darby-street. The streets were crowded with people, and the balconies of the houses were thronged with spectators. It is estimated that at least there were 15,000 persons in the streets. A large number of police, including a great many of the Sydney force, marched with the procession under the command of Inspector Brennan, but they had an easy task, as the crowd was most orderly and decorous.

The sports in connection with the fire brigades' demonstration commenced to-day on the Newcastle Cricket Ground, and were an immense success. The weather was fine, and the attendance was very large, particularly during the afternoon. It is estimated that 4000 people were present. The events attracted nearly 600 firemen from various parts of the colony, the visiting brigades being Sydney Government Printing Office, Sydney Theatre Royal, Goulburn, Darlington, Newtown, Woollahra, Glebe, St. Leonards, Standard Brewery, and Balmain. The local brigades who entered for the competition were Newcastle City, Newcastle Hose and Reel, Hamilton, Tighe's Hill, Stockton, Lambton, and Honeysuckle. The contests, besides the fire brigade competitions, included an all-comers' handicap, for a prize of £10, for which a large number of entries had been made; other foot races, bicycle races, dancing contests, and other amusements of an interesting character. The fire brigades competitions were most exciting, and good useful work was shown by the winning teams. The following are the results of the principal competitions and the races:—

Hose Practice, for eight men. First prize, "Victory" shield, presented by the Commercial Union Insurance Company, and eight gold medals presented by the Mayor of Newcastle; second prize, trophy and eight silver medals.—Standard Brewery, 1. Time, 44 1-5 seconds. Goulburn, 2. Time, 45 9-10 seconds. The winning team made a very smart run, and lost no time in fixing the hydrant, running out two lengths of hose, and striking two discs. The other teams in the competition were—Newcastle City, 48 3-5 seconds; St. Leonards, 48 9-10 seconds; Balmain, 7 men, 56 1-5 seconds; Darlington, 60 seconds; Newcastle Hose and Reel, 52 1-5 seconds; Glebe, 53½ seconds; and the following teams, which were disqualified:—Honeysuckle, 51 seconds; Hamilton, 60½ seconds; Tighe's Hill, 64½ seconds; Sydney Theatre Royal, 47½ seconds.

Engine Practice, for four men.—Two prizes, trophies and set of medals.—Newcastle City, 30 seconds, won smartly and well; Woollahra, 32 seconds, 2. The other teams competing were Burwood (Sydney), 35 seconds; Honeysuckle, 47½ seconds; Granville, 39 4-5 seconds; Parramatta No. 2, 50 4-5 seconds (disqualified); Government Printing Office, 37 seconds; Theatre Royal, Sydney, 35 seconds (disqualified); Goulburn, 40 seconds; Alexandria, 32 4-5 seconds; Darlington, 54½ seconds (disqualified); Glebe, Sydney, 35 seconds; St. Leonards (disqualified), 31 seconds; Paddington, 31 seconds; Standard Brewery, 3½ seconds; Balmain, 33 seconds; and Lambton, 47 seconds (disqualified), disabled.

Ladder Race, or Leap for Life—Goulburn, 1, 41 1-5 seconds; Newcastle City, 2, 45 1-3 seconds. The other teams entered for this event were Honeysuckle, Government Printing Office, Theatre Royal, Woollahra, Newcastle, Hose and Reel, St. Leonards, and Standard Brewery.

One-mile Bicycle Race.—First heat: W. Stinson, 1; J. Mather, 2; Chisholm, 3. Second heat: A. W. Roberts, 1; A. C. Byng, 2; H. H. Fairhall, 3. The final will be run to-morrow.

Two-mile Bicycle Race.—First heat: A. T. Byng, 1; R. Turnbull, 2; H. H. Fairhall, 3. Second heat: W. Stinson, 1; A. W. Roberts, 2; J. Matters, 3. The final will be run to-morrow.

Three-mile Bicycle Race.—First heat: W. Vinson, 1; J. Matters, 2; M. T. Byng, 3. Second heat: Chisholm, 1; Saunders, 2; E. Robertson, 3. The final will be run to-morrow.

LOCAL OPTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Downing charges me with mistaking the ground of controversy of local option. It is not so. Mr. Downing has himself failed to grasp the significance of my objections. This is not surprising, for like all who are seized with these national periodical spasms of morality, he is blinded by the glitter of the object he covets, and is as one who attempts to discern distant objects after gazing at the sun. And I use this simile advisedly, for the catalogue of benefits which Mr. Downing gives as the aim of local option might well be compared to that life-giving source. Your correspondent has only traversed the outskirts of my argument; he emphasises the fact that local option is a direct appeal to the people themselves, and therefore my warning as to the danger of looking to the State for assistance is misplaced; but it must be apparent to everyone that the position is not altered. My contention was that individual responsibility is lessened. It matters nothing therefore whether this is the result of reliance upon one's representation or their nominees, or upon the collective action of one's neighbours. The use of the power is the same; its method of employment is alone different. Your correspondent also wishes to know what causes produce effects equally grave with the evils of the drink traffic. Here I do not wish to be misunderstood: I do not underrate or disregard these evils, but desire as much as anyone to see them removed, and a comparison of evils is not pertinent to the inquiry. But I may remind Mr. Downing that there are wantonnesses and excesses and malpractices of life and business, which it is unnecessary to particularise, equally deadly towards life and honesty, but which no one proposes to remedy by legislation. And the reason is plain; the roots are in man's nature, and cannot be torn out in this way. This tends to show that local option is not a principle; it tries, as it were to lop from a tree the branches that are spreading too broadly; it does not bethink itself of the roots in the ground. But fresh twigs and leaves will sprout in a little time. To be successful, the whole tree must wither and decay. Going a little further, I might ask our local option friends whether they are not pruning the tree, and thus adding to its strength instead of stunting its growth? Will not local option succeed, and have not all like systems of the past succeeded, in instilling into the people the notion that they must seek the co-operation of others to remove evil? Is not the tendency of this to repress the instinctive rebellion that exists by nature in a greater or less degree in all of us against the bad, and to weaken the independent impulse to destroy it? Are we not apt now to immediately regard the possibility of legislative success in dealing with abuses instead of considering what relief voluntary effort may bring? These considerations can lead us but to one conclusion, in our mistaken zeal we are actually thrusting away from us the only safeguard we possess, and in this way we may claim that the want of self-control, the evil that has called local option into existence, is increased by the very system that proposes to remedy it; that, in fact, the spirit of local option is largely the cause of the wrong it strives to rectify.

Mr. Downing says nothing with regard to the most important point of the whole discussion, i.e., the right to enforce local option. I can only call attention to the words of my former letter on this head, point out that a State is merely a collection of human beings who associate from gregarious instincts and the force of mutual necessities, but without forfeiting thereby any individual rights, remind your correspondent that as majority is only another word for might, everyone has, according to this theory, a right to force others to what his judgment recommends, and leave the matter to the common sense of your readers.

I am, &c., AMBULATOR.

SHELL BEACH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I noticed in your issue of Tuesday last a letter signed "A Recent Visitor," calling attention to a report that the Roman Catholic authorities of St. Patrick's College were intending to extend their outer fence so as to include Shell Beach, and thus close up this favourite resort. I have camped there on more than one occasion, and can testify to the attractions of the place; but in writing this letter I am moved with indignation, not so much at the prospect of the loss of "a happy camping-ground" as at the apparent heedlessness of our military authorities. This bay has on numerous occasions proved a safe refuge to many a storm-beaten ship; it is fairly well sheltered; and its position is such as would, I am informed, enable a hostile force to land. Of course our military authorities know far more of this than I can point out. Whatever can they be doing to allow such a valuable position to become private property, which, if matters are allowed to go quietly on, it most surely will become?

I am, &c., ALARMIST.

THE NEWCASTLE COLLIERIES.

REFUSAL OF THE MINMI LODGE TO RESUME WORK.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

Several miners' meetings were held last night to receive the reports from the delegates as to the ballot regarding the conference and other matters. At the Co-operative Lodge Mr. Middleby, the delegate, explained that at the delegate board yesterday a telegram had been received from the Minmi Lodge refusing to resume work under the present agreement. The general secretary (Mr. Curley) had wired to Mr. Binney that the agreement had been carried by a small majority, and at the same time forwarded the protest received from Minmi. A reply had been received requesting Mr. Curley to submit the tenor of his telegram to Mr. Gregson. The result of this is not known yet. The delegate explained that the delegate board fully recognised the difficulty, but the district by a majority says "accept the agreement," and they must do so. Every effort would, however, be made to obtain further concessions for special collieries. At Minmi the reduction would be from 4d. to 7d. per ton in the new tunnel. In the old tunnel there would be no reduction. The difference was caused by the fact that in the new tunnel the minimum height of tops was 18in., and wherever the kerosene came in top coal they were paid three farthings per ton per inch. Under the present scale, where the tops and bottoms measured 5ft., they would have to throw this kerosene away for nothing. A motion that the delegates assist the Union coal trimmers to bring about an amicable settlement with the Boss coal trimmers was carried. The meeting then adjourned till Saturday morning.

At the Lambton miners' meeting the same questions cropped up. Similar routine business was transacted, and the meeting adjourned till Saturday morning.

Pumping operations were commenced on Wednesday night at the A. A. Company's mines, and the water has been taken out sufficiently to allow a majority of the men to resume work in a few days.

The delegates sat till late last night with closed doors. The chairman declared officially that the district by ballot had accepted the agreement. It was resolved that the secretary communicate with Mr Binney by telegram, intimating that the agreement had been accepted. It was also resolved that the board recommend each colliery to have cavils drawn before resuming work, and that the cavils be not drawn until the agreement is signed; that the men who took sections in the mines for the conference be paid 11s. per day; and that the delegates receive the usual pay on and after Thursday. The meeting adjourned till Saturday morning.

Arrangements have been made for signing the agreement in Newcastle on Monday. Some trouble is rumoured as being likely to arise at the Greta Colliery, which is not in the Masters' Association, although the miners belong to the Hunter River Miners' Union. The colliery manager, it is stated, has declined to put the colliery to work on the terms of the agreement, they being too high. The managers of the Associated Collieries have arranged to blow the whistles on Monday, but, as local agreements have to be framed for some pits, it is likely that it will be Wednesday or Thursday before all are at work. The Delegate Board have passed a resolution that double shifts at all collieries are to cease to-morrow. This is likely to affect the Stockton colliery, and the Great Northern.

NEW WESLEYAN CHURCH AT CAMDEN.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CAMDEN, FRIDAY.

The corner foundation stones of the new Wesleyan Church, were laid this afternoon by Mrs. Whiteman, of Camden, and Mrs. Schofield, of Sydney, in the presence of a large number of people. The Rev. J. F. Orr, Camden, and the Revs. W. Clarke and Woolnough addressed the people. Over £50 was laid on the stone, the ladies named received silver trowels and mallets. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodist ladies held successful picnics to-day.

THE LIGHTING OF TAMWORTH BY ELECTRICITY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR REPORTER.)

TAMWORTH, FRIDAY.

Tamworth has been aglow with enthusiasm to-day. The enterprise and energy of the residents have placed the town in the front rank of populated centres; indeed, Tamworth claims to have outstripped all competitors in the race for colonial progress, and in evidence of the validity of the claim the streets were to-night lighted by electricity. The people look forward to the time when the picturesque valley in which Tamworth is situated shall have become a scene of unique industry. The town has become a centre of great activity. In reference to the name of the township and the designation of the River Peel, it may be stated that Dr. Stacey, who was connected with the A. A. Company, first pitched upon the present site of Tamworth, and named the locality after his place of residence in England, and called the river which he had traced after Sir Robert Peel, the English statesman. The sentiment which actuated the people of Tamworth is that the requirements of the future are best provided for by a due regard to the necessities of the present, and to this they pledge themselves by their action to-night. Alderman Smith has been the apostle of electricity, and since he took up the movement, nearly two years ago, he ceased not to agitate until he effected his desire, which culminated in the electrical display to-night. Notwithstanding the fact that the Gas Company have been charging their household customers at the reduced rate of 11s. 8d. per thousand, the light supplied was not of a quality commensurate with the price. The residents of Tamworth are not unreasonably exacting, and they have grumbled at the quality of the light supplied by the Gas Company. To speak plainly, the gas light is alleged to have been unsatisfactory, and after 10 o'clock at night it has been periodically irritating in that it did little more than make darkness visible, but now that the element of competition has been infused the scene may change.

As though to make the transition from gas to electricity the more pronounced, the streets which to-night are ablaze, were last night bereft of light, save that here and there was a dim flicker from some hostelry. Passing from the Olympic Hall, where the banquet was held, into the street, was a transit from a scene of brilliancy to a state of gloom. No wonder then that all except those interested in the consumption of gas, are jubilant at the issue of to-day, and that they should commemorate the event in a festal manner. Since Tamworth was created a municipality in 1876, its affairs have been administered under the direction of some able and public spirited men, among whom have been the Hon. P. G. King, M.L.C., who was the first Mayor, and who continued to occupy the civic chair until 1881, Messrs. Hunt, Nathan Cohen, Tribe, and the present Mayor, Mr. Jas. Piper. The town can now boast of 33 miles of fairly well kept streets, 5 miles of which have been planted with trees. The growth of the municipality may be gauged from the fact that year by year the rateable value of property has increased, until it has now reached the respectable total of £33,750, and has a population of 4000. The electorate of Tamworth has also continued to steadily advance in numerical strength, until the roll now shows a total of 3060 persons, who represent holdings to the extent of 810,076 acres. In epitomising the position of Tamworth, it may be stated that the principal public buildings include post and telegraph offices, courthouse, lands and survey offices, gaol, police quarters, and two railway stations—one at Tamworth and the other at West Tamworth. There are numerous hotels, three flour mills, two public halls, a mechanics' institute, and four branch banks. The education of the young is well provided for in the Superior Public school under the headmastership of Mr. R. H. Grieve; and the West Tamworth public school, of which Mr. W. Snipe is the headmaster. There are also two Catholic schools, the convent school, and the nuns' school. There are two Anglican churches, under the charge of Rev. W. J. K. Piddington and the Rev. S. Hawthorne; the Roman Catholic church, under the care of the Rev. P. D. Ryan; two Wesleyan churches, under the pastorates of the Revs. J. G. Middleton and T. A. Hanton, and a Presbyterian church under the care of the Rev. A. Armstrong. From these particulars it will be seen that the people of Tamworth may well be proud of the present developed state of the municipality, and that there is no feint in their claim to be regarded as a community of importance.

In regard to the special feature which now distinguishes Tamworth — the electric lighting of the streets — it may be said that the scheme in its review and preparation dates from March, 1887; and on October 18, 1887, the contract between Messrs. Harrison and Whiffen was entered into. The amount of the contract is £2875, which is to be paid at the expiration of 12 months from the first complete lighting of the town, together with the interest on the amount at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. In addition the contractors are to be paid the sum of £470 as working expenses during the 12 months. They are to have charge of the installation. The motive power is generated by two compound semi-portable engines, each of 12 horse-power nominal, having a working capacity of 42 indicated horse power. The dynamo machines are two of Crompton's patent, No. 15, capable of giving 250 20-candle-power lamps, each machine working at a speed of 740 revolutions per minute. The incandescent lamps are in groups of two, fixed in the lanterns, which have up to the present been used for gas. A comparative statement as to the two lights—gas and electricity—will prove of interest to those boroughs which may contemplate following the example of Tamworth. At an annual charge of about £500, the gas company lighted somewhere near 7 miles of road excluding the first cost, the expense of lighting about 11 miles of roads by electricity will be £470. The difference can at once be appreciated by even those who are not conscious of the change which the new light has effected in Tamworth. The motive power will be generated by a duplicate plant, so arranged that should one fail the second plant can be instantaneously put into use. There is, therefore, little or no probability of any contretemps from a break down. To carry the comparison a little further, the gas company supplied 51 lamps with light. The new system will supply 78 lanterns with light from 220 lights. The full working capacity of the double plant would be equal to 600 lights, which, if availed of, would involve an increased working expenditure of about two-thirds the present annual cost.

The ceremony of switching on the light and completing the circuit took place in the engine-house at 8 o'clock. The little building was crowded to excess by ladies and gentlemen. The ceremony of inauguration was completed amid a scene of much enthusiasm. Mr. Harrison, one of the contractors, briefly addressed the assembly, thanking the people of Tamworth for the kindness they had shown to him and his partner during the time they had been engaged in erecting and completing the plant. This they thought a favourable opportunity on which to mark their appreciation of the kindness bestowed, and he had great pleasure in asking the Mayoress, Mrs. Piper, to accept a souvenir of the occasion a gold bracelet set with a magnificent diamond, and a gold key to unlock the switch. The bracelet bore the following inscription:—"Presented by Messrs. Harrison and Whiffen to Mayoress Piper, 9th November, 1888, on the inauguration of the electric light in Tamworth." Mrs. Piper then unlocked the switch, and cheering followed.

The MAYOR, on behalf of the Mayoress, said it was with very great pleasure he responded on behalf of Mrs. Piper for the kindness that had been shown her, and for the honour conferred upon him in having been requested to take part in these proceedings. Tamworth had the credit of being the first town in Australia to have its streets lighted by electricity, an honour of which all ought to feel proud. (Cheers.)

Mr. Dowel, M.L.A., said it was with great pleasure that he had to congratulate the people of Tamworth upon the successful completion of one of the greatest enterprises ever undertaken by any country town in Australia. Ten years ago Mr. Hook advocated the scheme of lighting the town by electricity, and Mr. Smith had worked for the completion of the scheme. Thirty-five years ago, when he first came to Tamworth, the town consisted of but few houses, and but a small number of inhabitants. Now they had met to celebrate that which marked one of the greatest epochs in the history of that town, for by the adoption of the electric light they had placed Tamworth in the very front rank of towns in Australia. (Cheers.) This they had accomplished in spite of the scant support of a portion of the press, and from a portion of those having vested interests in the town. Still it was an accomplished fact that they then had the town lighted by electricity, and that they had a circuit of 15 miles of wire, with 78 light distributing stations, the total annual cost of which, with the interest upon the capital expended, would not amount to more than £600. This was indeed an occasion upon which the people of the town of Tamworth might congratulate themselves. For his own part he could not help tendering to them his hearty congratulations upon the successful termination of so important an enterprise. He asked them to give three hearty cheers for the success of the electric light and the town of Tamworth.

The request was vigorously responded to, and supplemented by ringing cheers for the contractors, the Mayor and Mayoress, and Mr. Dowel.

The arc lights in the main street were then turned on by the Mayoress. The band played the National Anthem, and the ceremony concluded amid a scene of much enthusiasm.

The sports which had been conducted on the oval ground since noon were brought to a close shortly after 10 o'clock. The principal event was a £100 Sheffield Handicap, which resulted as follows:—Budd. 8 yards, 1; Bouvang, 11 yards, 2; Went, 12 yards, 3; Brady, 13 yards, 4. The final heats of the race were run by electric light, to the efficiency of which Mr. Dowel publicly testified by stating that the light bore very favourable comparison with the light at the Sydney Carrington grounds. It was, in fact, superior to the light at the Sydney ground. The sports were witnessed by about 3000 persons, the largest crowd that has ever assembled in Tamworth. The festivities were much enhanced by the excellent performance of the band of the 4th Regiment. To sum up the day's proceedings, it may be said that the success has eclipsed the anticipations of the most sanguine. The weather could not have been more propitious for the display of the light. The praise is universal as to the brilliancy and power of the lights. The centres of attraction were three arc lamps, each of 3000 power. These lamps are situated respectively in Brisbane-street, Fitzroy-street, and White-street. The radiation of each of these lights was even and far-reaching. Tamworth to-night was animated beyond all previous local records, and jubilation prevails in all quarters.

SHIPPING REPORTS, &c.

The Northern Star, barque, has been fixed by Mr. H. B. Hughes for coal, Newcastle to Noumea. She is now at the coal city.

The tonnage loading on the berth for India, China, and the Cape of Good Hope amounts to 26,256 tons; and for Australia and New Zealand, to 42,671 tons.

After an uneventful of 98 days the ship Skelmorlie arrived here yesterday in command of Captain Halliday as last year. The ship left London on August 1 and the Downs next day. Had very dirty weather down Channel, blowing and raining hard the whole way down. Got the N.E. trades on August 14 in 41° 30' N., and lost them in 14° N. on August 26. Thence to the line the weather was fine with light southerly winds, crossed in 30·20 W., September 9, the southerly carrying her into the S.E. trades. These proved moderate in strength, but well southerly, and they gave out on September 19 in 26·55 S., 29·22 W. Very thick weather, with moderate northerly winds, then to the Cape; passed in 40·16 S., October 4. Had a few days of light easterly winds there and until reaching 40·09 E. long., where moderate W. and N.W. winds were picked up, which carried the ship to St. Paul's and the 80th meridian. A stiff south-west gale was met with there, and the best day's work (275 miles) was logged. A dangerously high running cross sea prevailed, and every now and then filled the ship's decks, but she came through intact. The ship is pretty deep, and laboured during this storm rather heavily in consequence, but careful handling brought her through it in good shape. From St. Paul's down to the Leuwin northerly and N.N.E. winds, with heavy rain, prevailed. The meridian of the Leuwin was crossed in 45·50 (pretty high latitude), and a N.N.E. wind to the south-east point of Tasmania, passed on the 5th instant. Moderate west and S.W. winds were picked up there, and held till the ship entered port. She has arrived in first-class order.

The steamer Bothwell Castle, from Calcutta via ports, passed Gabo Island at 9.40 a.m. yesterday. She is due in port to-day.

The steamer Fernmount Captain D. Anthon, crossed Nambucca bar at noon on the 7th instant. Experienced strong southerly and westerly winds to Port Stephens, thence to arrival light variable winds and heavy swell. Entered Sydney Heads at 1 p.m. on the 9th instant. Cargo: 900 bags maize, 22 flitches cedar, 31 pigs, 1 coup poultry, 1 case eggs, 2 hides.

It was noticed yesterday that none of her Majesty's ships in harbour were dressed out in honour of the heir apparent's birthday.

A large barque passed Crowdy Head at 6 p.m. yesterday. She was heading south.

The yacht Miranda left Jervis Bay at 3.50 p.m. yesterday. She is bound to Melbourne.

The Skelmorlie, which arrived yesterday, was here just 12 months ago. She went hence to Port Augusta for a load of wheat, which she carried to Queenstown in 94 days.

The ship Clackmananshire, of Glasgow, from South Shields to New Caledonia, was spoken on November 4 in 44° S. 148° E., all well, and wished to be reported by the German barque Paposa, which arrived yesterday.

Messrs. Mason Brothers, Limited, write respecting the tonnage in port to load for London:—"Of the vessels announced in issue of 7th, on berth for London, the Sir Walter Raleigh has completed. The following ships are actively loading, and either completing or taking average all round. Alexander Lawrence, Colwyn, Carleton, Gretna, Illawarra, Lord Lyndhurst, Nebo, Thomas Stephens, Trafalgar, Yallaroi. Some of these will complete loading next week. The tonnage available for wool on the berth at present, therefore, may be reckoned as equivalent to not more than 6384 tons. In port to follow them are the Brilliant, Deveron, Cicerco, Torridon. Such an unusually small quantity that in view of the large clip, a rise in rates is imminent."

A smart iron barque, the Paposa, built three years ago at Hamburgh, and now in her fourth voyage, arrived yesterday from Hamburgh, after a fair weather passage of 109 days. She is in command of Captain Kessler, on his first visit to Sydney, and she is owned by Messrs. H. Folsch and Co., of Hamburgh. Captain Kessler reports leaving July 22, and meeting with light head winds down the Channel. Departure was taken from the Lizard on August 5, and light N.E. trades were experienced. The line was crossed on the forty-sixth day out in 21° W. Had very fair S.E. trades, but light baffling easterly winds after losing them. The Cape was passed October 9, and moderate westerlies carried the barque right across the Southern Ocean up to the Tasmanian coast. There a southerly wind was picked up, just as if it had been previously ordered, and it held right up to this port. Her cargo is a general one, but she has as deadweight 375 tons of salt for Newcastle, to which port she will proceed at an early date. Her future movements from Newcastle are at present undecided.

The yachts now en route to Melbourne from Sydney will be experiencing a rather uncomfortable easterly swell on the passage round. Last night the Quiraing, which left Melbourne on Wednesday afternoon, had a very nasty easterly range right along the coast. The weather has not been at all propitious for these small fry; but, with the north-east wind that has now set in, their luck has somewhat improved. If fair to-day, the little Volunteer will make a start after the Miranda and Era.

The four-masted ship Crofton Hall left yesterday, at 11 a.m., for Calcutta, in ballast.

The s.s. Quiraing left Melbourne at 1.15 p.m. on November 7, entered Sydney Heads at 10 p.m. on November 9, and arrived alongside company's wharf at 10.45 p.m. Experienced E. to north easterly winds to Gabo Island, with heavy easterly swell; thence moderate N.E. and northerly winds and fine weather, with easterly swell, to Sydney Heads.

The following sailings for Sydney are reported:—Mobile Bay from Sharpness, October 4; Hartfield, Captain Thompson, October 3, from London; Scottish Glens, October 3, from London; Andrew Welsh, October 2, from Glasgow; Ashleigh Brook (s.), from London, September 30; Woodlark, barque, Captain Addison, from London, October 30; Murrumbidgee (s.), from London October 28; Fifeshire (s.), Captain Miller, from London, October 28.

Not alone does the Orient Company's greyhound of the Pacific, the Ormuz, claim to have beaten everything to Australia for time, but on this last trip she lays claim to the record for the largest number of passengers. She is reported to have arrived this trip with 843 passengers on board.

The Ormuz reports speaking the British ship Incomar, Calcutta to Salem, U. S. America, 25 days out, passed at 7 a.m. on 27th October, in latitude 4° S., longitude 87·10 E., all well; and the British ship Four Winds, Melbourne to Calcutta, passed at 6.30 p.m. 31st October, in latitude 22·30 S., longitude 101·30 E.

The Simeon, Norwegian barque, loads at New York for New Zealand ports. Loading at London for Sydney, October 5: Cypromene, Captain Robertson, 1834 tons; Eusemere, Captain Windermere, 2651 tons; Lord Canning, Captain Stevenson, 1365 tons; Œnone, Captain Beale, 1437 tons; Trowbridge, Captain Thomson, 1257 tons; Cuzco (s.), Captain Dixon, 2519 tons; Era (s.), Captain Bannatyne, 1550 tons; Gulf of Guinea (s.), Captain Allen, 1540 tons; Victoria (s.), Captain Cates, 3167 tons. Loading for Sydney at Liverpool, October 5: Astoria, Captain Moignard, 1428 tons; Lady Palmerston, 1247 tons.

The harbour was by no means covered with a lavish display of bunting yesterday. The shipping as a whole made no show at all, and it was only here and there that any at decoration was attempted. Just alongside the quay the ships Yallaroi, Trafalgar, and Deveron made a little display, and down the harbour the P. and O. liner Ballarat looked very pretty; but with these and a few other exceptions, the day might have been mistaken for an ordinary Sunday, so meagrely was the flag-flying observed by the ships in port. The men-of-war were not decorated, nor was any salute fired. They attracted a few of the public during the day as visitors, but nothing further. Round the foreshore of Farm Cove crowds of well-dressed people strolled, enjoying the pleasant northeaster, or admiring the new yacht Volunteer, which lay close inshore; and the point at Lady Macquarie's Chair was literally swarmed with children, gambolling on its verdant slopes, or scrambling amongst the rocks down below.

The steamer Gambier left Melbourne November 7 at 3.30 p.m., passed Promontory November 8 at 4.20 a.m., Gabo November 8 at 11.10 p.m., and arrived at Sydney November 9 at 11.50 p.m. Experienced moderate N.E. winds and fine weather.

THE TENTERDEN.

Confirming yesterday's prediction that the A. U. S. N. steamer Tenterden was shaping a course back to this port, the vessel entered the Heads at 2 a.m., and came to an anchor. Some hours later (6 a.m.), in tow of a steamer, she was taken up and berthed alongside Mort's Dock, where she will be repaired. The Tenterden left Sydney on Wednesday last, clearing the Heads soon after 6 p.m., bound to Noumea, Suva, and Levuka with a large general cargo of merchandise and six passengers. She was favoured by having a fresh southerly wind behind her, and was making splendid headway on her course to New Caledonia, when suddenly a break occurred down below in the engine room (the precise nature and extent of the injury could not be ascertained at the works yesterday), and the steamer was brought to a standstill. This was at about midnight of Wednesday, or a little later, and her position was approximately 20 miles to the N.N.E. of Newcastle. The wind was dead in her teeth for returning to Sydney, but sail was set and a start was made under canvas. It may be remembered that about 5 a.m. on Thursday she was spoken by the steamer Leura, Brisbane to Sydney, and refused assistance. At that time she had been four hours under canvas, and every effort was being exerted by her engineers to patch up the machinery sufficiently to steam slowly back to Sydney. Captain Saunders made no signals either of distress or asking for help from the shore when off Newcastle Heads, having determined to save his owners all unnecessary expense possible. After 12 weary hours of hard work, anxiety, and suspense, the cause of the interruption was sufficiently overcome to enable her engines to be set in motion, and they were kept going slowly along the coast until Port Jackson Heads were safely entered. Yesterday being a close holiday at Mort's Dock as elsewhere, nothing could be done in the way of repairs, but no time will be lost in getting her ready to resume her voyage.

COACH ACCIDENT ON THE BEECHWORTH ROAD.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALBURY, FRIDAY.

Late last night a coach, being driven from Beechworth to Albury, conveying 22 firemen engaged to take part in the demonstration held to-day by the Albury Brigade, overturned when coming down Indigo Gap, on the Beechworth-road. A number of the firemen were hurt, and received medical attendance on arrival in Albury at 3 o'clock this morning. One of their number, a man named Fiddes, is supposed to be seriously injured. The coach fell on top of him, and it required the united efforts of all the other passengers to remove him from underneath where he had lain for nearly a quarter of an hour. The accident, which might have been much more serious, occurred at a precipitous part of the road, and was caused by the driver mistaking the road in the dark.

THE STORY OF OUR RAILWAYS.

VI.—THEIR RESULTS.

It is not much more than 40 years since people first began to talk seriously of railways in Australia, and considerably less than that since the first actual effort to make them an existing fact. Although the first sod of the first railway line was turned in 1850, it was not until September 26, 1855, that the line from Sydney to Parramatta was opened, and the railway system of the Australian colonies really inaugurated. This gives our railway history a record of a little more than 30 years, or about the duration of a generation, and 25 years less than the history of English railways—of which the first, from Liverpool to Manchester, was opened in 1830. This term is so short that there are thousands of people in the community who can remember the colony before the era of railways, and who are in a position to contrast its condition then with that of to-day, and, after making the necessary allowance for other factors in the national progress, to form a just estimate of the importance of the railways to the colony, and their results in the shape of national advance and internal development.

When we recall for how long the colony practically consisted of a narrow strip of country along the seaboard, when little was known of its resources and capabilities outside the county of Cumberland, except, perhaps, to the few adventurous spirits who went out on the lands of the country to grow wool and farm sheep, and contrast that state of things with the miles of shining rails and the value of the rolling-stock that bring all parts of the country into the closest intimacy to-day, we begin to realise what a masterful agent the railway train is in the work of colonisation. Widely-separated districts are brought together, a rapid interchange of products is effected, settlement is facilitated because the means of transit and the cost and inconvenience of travelling are lessened, communication becomes more certain as well as more frequent, and the most is made of the capacity for mutual aid and dependence that each portion of the country bears to the others. It was of little avail to the consumer in Sydney in the early days that fertile districts up country lay invitingly open for cultivation, waiting for the seed and the plough, or that the squatter in the interior was able to grow the finest wool in the world, or that coal and iron and tin, to say nothing of the more precious metals that sometimes receive more than their fair share of credit for the country's progress, lay just beneath the surface of the soil in practically inexhaustible stores. For the people who might have gone out on the land to cultivate it, and who had no other means of transit or travel in those days than the heavy bullock drays that played so useful a part in the old picturesque days of the colony's history, knew that before they got their produce to market the cost of freight would swamp all chance of a fair profit on their investment of capital and labour. The gains of the squatter, already sufficiently discounted by the forays of the blacks who still peopled the tracts of country where the shriek of the steam whistle is now familiar enough, and always subject to the deductions caused by droughts and bad seasons, were further curtailed by the difficulty that he had in getting his clip to the seaboard. The old lumbering wool-teams are not quite out of existence yet, of course, but their office is now chiefly to carry the bales from the sheds to the railway station, and the Railway Department does the rest regardless of heavy roads or bad seasons, or the thousand and one causes of irritation and delay that, in the old days, kept the teams for months on the roads. So far as the mineral wealth of the country was concerned, the iron and tin that have since given employment to so many thousands of pounds and so many hundreds of pairs of hands might have lain underground for generations to come in many parts of the colony, if their workers had been compelled to depend on the old means of transit to bring their plant on the ground, or the ores to the smelting furnaces, or the metal itself to market. The turning of the first sod of the first railway line in 1850 was the signal however, for a radical revolution in all these things. The fanciful fabulists whose imagination has delighted to run wild in the marvels of Oriental story, are never so happy as when they are telling of the wonders that follow the waving of some magician's wand, or the utterance of some miraculous spell. Distance and time are annihilated and people travel through the air invisibly, and the appearances of things change with the marvellous rapidity and dazzling effect of some impossible transformation scene. But the marvels of science and of 19th century progress have familiarised the popular mind with the reality of this kind of fanciful fiction, so that the children of the future will perhaps by-and-bye come to regard the miracles that thrilled the children of the past with that calmness which is the irritating property of those to whom marvels are things of everyday, commonplace occurrence. That portion of the story of our railways that deals with their results will go a long way towards effecting this process of disillusionment, for by those long parallels of shining rails, we know that space and time have, comparatively speaking, been annihilated, that the most distant places have been brought together, and that the whole face of the country has been so changed during the past generation as to throw all recorded or imagined facts of magician or necromancer into the shade.

This wonderful change has been as rapid as it has been complete and thorough. At first the progress of the railway system was necessarily somewhat slow. It took more than 10 years, for instance, to lay the lines for a distance of 150 miles. By the end of the next 10 years but little more than another 300 miles had been added. But from 1876 the work of the extension of the railway system of the colony went on in earnest, doubling itself in the first four years, and, thenceforward, going on in a rapidly increasing ratio until it arrived at its present stage of development. Year by year as the work went on the effects made themselves increasingly manifest. Wherever the railway went population was found—not necessarily in the wake of the trains, however, but beyond and around it as a kind of vanguard. For as the rails were laid from one centre of population to another people travelled further and further out, branching further and further from each little local centre, and opening up new country with new facilities for settlement. These soon became the busy centre of attraction to more people, whose numbers, as they increased and multiplied by continual accessions and fresh arrivals, beckoned the railways with their shrill note of advance and their tossing plumes of steam still further into the wilderness, until the silent forest was silent no longer, and men went yet further afield. In this way settlement spread abroad. People were encouraged to go out, because they felt that the nearest railway station was after all the landmark of their peregrinations, and not the capital any longer. They recognised that while they were within reach of a railway line they were in touch with Sydney, and so that timidity that has sometimes been alleged against the average Australian colonist was not too rudely shocked. Our people have always had a rather unfortunate tendency to congregate too closely in the towns and older-settled districts, and though colonial story contains many names of enterprising pioneers, this pioneering spirit is rather characteristic of individuals in the community than of the average Australian immigrants as a class. With us, in a certain sense, and subject to the explanation just given, population may be said to have followed, or more correctly, to have accompanied the railway, and in this way the railway system must be regarded as the chief factor in the development of Australian colonisation.

One of the most natural, and at the same time one of the most marked results of this laying of the lines over new country, and bringing the interior bit by bit into touch with the metropolis, was the increase in the price of land. Country that some time back was almost given away to the squatter as grazing-ground for his sheep—leased at a farthing, or at the best, sold at perhaps a pound per acre—began to acquire a definite value. Interior wilds, where the kangaroo was accustomed to disport himself undisturbed, appeared on the surveyor's maps as town lands, and the plots that formed part of wastes that had once been alienated by the thousand or even by the million acres actually began to acquire an appreciable price per foot. Where population came business followed, and as folk found their business pay they gradually accustomed their minds to the prospect of settling down and rearing their families where the sources of their incomes were. They bought land and built houses, and so the railway enhanced the price of land. Not only in this way did the process work, for, as people saw that increased facilities for getting produce of every kind to market were presented by an actual or probable railway extension, they began to recognise the value of country land for agricultural and other purposes, and so were led to invest capital and labour in this desirable direction. They could afford to make their products cheaper to the consumer, by the decrease in the cost of transit from the field to the market; and in this way both the producer and the consumer were benefited, and the sum of social wealth augmented.

The history of the opening up of the country and of internal communication may be said to begin with the finding of a practicable pass over the Blue Mountains in 1813. The story of that event has been often told. Up to this the town of Sydney, at the head of Farm Cove, with the settlements at Parramatta and on the Nepean and Hawkesbury, and the coal mines at the Hunter River, comprised the whole of the then inhabited portion of Australia. The Dividing Range effectually cut off the rest of the country inland from the knowledge of the early settlers, who formed some wild and not unromantic notions in the first days of colonisation as to what lay beyond. Some spoke of a prosperous city of white men, others of a copper-coloured people, and others again thought that China was accessible in that direction. As people learnt better, the mystery of the unexplored interior still beckoned them inland, and many unsuccessful attempts were made to pass the mountain barrier that stood in the way. It was not until the hope of eventual success was almost given up that Messrs. Wentworth, Blaxland, and Lawson proved the possibility of thus reaching the interior plains. Governor Macquarie lost no time in laying down a road over the track then discovered, and it was along this historic way that settlement first poured down into the Bathurst Plains, and founded the town of that name. The history of this road is the history of early interior settlement in this colony; and its eventual eclipse by the line of railway carried over the Blue Mountains, in the face of the most repellent engineering difficulties, is a typical instance of what occurred all over the colony as each of the great main roads in turn was superseded by the double line of iron rails. The Zigzags on this line have always been objects of interest, even to those of our visitors who have been accustomed to the great railway achievements of other countries. The grandeur of the scenery, the magnitude of the difficulties that have been met with and overcome, and the splendid success that crowned the enterprise and effort that conceived this great scheme and carried it through, may very fairly be taken as representative of the successful results of railway enterprise in New South Wales. "From the Clarence Tunnel to the bottom of the valley," we are told, "there is a descent of 470ft., through a deep and rugged ravine, where formerly there was scarcely footing for the mountain goat, and where the surveyor's assistants had occasionally to be suspended by ropes in the performances of their perilous duties; but human skill and enterprise have opened a pathway through these broken mountain ranges for the railway train that now traverses the sides of the mountains on a gradient of 1 in 42. In the execution of these works, two gigantic masses of rock—the one estimated to contain 40,000 and the other 45,000 tons—had to be blasted; and the contractor, after calculating the cost, determined to call in the aid of electricity for that purpose. For the first mass 3½ tons of blasting powder were employed, and the blast tore the mountain asunder, heaving huge masses of rock into the valley, and leaving the face of the present mountain almost as smooth as if it had been cut with chisels. The removal of the second mass—the blowing up of a tunnel—for which 3½ tons of powder were used, was successfully accomplished also by galvanic agency, the electric spark having been communicated to the powder by the hand of the Countess of Belmore, in the presence of his Excellency the Governor and a large concourse of spectators who had assembled to witness the effect of the explosion." The highest point to which the railway has been carried in New South Wales occurs on this line, at an elevation of 3658ft. above the high-water mark, and the carrying of of the lines over this mountain range, in the face of the peculiar and, as they once seemed, insurmountable obstacles that stood in the way, is an achievement that may be compared with any other example of railway enterprise in the world.

The costly character of this undertaking has, of course, constituted it a heavy charge on the railway returns of the country, and, indeed, it may very fairly be conceded that if the colony contained many more such obstacles to the laying of the rails, we might very wisely have hesitated before continuing the system. But fortunately this has not been the case. The Liverpool Range at Murrurundi and the New England Range near Armidale have offered obstacles of a similar character, though in nothing like a similar degree. These have been coped with and overcome in the same spirit as the former, and with these exceptions, and that of Peat's Ferry and the cutting at Mittagong, it may be said that the task of railway construction in this colony has been comparatively easy. At all events the results have always been sufficiently encouraging to keep the work going on. Nearly every year we have seen something added to our railway system, and a greater or less number of miles opened for traffic. Railway construction halted altogether in 1865 and 1866, and again during the three years from 1872 to 1875, which only saw five miles of line added to the total mileage. But since then the idea of railway extension has received a new impetus, and in the 10 years from 1876 to 1886 1380 miles of new railway line have been thrown open to the use of the public. These figures mean a corresponding increase in the business of the country, in the carriage of goods and the interchange of products, and in some cases in the passenger traffic. Every new mile of railway represents further impetus given to the social life of the population, and another spur to increased enterprise. Every year the number of passengers now carried on our railways moves nearer and nearer from 15 millions carried in 1886, to a total of 20 millions; while in the year named the tonnage of goods carried was stated at 3,218,582. In 1886 the figures stood at £1,310,817 from goods, and £849,253 from passengers. Mails are carried along the railway lines from one end of the colony to the other; and by means of the great trunk lines running north, west, and south, the remotest parts of the country tapped by the railway system are brought into daily communication with each other.

In any general glance at the results of the railway system, the fact of its having linked together the three principal cities of Australia cannot be overlooked. By the extension of our lines to the northern and southern borders, and the co-operation of our intercolonial neighbours on both sides, we have brought ourselves into touch with Melbourne and Adelaide on the one side, and with Brisbane on the other. This is by far the greatest result that the scheme of railway extension projected 30 years ago had to offer, and by the completion of the line to Wallangarra in the early part of this year that scheme was carried out in its entirety. In July, 1888, 2102 miles of railway were in active operation within the colony. The lines ran out to Bourke in the west, to Wallangarra in the north, and to Albury and Jerilderie in the south. Hay is touched by the railway line, and Narrabri is for the present the limit of the north-west extension. Extensions are approved to Moree and to Wilcannia, and quite recently the gap between Sydney and Newcastle has been spanned by a connecting line, the works in connection with which take in the great bridge over the Hawkesbury. The net earnings for 1887 reached an average of £388 per mile.

Comparative figures, however striking, fail to convey any adequate conception of the best results of the railway system. We get an idea of their material advantages when we contrast the old slow and tedious methods of bush travelling with the railway journeys of the present. Formerly we took days to cover ground we now travel in hours, and we waited weeks in bad seasons for news that now reaches us in 24 hours. A journey to Melbourne almost of necessity meant a voyage by sea. The carriage of goods from one part of the country to another cost pounds where it now costs shillings. In a hundred and one ways we experience the results of railway extension every day around us; and if the railways of the colony are not yet what they might be—so expeditious in the transit of goods, or so comfortable for the accommodation of passengers—that is a matter of detail that can be remedied. But the great gain to the colony from our railway system consists in something else besides all this. It lies in the knitting together of common interests and common sympathies throughout the colonies, the formation of a federal spirit, and the ultimate development of a uniform and cordially co-operative sentiment among all the people of Australasia.

THE CATHEDRAL REREDOS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—An act of vandalism is about to be committed in the Cathedral of St. Andrew's, Sydney, and I ask you to allow me, through your columns, to join with Canon Kemmis and other churchmen in their remonstrance and protest against the vandal act. The central figure of the reredos represents the crucifixion of the Christ; and this is to be cut out, cast aside, and dishonoured, to give place to a representation of the transfiguration! And strange to say, sir, this is to be done in the mother church of English Christianity in the colony, and in a building which, since its opening, has been almost under the exclusive guardianship of what is called the evangelical party, who are accredited for making the crucifixion of Christ, or His death upon the cross, the central and great historic fact of their teaching. The panel to be removed—I write reverently and with sorrow—represents "Christ crucified for us." The fact thus represented in sculpture is above all others the unique historic fact of Christianity. It is attested both by enemies and friends, as also by early monumental records of pagan Rome; and this fact above all others is emphasised by all denominations of Christians, and especially by those who claim for themselves the title of evangelical. The symbolical representation of the fact, moreover, either in painted glass or sculpture in churches and cathedrals of the Church of England, has been deemed to be perfectly legal by the highest English Courts which determine such questions. In the fact also of the crucifixion is centred, and from it radiates, all that has quickened humanity into Christian life, and helped to develop Christian character, whilst it has been the attractive magnetic power which has drawn humanity to Christ. "I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me." "When ye have lifted up the Son of Man, then ye shall know that I am He." And He spake this signifying what death he should die.

I ask then, sir, in the name of all that is rational and fitting, if any fact of the life of the Redeemer of humanity, from a Christian's point of view, is represented in our places of Christian worship, what fact above all others so deserves to be, and should so commend itself? To a Christian, it should be of all facts the most precious to hear of in words and see represented, when such representations are legitimate, and where the question, as in this case, is reduced to one of the choice of subjects for representation. Once admit any painted or sculptured representation of Christ, and that above all others should commend itself as first, as it is, and always should be, the central. And yet, by a strange incongruity, or paradox, the very class or section of men who talk so glibly about the "dear cross of Christ," and point men to an uplifted human Saviour, and the duty of always keeping the historic fact of his crucifixion prominently before men, clamour for the removal of what, above all other representations in Christian assemblies, would aid perpetually and forcibly the doing so. And be it observed that this is being done at a time when men are not remembering Christ, but forgetting Him, save as an historic myth or idea—not prone to superstition and credulity, but disposed to scoffing and infidelity—not disposed to multiply deities and idols, but to cast them down. They cry, Down with the representation of the crucifixion to substitute for the central and fundamental fact of Christianity the representation of the transfiguration of Christ, which has no comparative historic or doctrinal importance. This is shown by the Church in her creeds; for whilst she carefully recites the one fact, she omits the other. If true to principle, (and in the first instance objection was taken) to the whole reredos, as your files will show, it had been demanded that the whole reredos should be removed, and a return made to the defaced wall of an historic past, there would have been consistency in the demand. But to exact the substitution of one representation for another—to cut down the already erected panel embracing the crucified Christ, to put up a representation of the transfiguration—to remove the more important memorial to give place to the less important, would appear as childish, if it were not really the act of sensible men. In this case, however, it is worse, for it is trifling with principle, and travestying truth. Here, there can be no compromise. And to say that this is being done through fear of the one representation leading to idolatry, whilst the other will be harmless to men and women idolatrously disposed, may be honestly said, but it is a reproach on the intelligence of the community who are asked to believe it, and that by men who claim at times, especially in matters of religion, a more than ordinary share of enlightenment.

There is one aspect more of this unhappy act which I allude to with regret before concluding. The Bishop of Sydney, sir, not wishing to wound the consciences of objectors, and in "the interests of peace" (as they pleaded), consented to an act, or left with others to do, what many regard (and amongst them some of his best friends) as the weakest administrative act of his now episcopal life. He has shown consideration which should have stayed the objectors' hands and their "axes and hammers"; but none is being shown for him, and his humiliation and their triumph is to be perpetuated. But the act will do more than this. It will record, also, exacting and ungenerous treatment on the part of those who have demanded this act of vandalism, and what will, in the end, do, as all such acts inevitably do, harm, if not irreparable injury, to the cause and principles they so zealously desire to maintain. History repeats itself, and all acts like the one now to be perpetrated react on their exactors, whilst they discredit and damn the cause in the supposed interest of which they are done. There are triumphs, also, that are short, and mostly so when we press advantage or victory too far.

I owe an apology to you for this demand which is made on your valuable space, but the action to which it refers affects principles and Christian liberties, and gives pain to so many that it requires from those who protest against it the doing so with much plainness and straightforwardness.

I am, &c., E. M. SALINIERE,
Incumbent of St. John's, Bishopthorpe.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The writer of the leading article in your issue of to-day has fallen into the common error of imagining we Protestants think people worship the actual images figured in the reredos. Let me hasten to say we are not foolish enough to think anything of the sort. I do not believe there ever lived a man who worshipped wood or stone. The ordinary heathen do not, and I presume no one will suggest the Ritualistic frequenters of the Cathedral are less well informed than, say, the ancient Egyptians. Heathen nations do not worship the idols themselves; what they do is to worship the deities represented by the idols through the images set up in their temples. Let me illustrate my meaning by the case of the sun worship practised among the Cushites of the East and described by the great Jewish traveller, Benjamin, of Tudela. He tells us: "There is a temple of the posterity of Cus, addicted to the contemplation of the stars. They worship the sun as a god, and the whole country for half a mile round their town is filled with great altars dedicated to him. By the dawn of morn they get up and run out of the town to wait the rising sun, to whom on every altar there is a consecrated image, not in the likeness of man, but of a solar orb, framed by magic art." Now, it would be folly to say these heathens worshipped the image of the sun erected on the altar and confounded it with the sun itself, for they knew perfectly well the sun was in the heavens and would be revealed in due time. So no Protestant I ever met imagines Ritualists think a piece of marble actually the body of Christ, for such an idea would not merely be puerile, it would be idiotic. These are, however, not a few who believe some Ritualists worship Christ through the mediumship of the carved figure, and this they think is reprehensible. The insignificance of idols, as such, was clearly recognised by the apostle Paul, for he says, "We know that an idol is nothing in the world." And if the gods worshipped by the heathen were merely human creations instead of representations of things existing in the realm of nature, or supposed to exist in the unknown spiritual world, why should Paul go on to talk about false gods existing in heaven as well as on earth? When Moses delivered the decalogue it was given to a people surrounded by the kind of idolatry I have been attempting to describe. To my mind, the very wording of the second commandment proves God wished to guard his people, not against an idolatry of unheard-of grossness—the worshipping of their own creations—but the worshipping of things already existing through the mediumship of their own creations. Thus they are commanded not to make to themselves the likeness of anything that is in heaven above or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth. Why should these be specified if the danger lay in the idolatrous worship of things invented by themselves?

I shall probably be reminded of Isaiah xliv., 17, but surely the "Deliver me, for Thou art my God," is addressed to that which is behind the idol, and not to the idol itself. I have but a word to add. I have not rushed into print for the pleasure of opposing, but for the sake of eliciting information. I have stated my views with as much definiteness as I have at my command, but I do not claim infallibility for them. Of one thing I am convinced: The calm and friendly discussion of such points as the one under consideration cannot fail to produce good; hence my intrusion upon your own patience and that of your readers.

THE MISSING LAUNCH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Some two months ago correspondence appeared in your columns under the above heading. Permit me, through the same valued channel, to state that boiler and engines of the steam launch Mabel are already back again in Sydney, and that the hull leaves Brisbane for Sydney either in the Victoria next week, or in this steamer (Birksgate) on its return trip. The loan of the launch, and the work it did in New Guinea (for the promised report upon which we await the new Administrator's—Dr. Macgregor—convenience), were, I venture to believe, merely acts in accordance with the traditional policy of New South Wales—parent of the Australias—ever foremost in enterprise and exploration. Sir Henry Parkes's sympathy with the cause of discovery will ever remain to me an indelible recollection.

I am, &c.,

NOTES EXPLANATORY OF MAP.

In the list of stations, the column headed W.T. gives the state of the weather at 9 a.m., b standing for blue sky; c, detached clouds; d, drizzling rain; f, fog; g, gloomy; h, hazy; m, misty; n, frosty; o, overcast; p, passing showers; r, rain; s, snow; t, thunder; u, threatening. The next column, M'x., gives the maximum temperature for previous 24 hours. M'n. the corresponding minimum temperature; R'n. the rain for the previous 24 hours. The symbols used in the map are explained on the margin. At each station the wind symbol points to the direction in which the wind is blowing, is in fact an arrow flying with the wind. A clear circle with it means fine weather, a circle with bar, cloudy weather, and a black spot, raining. Next to this symbol are placed figures denoting the number of miles the wind is moving per hour. Next, a symbol showing the state of the sea; and, lastly, figures denoting the shade temperature at 9 a.m. The barometer curve shows the state of barometers round the coast from Perth to Cooktown:—Pt. Perth; Ay. Albany; Ea. Eucla; CB. Cape Borda; A. Adelaide; Ro. Robe; P. Portland; M. Melbourne; WP. Wilson's Promontory; Go. Gabo; E. Eden; Ma. Moruya; CG. Jervois Bay; WG. Woollongong; S. Sydney; N. Newcastle; PM. Port Macquarie; C. Clarence River; B. Brisbane; R. Rockhampton; Ct. Cooktown. Inland, the state of barometer is given in figures at Albury, Deniliquin, Wentworth, Menindie, Bourke, and Alice Springs. The barometer curve enables one at a glance to trace the depressions, beginning with Western Australia, and passing along eastwards northerly winds preceding them, and southerly following.

The rainfall on Sundays and holidays, when the map is not published, is in all cases included in the quantities shown by the next following map.

SYNOPSIS.

POLICE.

Mr. Johnson, S.M., presided at the CENTRAL POLICE COURT yesterday morning. William Goff, 23, cabman, was charged with assaulting Bridget Casey, and robbing her of a bag containing £6 2s. 6d. and a handkerchief, the property of John Casey. The magistrate committed the prisoner for trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions. Margaret Cummings, 57, no occupation, for using obscene language in King-street, was fined £5, or three months' imprisonment. Walter H. Packwood, 32, clerk, was charged by warrant with fraudulently embezzling the sum of £7 18s. 10d., the monies of his employer, John Horrocks. The magistrate remanded the case till Wednesday. James Byrnes, 26, carpenter, was charged with assaulting William Gray, in company with others, and robbing him of a silver watch, a piece of cord, and a breast pin, valued in all at £2. The case was remanded until Monday. Ellen M'Allister, 33, for using obscene language in Pitt-street, was fined £3, or one month's imprisonment. Robert Drummond, 36, iron-moulder, was charged with unlawfully leaving his wife, Mary Drummond, without sufficient means of support. The accused was ordered to pay £1 per week for 12 months, together with 5s. 10d. costs.

Mr. Fisher, S.M., presided in the Charge Division of the WATER POLICE COURT. Hassan Abdurrahman, 40, seaman, was brought up by warrant, and charged with wilful disobedience to lawful commands on board the British registered ship Ballaarat. The prisoner pleaded not guilty, and the case was remanded until Monday. John Harrison, 24, labourer, for behaving in a riotous manner in the bar of the Naval Brigade Hotel, George-street, whilst open to the public, was fined 20s., levy and distress, or seven days' imprisonment. Kate Devar, or Pearce, 19, married, and Henry Pearce, 22, baker, were charged with stealing 13 plates, nine knives, six forks, six spoons, a saltcellar, and one pair of socks, valued at £2 10s., the property of Arthur Barlow. The case was remanded until Tuesday.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

MARSHALL'S "TONIC NERVINE" is now Universally Acknowledged to be a Wonderful Remedy for Nervous and General Debility, Nervous Prostration, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, Nervous Headache, Diabetes, Lassitude, Impaired Nutrition, Neuralgia, Hypochondria, Loss of Energy and Appetite, Female Complaints, Dizziness, Noises in the Head and Ears, Loss of Vital Power, Alcoholic Craving, Premature Decline, Impoverished Blood, Impaired Sight and Memory, Consumption in its early stages, Effects of Youthful Indiscretions, Mania, and all diseased conditions of the system proceeding from Deficiency of Nerve Force. A few doses speedily afford relief, whilst a course effects a permanent cure. Innumerable instances emphatically testify to the truth of this statement. Thousands of testimonials invite the afflicted to test it for themselves.

EACH DROP IS WORTH A DROP OF GOLD.

There is no remedy like Marshall's Tonic Nervine for Female Complaints. Every female should have a bottle ready at hand, because for Irregularities, &c., it surpasses all others. As the nervous system is the mainspring of human vigour and healthful regularity, so where this complicated organism is deranged, acts with a precision and curative effect like the day spring dispersing the shades of night. The whole organic system, which depends upon the nerves for its streams of electric force, is recuperated and renewed with this Great Vitaliser. The muscles rebound with the energy of youth, appetite and healthful condition follow. The skin becomes bright and clear, and the winter of disease is made summer by the glorious sun of health. Thousands of restored patients everywhere gladly support the forcible truth of these assertions, and one trial will render certainty doubly sure.
MARSHALL'S TONIC NERVINE
MARSHALL'S TONIC NERVINE
is sold by all chemists and storekeepers, and is PREPARED ONLY BY MARSHALL BROTHERS, Authors of "The Tonic System and its Value in Treating Disease."
SYDNEY, NEW SOUTH WALES. LONDON, ENGLAND.

N.B.—BEWARE OF DISHONEST IMITATIONS.

Purchasers must insist upon having the genuine article supplied, and not allow a dangerous substitute to be foisted upon them for the sake of the vendor's extra profit.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE

BEECHAM'S PILLS
BEECHAM'S PILLS
BEECHAM'S PILLS

are universally admitted to be worth a Guinea a Box for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy and Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The first dose will give relief in twenty minutes. This is no fiction, for they have done it in countless cases.

Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try one Box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be

WORTH A GUINEA A BOX
WORTH A GUINEA A BOX
WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For females of all ages they are invaluable. No female should be without them. There is not a medicine to be found equal to them for removing any obstruction or irregularity of the system. If taken according to the directions given with each box, they will soon restore females of all ages to sound and robust health. This has been proved by thousands who have tried them, and found the benefits which are ensured by their use.

BEECHAM'S PILLS.
BEECHAM'S PILLS.
BEECHAM'S PILLS.

For a weak stomach, impaired digestion, and all disorders of the liver, they act like magic, and a few doses will be found to work wonders on the most important organs in the human machine. They strengthen the whole muscular system, restore the long lost complexion, bring back the keen edge of appetite, and arouse into action with the rosebud of health the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are facts testified continually by members of all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the nervous and debilitated is, BEECHAM'S PILLS HAVE THE LARGEST SALE of any patent medicine in the world.

BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS.

As a remedy for Coughs in general, Asthma, Bronchial Affections, Hoarseness, Shortness of Breath, Tightness and Oppression of the Chest, &c., these Pills stand unrivalled. They are the best ever offered to the public, and will speedily remove that sense of oppression and difficulty of breathing which nightly deprives the patient of rest. Let any person give BEECHAM'S COUGH PILLS a trial, and the most violent cough will in a short time be removed.

Prepared only, and sold wholesale and retail, by the proprietor, THOMAS BEECHAM, St. Helen's, Lancashire, England; and by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Vendors everywhere.

LIVERPOOL EAST.

THIS COMMANDING ESTATE, is now, by SPECIAL ACT OF PARLIAMENT, OPENED to the Public,
and SUBDIVIDED into LARGE BUSINESS
and RESIDENCE SITES, by
BOYD and KING,
Auctioneers.

THE LIVERPOOL STATION is adjacent to the land, and the business frontages absolutely face the MAIN ROAD.

THIS LAND is THE KEY
of the
COMMANDING DISTRICT of HOLSWORTHY, and the unlocking of this much-coveted property has proved THE EVENT
of the
CENTENNIAL YEAR.

This property proves to be the main artery through which the traffic from Liverpool to Illawarra will flow; and immediately you leave the RAILWAY STATION
you come upon the LUXURIANT PASTURE LAND, which will soon be a busy streets of Shops and Houses.

This Property is purely the poor man's road to riches,

as it can be sold at prices ridiculously low,
and
Terms the easiest ever offered.

The following brief facts may mean the commencement of the foundation of a Fortune.

All the main traffic between Sydney and Melbourne passes through this district.

The limpid waters of the George's River preclude all fear of the monster Drought.

The Business Frontages must in a very short time go up five hundred per cent.

The Main Streets will be busy with Markets, Stores, and places of Business.
Investors, Builders, and those who wish to make money out of small investments quickly, as well as those who wish to reside in a picturesque spot, can find no better opportunity.
Every facility for Boating, Bathing, and Fishing Picnics, and all within a short run of the metropolis, away from the turmoil of city life, but commanding all the facilities of civilisation.
The most distant allotment is within seven minutes' walk of the Railway Station.

There is no question but that this Estate will be covered with houses very shortly, and would have been years ago had it been open to the public.

There is no waiting for years for a railway to be built, and population to increase. Shops will be let as soon as they are erected.
Remember that this land is near the station and that the surrounding property has nearly all been sold, and vineyards, orchards, and market gardens for which this land is so noted are springing up on every side.

Special facilities are offered for inspection and plans are now ready, so that intending purchasers may carefully study the advantages of the various locations.
The auctioneers' advice is for you to inspect all other properties advertised, but do not buy until you have seen
LIVERPOOL EAST.

Sales are being made daily, but it is intended to hold an auction sale of the unsold portion at an early date; but the reserve price will exceed that for which the land can now be bought.

Those who study their own and children's welfare will at once inspect and secure some of these BONANZA ALLOTMENTS.

Note the Size.
Blocks 30ft. frontage
130 depths.
Roads, all 66ft. wide;
and
Terms, the liberality of which have never before been attempted.

CITY OF SYDNEY.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

MAGNIFICENT FREEHOLD PROPERTY in the very heart of the CITY,
in GEORGE-STREET,
the main artery, the Fashionable and Commercial Thoroughfare.

An Exceptional Opportunity to acquire a Splendid Patrimony of an EVER-INCREASING VALUE.

HARDIE and GORMAN have been instructed to SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION at their Rooms,
No. 133, PITT-STREET, SYDNEY,
on WEDNESDAY, the 28th day of NOVEMBER NEXT, a BLOCK of LAND, having a frontage to George-street of 180ft. 9in. by a depth varying from 148ft. to 119ft., with a frontage to Underwood-street at the rear.

TORRENS' TITLE.

TERMS:
5 per cent. deposit, 5 per cent. in three months, 5 per cent. in six months, 5 per cent. in nine months, 5 per cent. in one year, and the balance in four years. Interest at 5½ per cent.

In announcing this fine property, the Auctioneers desire to call attention to the following facts:—

The land is upon the eastern, which is the more valuable and more thronged side of the street. It is but a few yards from the site for the city terminus of the railway system, and is upon the same side. It is on the route to the North Shore Bridge, which will enormously augment the traffic in George-street. It is close to the Circular Quay, where the largest ocean steamers come alongside. The chief Government offices, the great wool warehouses, the Custom-houses, banks and insurance offices, the Exchange, and principal shipping houses are in the neighbourhood. The offices of the P. and O. Company are nearly opposite. Those of the Orient Company, the Australasian United, British-India, and the Adelaide S. N. Companies are within a stone's throw. A line of cable trams will pass the door, and countless omnibuses now ply from the suburbs to the Circular Quay.

The city of Sydney is built upon a narrow peninsula, half of which consists of a continuous series of parks, which as effectually shut off the business portion of the city as if it were an island. One street only bisects the city from end to end, and thus constitutes the main artery, to which all other streets by necessity lead, for this George-street is the only entrance to the city by land. It contains most of the principal banks, the town-hall, and municipal offices, the cathedral, the general post-office, two markets, the chief mining exchange, and the majority of the shops and retail warehouses. Many of these stores are extremely successful. One firm is reputed to do a purely cash retail trade of £1,000,000 sterling per annum. Another pays a rental of nearly £10,000 a year, and is rich and prosperous. Leases are eagerly sought for, and are but seldom obtainable, for the tradespeople are solid and well-to-do. A dense traffic flows past their doors, and from the conformation of the city it can never be diverted. The site of the land herein described, from its contiguity to the railway, the trams, the omnibuses, the North Shore bridge, and the ferries, will shortly become the best conceivable site for a giant emporium. Certainly also for a long row of first-class shops.

Beyond the parks on the one side, and across the harbour on the other, stretch the suburbs, the whole aggregating a population of about 400,000 souls. Sydney differs from Melbourne in that the area upon which the city proper is built is small and completely circumscribed. Thus it resembles New York. In a few years it will be as densely crowded as the latter, and the most congested part will be on and around the land hereby offered for sale. It will be worth as much per square foot as land in the choicest parts of London.

Sydney is the chief maritime city of the Southern Hemisphere. In tonnage and external trade it is the fourth port of the British Empire. The whole of the commerce of the vast territory of New South Wales, and all its railways, centre in Sydney. The terminus of these railways will be close to, and on the same side of the street, as the property herein described. Possessing coal deposits of boundless extent, reached in every direction—north, south, and west—by rail, she supplies with coal all the other colonies, besides a large portion of India, China, Japan, and the Pacific coast of North and South America. Her mines of silver, tin, copper, and gold are of world-wide fame. Of merino sheep she counts 35,000,000, being a greater number than the sheep of the rest of the Australian colonies and New Zealand added together, 10,000,000 more than all the sheep of the United States, and more than all the sheep of Great Britain twice told. Her agricultural, pastoral, and manufacturing industries need not be descanted upon. Sydney shipped last year an increase of 76,000 bales of wool as compared with the previous year. This season, so far, the amount coming forward is immensely greater than ever. That industry is well rewarded may be judged from the fact of the Newcastle miners, about 6000 men, in receipt of wages varying from £3 to £5 per week, having struck for better pay. And one of their masters recently admitted publicly that he had netted a quarter million sterling from his mine in seven years.

The value of freehold properties in Sydney increases by "leaps and bounds," and has never receded. Bearing in mind the future of this great city, situate on a harbour in which could be hidden all the navies of the world, and whose beauty has passed into a proverb, the auctioneers earnestly draw the attention of Banks, Mortgage and Agency Companies, Insurance Offices, Mercantile Houses, Capitalists, and Investors to this unequalled opportunity of obtaining a central and unexceptionable property, whose value will be always augmented by the derivable revenue, and by unearned increment.

The property contains about half an acre, with a frontage at the rear to Underwood-street, which street contains Messrs. Gibbs, Bright, and Co.'s palatial warehouses, Canada-buildings, and Queen's-chambers, all new, lofty, and substantial structures. Such another block of land is not obtainable in George-street, and it presents a unique opportunity for an investor to subdivide a central city property into a number of smaller holdings. Because of testamentary arrangements, in addition to the circumstances already stated, very little land changes hands in Sydney, and a chance like the present may not occur again during many years. The title being Torrens' is important.

A number of old stone and brick buildings have been removed. But pretty shops, each three stories, in one block, occupy about one-eighth of the area. These were built about seven years since in substantial manner, of excellent materials, and would sustain other stories. The fronts are faced with Pyrenees marble, and the condition throughout is fresh and perfect.

The Auctioneers have had several applications for leases of these shops, singly, and all four, at satisfactory rentals; but the vendors prefer to leave the property clear of leases. Immediately after the sale tenants can be found for the whole, as shops are much sought after in this locality.

The value of the land, present and prospective, of course immensely outweighs in consideration the fact of the present buildings, yet they can be utilised if desired. The great depth allows of the two frontages being separately treated.

The site is unsurpassed for a large hotel, of 400 to 500 rooms. After providing a suitable entrance to the hotel, the George-street frontage could be divided into 12 fine shops. An eight-table billiard room and extensive restaurant could be provided in the basement, the floor of which would be on a level with Underwood-street at the rear. The ground floor would be on a plane with George-street. The whole basement is already excavated, and is solid sandstone rock. The drainage is perfect, and no building difficulties can arise. Warehouses could be erected upon the Underwood-street frontage. The whole would produce a rental of £18,000 to £20,000 a year.

The site is amongst the choicest for great mercantile or financial concerns. It is now clear of leases or any cause of delay.

MAGNIFICENT RIVERINA FREEHOLD.

THE BURRABOGIE ESTATE.

HILL, CLARK, and CO. (with Powers, Rutherford, and Co., of Melbourne) have received instructions from the Proprietor Fitz-William Wentworth, Esq., to offer for sale by public auction, at Scott's Hotel, Melbourne,
on THURSDAY, 13th December, 1888, at 3 O'CLOCK p.m.,
THAT MAGNIFICENT PASTORAL PROPERTY, BURRABOGIE,
situated in the Murrumbidgee District of New South Wales.

This splendid property consists of 250,000 acres of purchased Land
47,616 ditto leasehold area
25,000 ditto resumed ditto, together with 157,108 mixed sheep (more or less) of the following ages and sexes:—

WETHERS.	EWES.
23,046 wethers, Weinteriga and Capaulin bred	7,586 ewes, 6 years
7,868 ditto, Nundoro bred	6,180 ditto, 5 ditto
13,279 ditto, 4-tooth station bred	13,863 ditto, 4 ditto
16,542 ditto, 2-tooth, station bred	12,248 ditto, 2 ditto
40,400 weaners	12,332 ditto, 1 ditto
1,100 rams	1,550 first stude
	1,114 second ditto.
102,235	54,873

Also, 90 head cattle, and 120 horses.

The name of BURRABOGIE, which is recognised as that of one of the most magnificent properties in Australia, should be alone sufficient to guarantee purchasers desiring to invest large amounts of capital in a most paying security.

The country is not to be surpassed for wool-growing and fattening stock.

The BURRABOGIE SHEEP are equal to any in the colony, the station-bred wethers this year cutting over nine pounds of fleece wool; and the fat sheep always command the highest prices in either Sydney or Melbourne markets.

Besides its excellence for wool-growing and fattening, the country is admirably adapted and peculiarly situated for agriculture, as it can be easily irrigated by the waters of the Murrumbidgee, to which it has 22 miles frontage, an irrigation plant being now in use.

The IMPROVEMENTS are most complete. In fact, nothing has been left undone, nor has expense been spared to have everything substantial and of the most useful nature, and in thorough working order.

In offering this choice Property, the AUCTIONEERS confidently invite inspection, and draw the attention of intending purchasers, capitalists, and others to the fact that it is most favourably situated for either the Sydney or Melbourne markets, being only 22 miles from Hay, 15 miles from Carrathool, and 6 miles from Benbula Railway Stations.

THE EVENT on SATURDAY, 17th NOVEMBER, is Edgehill Sale, between Kogarah and Carlton Stns. (3470)

ESTATE OF LATE W. R. PIDDINGTON, ESQ., M.L.C.

CHARMING SPOT, MOUNT VICTORIA.

NEW COTTAGE VILLA, and 73 ACRES, long known as the well-chosen position of the late proprietor, who for years had been preparing the grounds, especially the glen, by the formation, at considerable expense, of A LARGE ARTIFICIAL LAKE, which is a feature of interest in the view; yet, apart from that, the elements of practical utility and bathing delights can be enjoyed from it.

THE MATCHLESS MOUNT VICTORIA, and is only an easy walk from station. It possesses a variety of surface features peculiar to the altitude of the district, and if deemed too large could be parcelled off for sale into smaller areas to suit buyers.

THE COTTAGE RESIDENCE, commenced in the lifetime of the late proprietor, has recently been completed from plans, and under supervision of J. Horbury Hunt, Esq., architect, which will vouch for faithful construction. It has been designed for comfort, and is built of brick on stone foundation, and contains large accommodation, full particulars of which will be given in a future advertisement.

⁂ It is widely known that the late Mr. Piddington was quite enthusiastic in the good work of procuring many valuable reserves and grand look-out spots for the benefit of the public, and was rewarded with a trusteeship thereof, so that approaches and necessary surroundings might be formed to give pleasure and safety to tourists from this and distant lands.

INSPECTION STRONGLY INVITED.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH, instructed by the Trustees under the Will, will sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 30th NOVEMBER, at 11 o'clock,
The late Mr. Piddington's new COTTAGE VILLA and 73 ACRES, Mount Victoria, in a choice situation, convenient to the railway station. (3522)

GLEBE POINT, easily reached by tram, omnibus, and steamer.

A Beautiful Position.
Elevated, thereby commanding Wide and Pretty Views.
First-class Surroundings.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, on FRIDAY, 30th November, at 11 o'clock, EDESBURG and GLENLEA, two detached, substantial, and well-finished residences, fitted with family conveniences; gas and water laid on; mantels and hearths are marble; glass chandeliers, folding doors; vegetable and flower gardens.
They front MARY-STREET, a few yards east of Glebe Point-road with a great depth extending to a reserve along the waters of Glebe Point.

IN TWO LOTS.
Full particulars will appear in future advertisement.
J. URQUHART, Esq., is the Solicitor for the owner. (3536)

KILOURGEN.

TOWN of MOSSVALE.

A HANDSOME VILLA RESIDENCE and GROUNDS, very favourably situated, in an elevated position, with avenue entrance from the main road, in about the centre of the town.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the Trustees to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, PITT-STREET, on FRIDAY, 30th NOVEMBER,
at 11 o'clock,
All that piece of Freehold LAND, containing 1 acre 2 roods 12 perches, being Lots 11 and 27 of Section 1, Morrice's Subdivision, Town of Mossvale, together with the improvements theron, comprising a tastefully-designed brick-built GOTHIC VILLA, containing verandah, lobby and 5 rooms, a large detached WEATHERBOARD BUILDING formerly in use as a schoolroom, detached kitchen and outbuildings, underground water-reservoir, &c.

⁂ KILOURGEN VILLA was designed and erected by Mr. Architect Mansfield. It has ample accommodation for a small family, and is admirably adapted, from its favourable central position, for the residence of a professional man, or for a school.
The site has a frontage of 66ft. to the business portion of the main road, and 132ft. to a good road running parallel at the back, and is close to the railway station, post and telegraph offices, banks, and principal business establishments.
CARDS to view can be obtained at the Rooms, or from E. H. BADGERY, Auctioneer, Mossvale.
TITLE, TORRENS ACT. TERMS LIBERAL. (3520)

RARE OPPORTUNITY.

VALUABLE CITY PROPERTY.

GRAND KEY CORNER,

in a most central and valuable position, with one of the best constructed Buildings in the CITY OF SYDNEY, and therefore specially recommended to the notice of CAPITALISTS, PUBLIC COMPANIES, SPECULATORS, and Others.

BOOMERANG AND WILLIAM STREETS.

THE KEY CORNER, leading to the eastern division of the city, and to the many outlying suburbs, growing in importance, and including the most fashionable portions.

COWPER WHARF,

is to be greatly enlarged by ample jetties, and so provide accommodation for extensive shipping, sure to be attracted to this coming second CIRCULAR QUAY. This development and the projected SCHEME OF CABLE TRAMWAYS, to lead from King-street to Ocean-street, will pass this corner, a stopping place of which may naturally be expected at this spot, will materially enhance the value of the situation, and it is represented to be a MAGNIFICENT CORNER for HOTEL, COFFEE PALACE, or BANK.
The main street frontage could be almost wholly let off, apart from the immense capacity of the building, which is SIX (6) FLOORS IN HEIGHT.

All the ceilings are lofty, and the structure second to none for its substantial character, having been erected regardless of cost, under the able supervision of Messrs. M'Credie Brothers.

It is now distinguished as the SUPERIOR WAREHOUSE
and CABINET SHOW-ROOMS,
the largest in Sydney, of and occupied by the well-known firm of JAMES LAWSON and SONS,
Cabinetmakers and Upholsterers.

The Land has 72¼FT. to WILLIAM-STREET, depth of 96ft. back to Smedley-lane, to which there is also a large frontage, and by it easy working of premises is carried on, aided by a lift worked with a 6-h.p. gas engine. The extensive cellars are asphalted and dry.

This property could be profitably employed for a VARIETY of needed useful PURPOSES, and is in the active part of the city.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH will sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on FRIDAY, 30th November, at 11 o'clock,
The above.
Inspection is invited any day. (3505)

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE,
FRIDAY, 30th NOVEMBER.

GLENVIEW, SUTTON FOREST.
A favourably-situated Country House, with highly-improved Grounds and Park of 63a., on the main road, between Hillview (the Governor's country residence) and the Moss Vale railway station, distant about 1½ mile from the latter.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from R. P. Richardson, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 30th NOVEMBER, at 11 o'clock.
The above well-known country property adjoining Mount Broughton, the estate and residence of H. E. Kater, Esq.
GLENVIEW HOUSE is a commodious, substantial, remarkably well-finished brick-built residence, dry, perfectly drained, and fitted with every family convenience. The site is rising ground, surrounded and sheltered by numerous basaltic hills, and commanding views of very pleasing English-like scenery, including a vista of the Medway Rivulet Valley, extending to the trap ridges of Vine Lodge, the estate of Messrs. Badgery Brothers.

⁂ GLENVIEW is a well-appointed family residence and park, on the coast range, 2300ft. above sea level—the most popular and healthy district in the colony—and is also adapted, from extent and position, for a medical sanatorium or an educational establishment.
The Melbourne Express calls at the Moss Vale Station.
TITLE, Torrens' Act. TERMS—One-third cash, residue at 5 per cent.

SPLENDID CHANCE.

TO THEATRE MANAGERS.

PROVIDERS OF PUBLIC AMUSEMENT, SPECULATORS, AND OTHERS.

CENTRAL SPOT at HAYMARKET,
In view of and almost touching George-street.

CAMPBELL-STREET, near CORNER.

Right in the throng of the immense PASSENGER and VEHICULAR TRAFFIC that pours past the spot, and any wise caterer for public amusements discerning the value of this position, both for its VISIBILITY and CENTRALITY, could erect a Building, and not fail to be rewarded with a large patronage. It may be said to be the very valuable for the dense population they contain, notably Surry Hills, Strawberry Hills, Redfern, Chippendale, Glebe, and Ultimo, quite irrespective of the numerous thousands transported by train and 'bus, who find their only route past this land.
CENTRE OF MANY SURROUNDINGS

No large purchase-money required to buy the Fee-simple of the Property.
It will be sold upon a 30 YEARS' LEASE, with easy Building Covenant, and the rental will be determined at auction, and remain the same per annum all through the long term of years.
Here is a chance at the further outlay only of cost of Building to get a splendid

SHOP PROPERTY AT NORTH SHORE.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17,
on the Ground.

Faithfully built
BRICK SHOP and DWELLING,
Holtermann-street.

The Premises above referred to have only been erected within the past 12 months, and comprise a large Shop and 5 rooms, exclusive of kitchen, pantries, &c. The property is situate in the very thick of population, and within a few minutes' walk of the tramway. Any class of business may be successfully carried on, but the premises were more especially built for a butcher—in that particular line a good opening presents itself—or a general store or draper. As a speculation capitalists cannot go wrong, as the investment will always return good interest.
